From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh
No News Like True News
Nothing makes a newspaper editor happier than a "scoop." But it seems to me some editors overdo it now and then.
Last week, for example, an editor claimed his paper was the first in his city to report the Mayor's "impending retirement." But, judging from the next day's edition of the same paper, the Mayor had other ideas.
As a result, the lead editorial in that newspaper then started off like this: "We are glad to be the first paper in the city to inform our public that the story of the Mayor's retirement is just a rumor."
From where I sit, facts and truth always win out, no matter how you disguise them. That goes for newspapers as well as for neighbors. For instance, your choice of beverage may be a glass of iced tea . . . mine is an occasional glass of beer. Now each of us could make up quite a "story" about which of us is right. But the fact is we're both right—now let's just respect each other's point of view.

Enjoy Baked Apples A New Way

Glazed to perfection and so delicious, these rosy apples will set the whole family singing. Serve them warm with cream for tonight's dessert. Here's the new trick: Instead of baking the apples, simmer them on top of the range in a syrup of fruit-flavored gelatin spiced with cinnamon and cloves. You'll like this new way to achieve a more perfect glaze and flavorsome baked apple.

Rosy Glazed Apples

1 package (3 ozs.) strawberry-flavored gelatin
1 package (3 ozs.) apple-flavored gelatin
1⅓ cups boiling water
1 cup cold water
6 large red baking apples
1 large stick cinnamon
6 whole cloves

Dissolve 2 packages of gelatin in 1⅓ cups boiling water. Add 1 cup cold water. Core apples. Starting at stem end, pare off a 1-inch strip of skin around each apple. Place apples, stem up, in a large skillet.

Pour gelatin syrup over apples in skillet. Add spices. Place skillet over medium heat and bring liquid to a boil. Cover; reduce heat. Simmer apples 15 minutes or until tender. Remove cover. Place skillet under broiler about 2 inches from heat. Broil apples, basting frequently, 15 minutes, or until apples are glazed and lightly browned. Serve warm or cool with syrup. Makes 6 servings.

Note: If apples are to be stored in refrigerator, pour syrup into a small pan and chill until set. Before serving, rice or dice the set syrup and arrange around each serving.

Nelda Lea Nelson to Attend Health Camp

Nelda Lea Nelson, Pennington county 4-H health champion, will be among nearly 100 4-H'ers chosen to attend the state 4-H Health camp September 18-21 at the University of Minnesota's forestry and biological station in Itasca State park.

Delegates to the camp were selected not only on the basis of the personal health records but also for the work they have done in improving health conditions in their homes and communities and for their ability to bring back useful health information to fellow club members.

The camp will open with a cookout Sunday evening, Sept. 18. The Rev. Lyle T. Christianson, pastor, First Methodist church, Bemidji, will give a talk on "Mental Health and Youth" at the evening assembly.

Two days of the camp will be devoted to workshop sessions on grooming for good health, dental health, personality development and home sanitation for healthful living.

Banquet speaker Tuesday, September 20, will be Genevieve Damkroger, mental health consultant, Minnesota department of health. She will relate her experiences on a bus trip in Russia. Announcement of the state health achievement champion for 1960 will be made at the banquet.

The camp is being sponsored for the eighth year by the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service in cooperation with the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association and the Minnesota department of health. The Folger Coffee company, Kansas City, Missouri, provides funds for the camp.

Optometrists to Meet in St. Paul

Now that Minnesota classrooms are humming with activity again, optometrists in a five-state area are planning their own professional "back to school" sessions. Occasion is the annual North Central Congress set for the Lowry Hotel in St. Paul over the Sept. 18-20 weekend. At the congress more than 200 vision specialists from Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Iowa, and Canada are expected to take part in the annual refresher "short course" which is intended to bring them up to date on new developments in their profession.

Dried Materials for Winter

Now is the time to be looking for materials for winter bouquets. Many suitable materials may be growing in your home garden or can be found in the fields, along roadsides or streams.

Flowers such as Bells of Ireland, Japanese lantern, Lunaria, strawflowers and Statice can be picked in the garden and dried indoors. Celosia or cockscomb is a very popular flower for this purpose. These plants should be dried in a warm room with good air circulation. Usually, the faster they can be dried, the more permanent the color will be. It's a good idea to hang them upside down to dry.

Grasses make interesting selections. Stems of sand bur, yellow foxtail, the slender rush and the other swamp grasses and sedges are good for this purpose.

The seed stocks of curly dock and milk weed are useful for winter bouquets and can be tinted or painted for further interest. The gypsum weed has interesting seed pods, as does the common cocklebur.

Do not forget the bittersweet which is so popular throughout Minnesota. Look for dead trees and shrubs where this bittersweet has entwined the branches so as to kill the entire branch. By cutting off he branch, you will often have a "readymade" arrangement.

The clinging fruit of wild grape, similax and aronia make interesting fruit arrangements.

Rose hips of the wild rose are showy for autumn effect. When the rose hips have been indoors for a few days, they do begin to shrivel.

The seed clusters of the common burdock can be tinted or gilded to give interesting floral effects in a winter arrangement. Cattails and seed pods of the honey locust are always popular for interior decoration.

Collect the materials early so they can properly dry before making the arrangements.

Modern Roads Reduce Highway Death Toll

Minnesota's staggering highway death toll can be reduced to a fraction through modernization of many "antiquated roads in the state system," a Minnesota highway expert said today.

John H. Mullen, former deputy highway commissioner and now highway development director for Minnesota Good Roads, Inc., argues that one of the major factors in the state's dismal accident picture "is trying to carry today's traffic on yesterday's roads."

Mullen, who helped design and build hundreds of miles of Minnesota highways, many of them as chief engineer and deputy commissioner under the late Charles M. Babcock, "father" of the state highway system, believes that Minnesota "owes it to its citizens to provide adequate, modern roads on which to travel."

"Many of roads have not progressed from the plans of 40 years ago," Mullen said. "These roads were adequate for the traffic then, but they do not meet the requirements of today. The development and use of the automobile and truck transportation with their greater speed and adaptation for faster movement of commodities and people, are what our public officials must consider in bringing highways to the standards needed today.

"The records show convincingly that the accidents taking the toll on our highways occur principally on roads that are heavily travelled but which have not been brought to current requirements. The roads that have been designed and built to meet these needs are remarkably free of the accidents that occur on the antiquated roads.

"Safety drives, driver cautioning, and the efforts of public officials and organiaztions to convince motorists that they must take the responsibility for their own safety are all to the good, but until we have made the roads on which they drive adequate for their use, even the best-equipped motorists continue to be in danger," Mullen concluded.

Registration in Progress at UND

Classes to Begin Next Monday at Grand Forks

The 1960-61 academic year at the University of North Dakota will open with freshman orientation and registration week Sept. 12 through 18.

A university enrollment of 4,000 is expected this fall according to Dr. George W. Starcher, UND president. First semester enrollment last year was 3,889, highest in University history.

The orientation week schedule for entering students will include scholastic aptitude tests, a series of tests, indoctrination sessions, recreational and social activities and registration for classes. The freshman week program is conducted by the University College, UND's freshman division, headed by Dean D. J. Robertson.

This year all students will register on Thursday, Sept. 15. A pre-registration plan adopted last year allowed many students to register in May. Freshmen will register the morning of Sept. 15 and transfers and other students will register in the afternoon. Registration will be by appointment.

Instruction begins for all students at 8 a.m., Monday, Sept. 19.

A total of 1,463 summer students were enrolled at UND in the single eight-weeks session and the two four-weeks periods. The attendance, 159 more than in 1959, was an all-time record for summer sessions.

Total School Enrollment Is 2,621 This Fall

Board Approves Four Contracts During Meeting

Predictions of total enrollments in Thief River Falls schools made in October last year were exactly the number registered Monday, Sept. 12, in the elementary schools but 24 less than registered the same date in the high school.

According to figures released by Marshall Hankerson, superintendent, at the meeting of the school board Sept. 12, enrollment in the elementary schools totaled 1,345, high school enrollment totaled 1,097 and the area vocational school total of 179 brings the total up to 2,621.

At the board meeting, the superintendent was requested to contact city authorities for the use of the city Auditorium for the junior high school basketball program and to request that the city park board establish both a hockey rink and a skating rink at Northrop school.

Four teachers contracts were approved for the coming year. They included: Miss Barbara Stevens, second grade; Mrs. Rosabelle Johnson, second grade; Leonard Steele, English and business, and T. J. O'Gorman, draftsman instructor in the area vocational school.

A contract for the transportation of pupils of Dist. 1046 was approved as was the contract for the rent of the Trinity Lutheran church classroom.

Bids for coal and fuel oil were received and the low bids accepted. The bid of the Consumers Co-op Assn. not to exceed 12.43 cents per gallon for fuel oil was accepted. Other bids were received from the Midwest Oil company and Gustafson Oil company. Osborne-McMillan's bid of $20.10 for Elkhorn Modified coal, $19.35 for Premium Eastern Kentucky and $17.65 for washed screenings was accepted on the coal bid. Other bidders were Oen's Fuel Service, O'Hara Fuel & Transfer company and the Consumers Co-op Assn.

The bus drivers union proposal for a contract was reviewed by the board which offered the following: drivers would receive $7.50 a month increase in base pay, extra pay should be based on two cents a mile over 60 miles and eight cents per mile would be paid drivers furnishing their own vehicles.

$115 Top Price Paid at Ram Sale Monday

The highest prices to date were paid for rams at the 12th annual Northwest Purebred Ram sale in Thief River Falls Monday, Sept. 12. The average ram was sold for $85.26. This compares with $75.98 in 1959.

The Suffolk breed averaged $99.75 compared with $94.16 in 1959. Columbias averaged $90.00 compared with $69.10 in 1959. The average on Shropshires was $81.25 compared with $63.75 and the Hampshires averaged $72.81.

The top selling ram of the sale was the breed champion Hampshire consigned by Gordon Clow of Lancaster which sold for $115. The ram was bought by Norman Hagen, Argyle. The reserve champion Hampshire was consigned by Lyle Clow of Hallock and was sold to Julian Rodahl of Thief River Falls for $95.

The champion for the Columbia breed sold to Alvin Nordvick of Grygla for $110 and was consigned by Adolf Erickson of Wannaska. The reserve champion Columbia, consigned by Gordon Clow of Lancaster, was sold to Julian Aaresead of Lockhart, Minnesota for $102.50.

In Suffolks, the champion ram was shown by Llewelyn Larson of Argyle and was sold to Laurits O. Koland of Karlstad for $105. The reserve champion was consigned by John and James Hulteen of Clearbrook and sold to the Roseau FFA chapter for $110.

The champion and reserve Shropshire rams were consigned by Lehart Stock of Goodridge. The champion sold to Pete Stauffenbecker of Greenbush for $85 and the reserve ram went to Reuben Kranz of Middle River for $82.50.

The sale was preceded by a ram show in the morning which was judged by Carl Spong of Central Livestock association and Oscar Nelson, Mahnomen.

The Chamber of Commerce of Thief River Falls sponsored a consignors banquet Sunday evening, Sept. 11. Breeders discussed the possibilities of setting up a ram testing program and a meeting of interested breeders was set for Friday, Sept. 23. All registered sheep breeders in the area are urged to attend the meeting in the courthouse at Thief River Falls at 8:00 p.m.

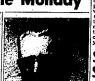
The success of this year's sale is attributed to the excellent quality of rams consigned and the importance of the sheep enterprize on northwest Minnesota farms.

Volume of Turkeys Processed Rises

August Harvest Doubled Compared to Last Year

Volume of turkeys processed at the local Land O'Lakes dressing plant is up substantially over last year, John Lang, manager, reports. This is accounted for largely by an earlier hatch and a correspondingly earlier harvest, he states, the August volume having doubled over that of a year ago.

Also contributing to the increased production is the improvement to the cooling facilities of the plant. With the big increase in the number of turkeys grown in the area Mr. Lang looks forward to capacity production at the plant thruout the season.



RETIRING from the jewelry business in Thief River Falls is John Anderson who opened his first store here in 1936. Mr. Anderson plans to continue in business in the city, conducting a commercial engraving service for office supply firms.

The first Anderson Jewelry store shared quarters with the Berge Finance Co. in the Borry Garage building, now occupied by Coast to Coast. In 1942 the business was moved to larger quarters in the Benson building on North Main and in 1956 the business expanded again into the present building, sharing the remodeled structure with Dr. W. P. Kaisler.

Mr. Anderson is a native son of northwestern Minnesota, born in the Karlstad community, and lived at both Roseau and Newfolden.

Late Comers, Transfers Expected to Bring Total Up to That of Last Year

The Newfolden community school opened its doors Tuesday, Sept. 6, with an enrollment about equal to the opening enrollment las year. It is expected that late enrollments and transfers during the year will bring an enrollment equal to that of last year.

Work on Loan Files to Begin on Thursday

CCC Inspectors Will Check Local Loan Applications

Patrick W. Culkins, office manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office told the Times today that Commodity Credit Corporation loan inspectors would begin inspection work on all CCC loan applications on file in the county office Thursday, Sept. 22.

He said that producers who have filed applications for farm-stored loans should allow about one week to elapse after the inspector has completed his assignment before they call at the ASC office to complete their loans.

Culkins stated further that in order to keep administration expenses at a minimum, producers who desire to place any grain under loan to CCC are requested to file their applications with the county office immediately, even though they do not intend to complete the loan until later this year.

Space Biggest School Problem, Rotary Learns

Not a Popular Subject But Must be Faced, New School Head Tells Club

Marshall Hankerson, superintendent of Thief River Falls schools, told members of the Rotary club at their Sept. 12 noon meeting that classroom space, although not a popular subject was the biggest problem the local school has to face.

The superintendent told the Rotarians that some senior high school space is being used by the junior high school this year, that free hours must be staggered and that classes are being scheduled in rented off-school locations.

Other difficulties listed by Hankerson included a financial shortage and the tract system of channelling students into various fields.

"I like the willingness of the school system to experiment, he said, listing the junior high school work in Spanish as an example. "I am new to the community and have no opinions or any diagnosis of school problems," he continued, adding that he likes what he has seen and will enjoy working in a school system which has such a fine reputation.

He preceded his remarks on the local school system with remarks on education in general. "There is no progress if the graduates just fit into our present society," Hankerson said, pointing out that those who have been in our society's educational system have produced positive results from thinking beyond the present.

In a question and answer period that followed, the superintendent revealed that he had conferred with Elton Cummings, chief of police, Monday morning in regard to traffic safety for school children. The problems of danger to children crossing highway 59 going to and from school, bicycle safety and the education of children who must walk on the streets were also raised.

Holiday Motel to Have Open House

John Blakey, proprietor of the Falls Motel for the past five years, announced today that he is changing the name to the Holiday Motel. The motel is located at the south edge of the city on highway 59.

Mr. Blakey recently completed a new addition to the motel. In order to give local residents a chance to view the new addition, he is holding an open house this coming Sunday afternoon, Sept. 18, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Small Increase in Mill Rate Needed for '61

County Board Sets Budget, Increases Some Allowances

At its September meeting Tuesday the county board approved a budget for next year providing for a slight increase in terms of dollars and also in mill levy. The total was increased from this year's budget of $382,292.59, requiring a levy of 75.52 mills, to $393,361.83, requiring a levy of 77.70 mills.

There were increases in the budget allowances for the revenue fund and the courthouse sinking fund. The allowances for road and bridge, welfare, school transportation and county fair remained the same. The sanatorium fund budget was reduced from $8,750.00 to $3,519.24, due to a change in the status of the county in qualifying for distressed aid. The revenue fund was increased from $103,000 to $110,000 and the court house sinking fund from $22,000 to $31,300, the contribution of the city of Thief River Falls having been deducted from the 1959 figure. A similar appropriation from the city for the year 1960 reduces next year's increase to less than one mill.

Alterations on the Brown ditch two miles west of the reservation line in conjunction with the improvement of county state aid highway No. 27 were approved. The state commissioner of highways was appointed as agent to handle a portion of this project which is in excess of available federal and state funds.

An agreement with the state for the maintenance of a detour recommended by the state during the improvement of trunk highway No. 1 was approved. This detour will start seven miles east of the city, extending three miles north and ten miles east to trunk highway No. 219 north of Goodridge.

Elmer Anderson appeared in behalf of the Carnegie Public Library requesting an increase in the appropriation for library purposes. The board increased slightly the aproriation for current operations to $1,400 plus $1,000 to be set aside in a building fund for future expansion.

Members of the county agricultural society appeared before the board in behalf of an increased appropriation for the county fair to make possible a free gate. A two-mill levy was suggested, compared to the present levy of one-half mill. The board is taking the matter under consideration.

Posts Surprising Victory over DFL Endorsed Entry

Despite a light primary vote in Tuesday's election, the race for the Ninth district congressional nomination provided considerable excitement as former Congresswoman Coya Knutson, Oklee, defeated the DFL endorsee, Roy Wiseth of Goodridge.

Mrs. Knutson trailed in early returns but soon overcame the deficit and by midnight it was apparent she would defeat the Goodridge farmer by a healthy margin. By noon Wednesday her margin had grown to well over 2,000 votes.

In Pennington county, Mrs. Knutson led with 979 votes to Wiseth's 719. August J. Duren, Fergus Falls, polled only 81.

In the 65th legislative district, incumbent Ben Wichterman, Plummer, first with Pennington county voters, with 1602, followed by L. J. Lee, Bagley with 960. County totals were: Victor H. Aalbu, Gonvick, 595; Irwing W. Beyer, Red Lake Falls, 517, and D. E. "Dave" Ostby, Plummer, 633.

County voters cast 2561 ballots with the overall results as follows:

For the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, DFL incumbent received 1587 votes.

In the Republican column P. Kenneth Peterson won handily over his rival, James M. Williams, 642 to 39.

Seeking the gubernatorial nomination for an unprecedented fourth term, Gov. Orville Freeman carried the county 1559 to 185.

In the Republican column, Elmer L. Anderson was unopposed with 662 votes.

Karl F. Rolvaag, incumbent lieut-governor, was unopposed for the DFL nomination. Republican voters had a choice of five contestants with Art Ogle, the endorsee, getting the nod with 222 votes.

For the state treasurer's office DFL endorsee Conrad H. Hammar outpolled Bill O. Kjeldahl, 1043 to 641. Nominated to that post again by the Republicans was the only GOP incumbent state office-holder, Val Bjornson.

Both parties had contestants for the railroad and warehouse commissioner's post. DFL voters renominated Hjalmer Petersen, 1402 to his opponent, John A. Henderson's 297 votes.

GOP contestants were Bernard E. Ericsson, 150 votes; A. L. Freeberg, 115 votes, and Robert M. Johnson, the winner with 344 votes.

Running for nomination for chief justice, state supreme court, without party designation Roger L. Dell, the present incumbent, won with 1226 votes over Clifford F. Hansen's 519 and E. Luther Melin's 409.

City DFL voters gave Coya Knutson a 387 to 316 vote margin over party endorsee Roy Wiseth. August Duren ran an almost non-existent third with 41. In the GOP column Rep. Odin Langen polled 520 votes.

In the balloting for representative in the 65th Legislative district the city vote was as follows: Aalbu 390; Beyer, 249; Lee, 469; Ostby, 371, and Wichterman, 741.

Telephone Call Received from Passing Plane

Gunder Legvolds Talk to Her Brother Who Was Enroute to Home in Hawaii

Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Legvold, 325 Tindolph av. N., were thrilled Monday evening, Sept. 12, when they spoke by telephone with her brother who was flying over the state.

The Legvolds received notice that her brother, Col. Robert Fletcher, comptroller of the air force for the Pacific area, would be talking by radiotelephone from the airplane which was enroute from Europe to his home in Hawaii.

From Madison, Wis., the Legvolds received a clipping from a newspaper in the Wisconsin capital city regarding a package which was shipped here and which arrived despite an error in the address.

Rather than being addressed to Thief River Falls, the package bore the name, "Steel River Falls."

According to the article, "The girl who took the order either misunderstood the name of the town or, more likely, her mind, by one of those queer quirks we sometimes all have, had translated "Thief River" to "Steal River" and then to "Steel River" (a more likely name for a river than "Thief River." And the postoffice, by adopting the process in reverse, had apparently translated "Steel River Falls" back to "Thief River Falls" without the slightest bit of trouble."

JoAnn Holton Becomes Bride of D. Anderson

Miss JoAnn Holton of Grygla and Dalton Anderson of Nevada, Mo., exchanged marriage vows at a candlelight service in the St. Petri Lutheran church of Grygla Saturday evening at 8 o'clock with Rev. Ned Langness officiating at the double ring ceremony. Yellow candles graced both sides of the aisles and the altar was decorated with baskets of peonies and daisies.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rue of Grygla and the groom is the son of Alton Anderson of Holdrege, Neb.

Miss Sharon Holte of Grygla was at the organ for the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Kathie Burnette of Minneapolis as she sang, "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, escorted to the altar by her grandfather, was attired in a white floor length gown of chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta. The bodice of lace featured a round scalloped neckline, embroidered with sequins. The bouffant skirt of nylon tulle has side insertions of lace and nylon trimmed in lace, creating a peplum effect. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade style bouquet of red roses, white carnations, stephanotis and ivy.

Attending as matron of honor was Mrs. Shirley Golton, sister-in-law of the bride, with Misses Mayvonne and Madonna Anderson, sisters of the groom, as junior bridesmaids.

The matron of honor wore a light blue taffeta dress with a nylon net overskirt. The bridesmaids wore identical dresses of yellow taffeta with nylon organdy overskirts trimmed with daisies. They carried bouquets of white daisies and ivy foliage.

The men of the bridal party all wore white dinner jackets, dark trousers, and carnation boutonnieres. The best man was Bruce Holton, brother of the bride, and groomsmen included Darrel and Richard Anderson. Eddie and Alex Moe and Duwayne Lian served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a light yellow two piece dress with white accessories and her corsage was of yellow roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement for about 150 guests and was served by St. Petri Ladies Aid. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake topped with wedding bells and a blue net bow with clusters of forget-me-nots. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. H. S. Many Cases Heard in Municipal Court

Another busy session of municipal court was held Monday before Judge H. O. Chommie with numerous persons paying fines for speeding after being caught with the city's traffic recorder.

Police said the recorder is being used recently due to the opening of city schools and that anyone who is a little heavy with the accelerator foot near schools could very possibly find himself in municipal court.

Game Warden Carl Sundstrom had one case, that of Henry R. Cloud, Redby, who forfeited $30 bond for having over the legal limit of game fish.

The lone sheriff's case was that of William X. Brasseur, Oslo, who pleaded guilty to and was fined $25 for driving after his driver's license was suspended.

All other cases were brought by city police. Melvin L. Scholin, rt. 5, pleaded guilty to and was fined $15 for speeding.

The same plea to the same charge cost Gordon C. Bjerken, city, and Paul R. Grand, rt. 5, $16 each.

Robert G. Bakke, Peter J. Sullivan and Lawrence I. Sletten, all of this city, each pleaded guilty to speeding and were fined $17.

Ronald A. Alby, rt. 1, Newfolden, forfeited $17 bond for speeding.

Eugene H. Bergh, rt. 5, forfeited $18, same offense.

Speeding cost Neil R. Carlson and Manvil E. Noto, both of the city, $19 each after pleading guilty. Lowell O. Veum, city, pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined the heaviest of all, $34.

Two persons forfeited bonds after being arrested for making improper turns. They were Louis R. Knochenmus, Roseau, $20 bond forfeited, and Robert Wangenstein, city, $15 bond forfeited.

Leighton H. Hamre, rt. 3, Goodridge, pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $20, while an arrest for improper passing cost Merton R. Hutchinson, Goodridge, $15 bond, forfeited.

Lions Hear Head of Schools Speak

Hankerson Calls Attention to Crowded Class Rooms

At the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls Lions club Wednesday noon at the Elks club, Supt. Marshall Hankerson stated that education is one of the most important functions of state and local government.

Noting that 50 years ago, one in 64 persons attended high school, Hankerson said today, only one in 50 persons does not attend high school. Fifty years ago, one person in 24 continued his education beyond high school and today one in three continues his education.

On the local level, Mr. Hankerson was impressed with the progressive spirit of the community and the school. He also called attention to the crowded condition of our junior-senior high school stating that it had created problems in scheduling classes, necessitated the use of three different lunch hours and the use of classrooms in the armory and at Trinity Lutheran church. He listed enrollment in the elementary schools at 1,345, high school at 1,097 and junior high at 568. Present enrollment in the area vocational school is 179.

Prowlers and Eagles Will Clash Friday

The Prowlers and the Eagles of Red Lake Falls will be meeting on the Lincoln high school athletic field Friday night in a district conference football game, the thirty-sixth encounter between the two schools since the two teams met in a two-game series 'way back in 1916. In the 1916 seris, the Prowlers, coached by Albert Johnson, marked up victories by scores of 19 to 0 and 6 to 0.

Coach Joe Mrkonich's blue-and gold squad will be trying for their third straight football win of the young season when they meet coach Andy McCarty's youthful Eagles Friday night.

The Prowler mentor stated that there was a possibility of a slight change in the offensive lineup for the locals Friday night. The forward line will be intact with Ron Hanson and Don Ulferts at the ends, Elton Hornseth and Gary Odegaard at the tackles, Jack Goulet and Jim Weckwerth at the guards and Ron Amundson at center. In the backfield, sophomore John Aune will move into quarterback with Gary Klungness at left halfback and Lloyd Ranum at right halfback and Eddie Lietzow running at fullback. Some early changes in the lineup would find Bruce Russell playing at tackle, Tim Teal at guard, Ranum shifting to fullback and Paul Klungness at right halfback.

Coach McCarty of Red Lake Falls will have only two players—Bill Phillion and Jerry King—in Friday night's lineup who were starters against the Prowlers in last season's 21 to 6 loss to the locals. Phillion is a quarterback while King is a center. Both boys are juniors. Other veterans who saw action in last season's tilt and who are available for tomorrow night's game are Les Marcott, Steve Demarais, Jim Herold, Bob Frovarp, Duane Zutz and Dean Wieland.

In the long series of game between the two schools, the Prowlers hold a commanding margin having won 28, lost four and tied three. That the Eagles have improved their brand of football is indicated by the fact that three of the four wins that have been scored over the Prowlers have occurred since 1949, recording a 13 to 6 win that year, a 13 to 6 win in 1952 and a 19 to 14 win in 1955.

Kickoff time for Friday night's game will be at 8 p.m.

New Football Loop Opens Conference Play This Friday

Baudette Ties, Karlstad Wins in Non-conference Games; Argyle Downed

The newly-formed "Top of the State" eleven-man football conference which was formed last year will play its opening round of games on Friday, Sept. 16. Members of the conference are Argyle, Baudete, Greenbush, Hallock, Karlstad, Kennedy, Lancaster, Newfolden, Stephen, and Warroad. Opening round games will find the following teams paired: Baudette vs. Karlstad; Hallock vs. Lancaster; Argyle vs. Greenbush; Newfolden vs. Warroad; and Kennedy vs. Stephen.

Four teams have played nonconference openers already, with Baudette playing Roseau, the 1959 Northwest conference champion, to a 7-all tie. Argyle lost to the Crookston Cathedral Blue Wave, 7 to 6; and Hallock, in a game which does not count in the conference standings, defeated Karlstad, 41 to 6.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The First Week

The Prowlers completed their first week of the football campaign by defeating Mahnomen, 34 to 14, at Mahnomen on Friday night. The win gave the coach Joe Mrkonich gridders a record of two victories in the opening week of play, and both triumphs were against well-rated teams of the Pine-to-Palm conference. In their opener, on Labor Day, the Prowlers defeated Warren, 19 to 14.

These two teams, Warren and Mahnomen, have been installed as favorites for the Pine-to-Palm conference championship. Warren will play at Mahnomen on Wednesday, October 19, and this game could very well decide the Pine-to-Palm football title. And it should provide the fans with some first rate football, for it will pit Warren's pile-driving fullback, Wayne Edgar, against Mahnomen's sturdy inner defense.

But to get back to the Prowlers. In the game against Mahnomen, the locals were forced to rely on a pair of hard-running halfbacks, Gary Klungness and Lloyd Ranum, for the bulk of the yardage. The Indians interior defense, with 245-pound center Duane Holland as the anchor, proved stubborn, and it was necessary to call on Gary and Lloyd for sweeps around the ends and off-tackle slants.

As an indication of the workhorse performances of these two Prowler runners, we'll recite their individual records: Gary picked up a net of 175 yards in sixteen carries (he lost ten yards in two plays when he slipped and fell on cutbacks), and Lloyd had 106 yards in thirteen tries. And Lloyd had a big gainer called back because of an offside penalty on the Prowlers.

The Prowlers appear to be well supplied with halfback running strength, for coaches Mrkonich and Edlund have a pair of sophomores in Don Nicholson and Paul Klungness who can move into the lineup without weakening the running attack. The two boys have been used sparingly because they are hampered by minor injuries. Don has a turned ankle, and Paul is nursing a back injury. Coach Mrkonich hesitates to use these boys for fear of aggravating their hurts, and that is a wise decision.

And this week it's the Eagles of Red Lake Falls that will join the Prowlers in digging up the turf on the Lincoln high field. It is a graduation-riddled squad that coach Andy McCarty will bring here, but the longer the odds (and the Prowlers are favored) the more stubborn the Eagles become. That's the record of former years, and it won't be different this year.

Welcome, Mike

When the Red Lake Falls Eagles come here on Friday night to do football battle with the Prowlers one of the fellows who will be assisting coach Andy McCarty in plotting strategy to defeat the locals will be Mike Hajostek, a former Prowler three sport athlete.

Mike, who has joined the Red Lake Falls high school faculty this season, and who will assist McCarty in football and be head coach in hockey, is a MSC graduate.

During his high school days here, and he graduated in 1953, he was co-captain, with Bill Maruska, of the 1953 Prowler hockey squad, and co-captain, with Jack Hoppe, of the 1953 Prowler baseball team. He was a backfield man for coach Wayne Johnson's football teams.

We wish Mike all kinds of luck with his Red Lake Falls teams, except against the Prowlers.

A Fishing Note

We received a welcome note from Harold Olson, a former resident of the city who is now residing in Washington. And accompanying the note was a snapshot of Harold with a couple of king salmon. Harold explains that the salmon, weighing twenty-two pounds and twenty-three pounds, respectively, were caught off Westport, Washington, on a charter-boat trip taken last week.

While the fishing in river here has taken a turn for the better the past ten days, with northerns and walleyes providing the action, the Lake of the Woods activity hasn't been newsworthy. There was a concentration of fishermen on Lake of the Woods during the Labor Day week-end, but very few limit catches of walleyes were reported.

The veteran anglers explain the lack of fishing luck on the extremely warm weather that prevailed. These anglers maintain that a "killing" frost is required to stir the walleyes into feeding action. Sounds reasonable.

A Loss and a Win

It was a loss and a win for the area's baseball teams participating in the state baseball tournament at Springfield. The Twin Valley Twins, representatives of Region 2B, lost to a favored Pipestone team, 9 to 1, in a Class B game played Saturday night; and the Warroad Muskies with righthander Bob Evenson pitching a fine game, defeated Granite Falls, 2 to 1, on Tuesday.

The Stillwater team with five of the baseball-playing Junker brothers in the lineup, including Jack, the Prowler basketball coach, won their first game in the Class A competition. In their second tilt, played on Tuesday against the Twin City Federals, Stillwater lost by a 12 to 1 score, being held to five hits by Bill Davis, the former Richfield high school baseball and basketball star.

Grouse Hunting Season Opens in State Sept. 24th

Minnesota game officials reminded hunters that despite recent ninety degree temperatures the first major hunting seasons begin on Saturday, September 24.

Both ruffed grouse and sharptails may only be hunted in an area of the state generally north and east of a line running from the extreme northwest corner, south and east through Crookston, Bagley, Park Rapids, Pine River, Brainerd, Foley, Cambridge, and terminating at Taylors Falls on the St. Croix river.

Sharptails may be taken thru October 23, with a daily bag and possession limit of three and six, respectively. Ruffed grouse can be hunted thru November 6, with a daily bag and possession limit of four and eight.

Prowler 'B' Team Plays EGF Sept. 20

Local Squad Drops Pair to Bemidji and Crookston

Coach Charles DeCorsey's Prowler 'B' football team, after being on the short end of the score in a pair of games played on the road this past week, will meet the East Grand Forks 'B' team on the Lincoln athletic field on Tuesday evening, Sept. 20.

In a schedule-opening game, played at Bemidji on Saturday morning, the Prowler 'B' squad dropped a 24 to 7 decision to the Bemidji 'B' team. And in a game played at Crookston on Tuesday evening, the locals were whitewashed, losing by a 13 to 0 score to the Crookston 'B' squad.

Regulations Listed on Fall Duck Hunting

Some pre-hunting season information and advice was issued today by F. W. Johnson, Minnesota's game warden. Johnson reminded duck hunters that they must have both a valid small game hunting license and a federal migratory bird hunting stamp on their person when hunting. The federal "duck stamp" is available at most post offices. Only a small game license is required, however, to hunt rails, gallinules, woodcock, and snipe.

Federal regulations will again prohibit the use of shotguns capable of holding more than three shells, including semi-automatic and hand operated repeating models. Shotguns larger than 10 gauge may not be used in taking ducks. Rifles may not be used in taking migratory game birds, but bow and arrows are permissible.

Other regulations in hunting waterfowl and migratory game birds prohibit the use of any electronic calling device or recording, live bird decoys, automobile, aircraft, sinkbox, power boat, sailboat, or any device towed by either. Injured or dead waterfowl may be picked up by use of a motorboat, sailboat, or other craft, however.

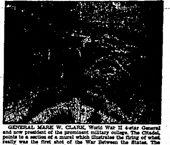
Shooting is permitted from a boat or other craft having a motor attached if such craft is fastened within or tied immediately alongside any type of stationary blind. Waterfowl, coot and gallinules may not be taken under any circumstanes by the aid of salt or bait such as shelled or shucked or unshucked corn, wheat or other grains as feed.

Johnson also reminded all hunters that it is illegal to transport a loaded or uncased firearm in a motor vehicle. Firearms must be unloaded in both barrels and magazine and contained in a gun case, or unloaded and contained in the trunk of the car with the trunk door closed. Literally hundreds of hunters are arrested each year for this offense for which there is no excuse.

State Seeks Bids on Highway Job in East Pennington

The Minnesota Highway department is calling for bids on three county state-aid highway improvement projects expected to cost an estimated $995,000. The projects are located in Hennepin, Mille Lacs and Pennington counties. The Pennington county project is on CSAH 27 and calls forgrading and gravel surfacing on 4.4 miles between the Red Lake river and a point eight miles east and 1.3 miles north of Highlanding; and on 3.7 miles between a point eight miles east and 1.3 miles north of Highlanding and T.H. 1, southeast of Goodridge. Bids will be received October 4 by the county auditor, C. W. Rodekuhr, at the court house in Thief River Falls.

That's How It Really Started!



GENERAL MARK W. CLARK, World War II 4-star General and now president of the prominent military college, The Citadel, points to a section of a mural which illustrates the firing of what really was the first shot of the War Between the States. The mural, first of a series of eight, shows cadets from The Citadel shooting at the Federal ship "Star of the West" which was attempting to re-provision the garrison at Fort Sumter. The firing was on January 9, 1861, some three months before the attack on Fort Sumter which actually precipitated the war. The "Star of the West" episode will be re-enacted under General Clark's direction on the Centennial of the event next January.

Driver's Impatience No Virtue, Says Sieben

The impatient driver is not a good driver, impatience is not a virtue to be found in the safe motorist.

This reminder was issued today by Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, who warned Minnesotans they should learn the value of controlling emotions behind the wheel.

"Impatience probably shows up more often when a driver in a big hurry passes another at an elligal speed, or attempts to get around a slower moving vehicle in a no passing zone," he said.

"It's quite tempting to pull out of line and risk the lives of many people just to get past that slow driver," Sieben said. "But unless the way is clear to make this passing maneuver in complete safety, the driver may end up the victim of a serious traffic accident.

"Another time when the driver's impatience shows itself is when he waits nervously for the traffic light to change, and then charges out into cross traffic when the opposite yellow light comes on. Too often there is another impatient driver trying to cross in a hurry before the yellow changes to red. The result most often is a draw—two vehicles in a collision in the center of the intersection."

"Drivers who show impatience display an attitude of childishness and immaturity. Drivers who have grown up emotionally have learned to expect that they will be delayed occasionally in their street and highway travel. Impatience will not help solve any traffic problems, and is not a driving virtue," Sieben said.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

"I worked my land when it was too wet," is the comment of more than one Sibley county farmer as he looks at a field of yellow corn. Fields that were too wet became hard and compacted and nitrogen wasn't released in normal quantities. Farmers who worked fields later have better crops. In defense of the farmers though, Duane Wilson, Sibley county agent, says the weather was so unsettled that many fields had to be plowed and planted between showers.

For better soil samples, remember that mixing different kinds of soil when taking soil samples will give wrong indications about the fertility and soil acidity. "The soil survey map of the farm makes a good guide for taking soil samples," says Kirk Woodworth, SCS soil scientist from Owatonna. "Fertility and soil acidity vary from one soil type to another. They also vary with differences in cropping history and erosion in different fields." Woodworth says a good rule to follow in soil sampling is: "Sample those soils separately that are different in appearance or productive ability."

Neglecting a starter fertilizer to save time in the rush of corn planting didn't pay off this year according to Sibley county agent Duane Wilson. The soil fertility plot on the Oscar Griep farm near Henderson showed an unusual response to starter and broadcast fertilizer compared to the rest of the field. The field was in corn in 1959 and was spring plowed.

Fertilizing a new seeding of alfalfa paid off this year for a Kandiyohi county farmer. Rudy Lindquist, New London, put 300 pounds of 0-30-15 per acre on his new seeding in 1959 and left a check strip to test results. This year fertilized alfalfa was 22 to 24 inches tall on June 1. Alfalfa on the check strips was only 6 to 8 inches tall on the same date. Comparative yields were 2.2 tons and 0.64 tons per acre, respectively. Lindquist feels his farm has greatly benefitted by the conservation plan drawn up by SCS technician "Red" Sather.

State Produces $219 Million in Forest Products

The forest industries information committee has estimated that the value of forest products harvested in Minnesota during 1959 amounted to over $219,347,000.

Editorials . . .

"He who receives an idea from me, receives instruction himself without lessening mine; as he who lights his taper at mine receives light without darkening me." —Thomas Jefferson

One of Those Good Days

United Nations forces seem to have won the battle of Leopoldville by the simple device of holding a pay day for the Congolese soldiers of mean-man Lumumba. The fighting may not be permanently ended but the promise of a pay day did induce the Congolese soldiers to turn in their arms as they accepted the cash. Officials of the native army ordered a cease-fire.

U.N. officials insist there is no connection between the cease-fire, the disarming of the soldiers and the fact that they were being paid in U. N. funds, but they plan to use the same routine in other provinces where Congolese troops are still fighting and looting and payless.

There are days, now and then, when things seem to be going well.

The New Jersey Plan

In 1955 New Jersey started taxing insured motorists $1 a year, and uninsured motorists $3 a year, to create a fund from which victims of highway accidents caused by financially irresponsible drivers could be reimbursed for damages. Two years later the state decided it was unfair to tax responsible drivers and shifted the entire cost to the uninsured and financially irresponsible, and the tax was increased to $8. In 1958 the assessment was raised to $10.

Now, according to a New Jersey official, it will be necessary to increase substantially the $15 maximum assessment if the state's Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment fund is to remain solvent. It is estimated that there will be more than 7,000 claims this year and awards totalling more than $2,000,000.

We are not sure this is the right answer to the problem but the New Jersey experience does point up the need for protection in some form for the other people who use the highways. Licenses should not be issued to drivers who are not financially responsible and are not adequately insured. The New Jersey plan does provide a measure of protection.

The Industry Is Wanted

Firm assurances that present tax laws governing the taconite mining operations in the state will not be changed are asked by the president of the Oliver Mining Company. This company is considering the construction of a taconite plant near Virginia and its concern about taxes is understandable. Minnesota's reputation in dealing with the mining companies justifies the Oliver Mining Company's cautious approach.

The fact that the present tax structure, dealing with the special problems of this industry, is considered fair, indicates that the people of the Iron Range and the state as a whole have come to a realization that taxes must be fair, and that our taxes must compare favorably with the taxes of other states if we are to attract industry. And we have experienced enough of the good results of fair taxes for the taconite industry to want much more of that kind of development, providing a market for a product that has no real value in itself but which, in the process of being converted into a product that does have value, provides stable employment for many of our people.

The most objectionable taxes imposed on the mining companies in the past have been the levies for local purposes, and they have been objectionable mainly because of the extravagance of Range communities and the unwillingness of the people of some of the Range communities to bear a fair share of their own cost of government.

Over a period of more than half a century of operations, there have been abuses by both sides. It appears now however that the experiences of the past have taught us several important lessons on how to live happily together. We have learned that there must be reasonable "give" on both sides, as well as "take."

Our old tax laws were written on the assumption that our deposits of iron ore were irreplaceable. That fact justified special taxes for the benefit of future generations through trust funds. Our low grade ores are not now looked upon as irreplaceable and the taconite industry, basically, is taxed as are other manufacturing operations.

We believe that the people of Minnesota now are sufficiently aware of the overall facts, and the benefits that will accrue to the entire state with the development of a stable industry on the Iron Range, to justify the expectation of the taconite industry that it will be treated fairly.

The future is unpredictable, and no one can say with certainty what future generations will do about any problem. Our guess, however, is that the people of Minnesota are going to average up well with the people of other states in their thinking, and that their judgment on matters in which they have had experience will be both fair and sound.

We are satisfied that the leaders of the taconite industry may expand their operations in Minnesota with complete confidence that they are wanted and that they will be fairly treated.

Mr. K. Is On His Way

There has been much speculation about the kind of a reception Nikita Khrushchev will receive from our government during his stay in New York City as head of a Communist delegation to the United Nations Assembly. We no longer need to wonder. A memorandum to the Soviet representatives to the United Nations left little doubt as to how President Eisenhower and the State Department feel about the visitors. The welcome mat is not out. Here is the well-phrased note that tells Mr. K. very curtly that he has not been invited:

"The United States government has been informed by the Soviet government that the chairman of the council of ministers to the USSR, N. S. Khrushchev, will head the Soviet delegation to the 15th general assembly meeting of the United Nations.

"The United States government's concern in this connection is with the provision of adequate security to Mr. Khrushchev and members of the Soviet delegation in their transit of United States territory for the purpose of attending meetings of the United Nations.

"The question of assuring the necessary security for Mr. Khrushchev and the Soviet delegation has, of course, been complicated by the hostile public statements of the head of the Soviet government and by the destruction of an American plane over international waters by Soviet action and the continued illegal detention of two American fliers.

"The United States government therefore requests that arrangements be made for Mr. Khrushchev to reside, in the closest convenient proximity to the headquarters of the United Nations and that his movements other than those connected with arrival and departure be limited to those required by his official mission, not beyond Manhattan Island.

"Since security arrangements must be made some time in advance, the United States government requests the earliest possible notification as to the exact time of arrival, place of residence, length of stay and time and method of departure."

Mr. K.'s reaction to this welcome will be awaited with much interest thruout the world.

The Folly Road

Donald N. Secord, national secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Rail, Transport and General Workers Union, makes this interesting observation:

"A problem associated with automation is now making itself felt in service industries which, for the most part, are not as easily automated as production industries. As automation is introduced, productivity rises sharply in the industry affected.

"The only way this productivity can be shared equally throughout the economy is if wage increases are tied, not to productivity within a particular firm or industry, but to productivity increases in the economy as a whole."

Mr. Secord has noted a fact that too often is overlooked by those who are sincere in their efforts to raise the standard of living of all workers. The benefits of automation and the increased productivity of one particular group of workers should not be confined to that group of workers or to the owners of that industry. He is not completely right however when he says the only way this increased productivity can be shared equally thruout the economy is by wage increases tied to the "productivity increases in the economy as a whole".

We agree with him that that is one way. But another way, and a preferable way under present conditions we think, would be to pass along the benefits of automation and increased productivity in the form of lower costs to the consumers. Then everyone would get a pay raise because everyone's dollar would buy more.

William P. Kennedy, president of the national Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, agreed with this in a question and answer session here a few weeks ago. His objection to the idea of price cuts was based only on the fear that business would not pass along the benefits of increased productivity thru lower prices but would use it to build up bigger profits. He favored higher wages and higher tariffs to keep out the products of other countries.

We are satisfied that competition would take care of the price problem that bothers Mr. Kennedy, and if competition didn't then taxes would.

But we are happy to be in agreement with Mr. Secord and Mr. Kennedy on the one point, in theory at least, that all of the people should share in the benefits of automation and the resulting increased productivity. The operator of a machine that will double his productivity is deserving of fair wages. The owner of that machine deserves a fair return on his investment. And the customers who are so important to both the owner and the operator, deserve a better product at lower cost.

The importance of the customer is too often overlooked by the machine operators. Our country, and Canada, now are threatened with unemployment mainly because we are losing customers. Our old customers are buying elsewhere, in other countries, where the benefits of automation and mass production are being passed along to the customers in the form of lower prices. We are moving in the direction of higher wages, higher prices, fewer sales and increased unemployment.

How far down the folly road must we go before we discover that we are moving in the wrong direction? The farther we go in the wrong direction the more difficult will be our return.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"My scales are correct, madam. Have you weighed your little boy?"

He had bought his house on the monthly payment plan and the bank also held the contract on his car. The banker was hesitant about another loan to build a garage. "If I do make this new loan how will you buy gas for the car?" he asked.

"It seems to me," the applicant for another loan replied, "that a fellow who owns a large house, a car and a garage should be able to get credit for gas."

Orientation Trip for Indian Youth Planned

Labor's committee for Minnesota's Indian youth in cooperation with Governor's Human Rights commission will again sponsor 30 Indian youth from 14 reservation high schools for a three day orientation and observation trip to the Twin Cities. While in the cities, they will visit with the university and college campuses, vocation and other trade schools and potential sources of employment. They will be accompanied by three chaperones.

This year will mark the committee's third effort to interest Indian youth in obtaining a higher education so that they can cope with the complexities of modern day society.

High school seniors from Blackduck, Boy River, Carlton, Cass Lake, Cloquet, Deer River, Fosston, Grand Marais, Mahnomen, Onamia, Orr, Park Rapids, Red Lake and Walker will participate in the trip.

Prior to their coming, each student will be asked to give three vocational choices in order to preference. This will serve to assist the committee in having the youth visit the institutions of their primary concern.

The state department of education reports that 34 of the 42 Indian students who made the orientation trips the past two years have gone on to advanced education in vocational training, nursing, business colleges and academic work in colleges and universities. Four entered the armed services and the remaining four are undecided.

The students will arrive Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 5. They will be met at the University of Minnesota student union by presidents of the student councils of the 20 Twin Cities' senior high schools.

A banquet, smorgasbord, theatre party, ice cream social and a University of Minnesota-Northwestern football game will be part of the social activities.

Organized labor will pay all expenses including transportation, housing, food, expense and entertainment. All Minnesota labor unions are being asked to participate in this project by supplying the funds necessary for the project.

Labor leaders, in charge of this event, have again asked Mrs. Orville L. Freeman to serve as honorary chairwoman. John Curtis, chairman of the AFL Civil Rights committee and Carl Winn, regional direction AFL-CIO, are co-chairmen.

City Bird Hunters Will Go to School

Area Game Manager to Give Hunting Information

Sportsmen who are planning to hunt ruffed and sharptail grouse this year have an opportunity to get some professional information on their habits and range, the best means of hunting them, and the location of some of the state's better grouse producing areas before the season opening Sept. 24.

Members of the Minnesota game and fish employees association, composed of personnel from the conservation department's game and fish division, are cooperating with the downtown branch of the St. Paul YMCA to present a series of seven wildlife classes this fall on state game species.

Classes will be given on successive Tuesday evenings from Sept. 20 to Nov. 1.

The class on grouse, the first of the series, will be given on Tuesday, Sept. 20, at the Downtown "Y." Instructor will be Robert Farmes, area game manager in the Thief River Falls area.

Farmes is a specialist on grouse and waterfowl and in charge of the Red Lake and Thief Lake wildlife management areas. His duties include wetlands acquisition and game management for this area region which comprises one-twelfth of the state.

Synopsis of Game Laws Ready Soon at Co. Auditors

The Minnesota hunting and trapping regulations are expected to be available at most county auditors offices and license agents about mid-September.

Merton Christian, administrative assistant in the game and fish division, announced the 20 page pocket-size synopsis is currently being printed and readied for distribution. The attractive, colorful folder is printed on sturdy, wear-resistant paper designed to be carried in hunting coats.

The folder contains a synopsis of all big game, small game and waterfowl hunting regulations, license information, sunrise and sunset time schedules, deer zone boundaries and map plus general information of interest to hunters and trappers.

Of special important to duck hunters is a picture of canvasback and redhead ducks in flight. These species have been given complete protection this fall and hunters are urged to identify them in flight before shooting.

Hunters purchasing their hunting licenses may obtain the hunting regulations from their county auditor or his license agents.

Marshall County 4-H Health Camp Delegate Named

Kathleen Hjelle, a member of the Argyle Hustlers 4-H club, will attend the state 4-H health camp Sept. 18-21 representing Marshall county 4-H'ers, it has been announced by Harlem Sandberg, 4-H club agent.

Miss Hjelle was selected on the basis of long-time achievement in the health and safety projects. She will attend health workshops at the camp in Itasca State park in dental care, water sanitation and health habits.

Also included in the camp will be a tour of the park, health skits by campers, a banquet, Sunday evening service and a history of the park and recreation.

Grain Storage Facilities Listed for State, Nation

A total of 734 Minnesota grain warehouses containing 251,811,000 bushels of storage capacity has been made available for storage of price support grain under the new uniform grain storage agreement of the U.S. department of agriculture, E. L. Bredlie of the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee said today.

The report covers warehouses signed as of Aug. 15 for the storage of price support commodities during the 1960-61 year. The capacity signed in Minnesota compares with 257,914,000 bushels available for price support storage under the former uniform grain storage agreement which expired at the end of June.

Nationally, a total of 9,850 warehouses with a capacity of 4.2 billion bushels had been signed under the new agreement in mid-August. This is slightly more than the total as of July 15 and represents more than 99 per cent of the capacity included under the former agreement.

The agreement establishes conditions for storage of grain which is taken over by the government under price-support programs. The same warehouses are also eligible to store grain which is placed under price support by farmers.

How Beef is Fed Definitely Affects Quality of Carcass

Cattle Fed over Longer Periods Have Carcasses Which Grade the Highest

How a farmer feeds his beef definitely affects carcass quality, a University of Minnesota animal scientist told the animal nutrition and health short course audience Sept. 13.

"Shoppers look for tenderness, juiciness and flavor when they buy steak," said E. O. Kolari. "Yet the effect a feeding program has on these characteristics is only indirectly noted. Instead studies are reported largely in terms of carcass grade."

Carcass grade is related to fatness, Kolari continued, which in turn tends to go with juiciness and tenderness. This means grade is generally a measure of carcass quality.

Kolari said research done around the country has shown these general points: Cattle fed for longer periods usually have carcasses grading higher than short-fed cattle on similar rations. Carcasses of cattle fed in drylot tend to grade higher than those of animals fed the same length of time on pasture.

For best carcass quality, protein content of cattle rations should range from 9½ to 11 per cent.

Full feeding grain usually results in higher carcass grades and juicier—and perhaps even more tender—cuts than limited grain; especially with younger cattle.

The effect of fat content in feed is still a question; studies do not all give the same result.

A period of slow growth, for example when range cattle are wintered on a minimum of feed, usually won't lower carcass grade.

Feed additives at proper levels normally have little or no effect on carcass quality.

there's more to be seen...

Deep in the human heart is the desire for greater and wider vision. It prompted early man to climb the trees and to scale the peaks. Every year it lures thousands to the top of the Empire State Building. It inspired the telescope and microscope, and eventually radar.

Similar to this yearning for vision, yet sacred in its powerful prompting, has been man's spiritual quest. Although there is much natural evidence around us to prove there is a God, we want to understand His mind, His power and will . . . His heart!

No human inventions are needed here. In the Church established by Jesus Christ, in the Truth taught by Jesus Christ, in the Life inspired by Jesus Christ — each of us finds that wider vision his soul craves.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Good Turnout for Newfolden Animal Show

Lowell Johnson Shows Champion Beef Steer Entry

Sunny skies and crisp temperatures brought a good turnout to the Newfolden Fat Animal show Saturday, with some fine animals shown for which good prices were paid.

The show was held in the Newfolden school bus garage, with Carl Spong of the Central Livestock association, Fargo, as judge.

Grand champion in the beef steer division was Lowell Johnson, Stephen, with a black Angus weighing 950 lbs. Bought by Co-op Elevator of Stephen, the animal brought $28.50 cwt.

Elden Johnson, Stephen, Lowell's cousin, won the reserve championship and a trip to the Junior Livestock show in St. Paul.

The grand champion barrow was shown by Ann Strandberg, Argyle. Her Yorkshire won honors as best animal while she took showmanship honors. Roger Dagen, Kennedy, was named reserve champion. Ann will get a trip to the Junior Livestock show in St. Paul. Roger's hog was sold Saturday to the Farmers State Bank, Stephen, at $23.75 cwt. It weighed 212 lbs.

Grand champion wether lamb was shown by Michael Anderson, Middle River, which was sold to the Farmers Co-op Elevator, Stephen, for $28.50 cwt. and weighed 83 lbs. Reserve champion was Wayne Kilen of Gatzke, who will be going to the Junior Livestock show in St. Paul. Another top lamb was shown by Ronald Slusar, Warren.

Showmanship honors in the lamb division were won by Carol Olson, Middle River.

Numerous poultry exhibits were shown and were sold at 58 cents per lb. for each dressed bird. The blue ribbon dressed turkey exhibits went at 50 cents per lb.

About 600 persons were on hand for the show and the Newfolden Fall Festival and numerous soil samples were brought in for testing. A concession stand offered refreshments and there were pony rides for the children.

Harlem Sandberg, Marshall county 4-H club agent, was in charges of entries, while Donald Steinhauer, Holt, was auctioneer.

Resolution Adopted by NW Sportsmen on Wildlife Lands

Ask Withdrawal of Areas Which Have Conservation, Wild Life Uses, from Sale

Resolutions setting forth the position of sportsmens organizations in this area were adopted by the Minnesota Conservation Federation at a meeting held recently at Park Rapids, according to Gay Warnecke, secretary of the Pennington county unit.

These resolutions called for the immediate classification of lands in the conservation areas of the state and permanently withdraw from sale all lands classified as having value for conservation and wildlife purposes and that no further sale of Conservation area lands be made until such classification has been made. The resolution declared that purchase of wildlife lands with sportsmen's money is not in the interests of the people of Minnesota as long as Conservation area lands of value to water and wildlife are being sold.

Another resolution called upon the state to accelerate the purchase of wildlife lands in northwestern Minnesota and that the proposed Elm Lake project in Marshall county and the Goose Lake project in Pennington county "be activated and acquisition and development be completed as soon as time and funds permit."

These resolutions were presented by the directors of the Northwestern Minnesota Conservation Federation.

Bruce Ranum, a student at Augsburg college in Minneapolis, spent the weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ranum.

SHOWMANSHIP won honors for Carol Olson of the Cedar 4-H club of Middle River, with her Columbia lamb. Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Olson. Miss Olson did an excellent job of showing her lamb at the Newfolden fat animal show to win high praise and honor from the judges of the show.

Council to Discuss Parking Problems Tuesday Evening

Diagonal versus Parallel System for Second Street Will Be Discussed Again

Three matters held over from the August 16 session will be taken up at the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening, Sept. 20.

Probably the most controversial will be the subject of angle parking on Second st. between Main and Horace avs. which has occupied considerable time during several sessions and which has resulted in split decisions and some heated words. At the regular September meeting, three separate motions were introduced but all failed to gain the necessary majority vote. Angle parking on both sides of the street is still in effect although the safety council recommended parallel parking on the south side of the street following a council request for a recommendation.

Another parking change requested at the September meeting will also be discussed, that of a two-hour parking limit on Atlantic av. between Second and Third sts. and between Horace and Atlantic avs. on Second st.

Rates and charges for out-of-the-city users of city utilities will also be discussed. At present, residences outside the city limits are charged $15 a year in addition to the regular sewer and water rates. The $15 charge was set up many years ago to make the total cost to residence owners outside the city more in line with the cost to city residents who contribute in the form of taxes. It has been the feeling of the council that the charge should be increased to compensate for today's higher taxes assessed city residents.

Warmer Weather Forecast for Area

Lows in 30's Registered Last Week, Light Rainfall

Fair and warmer weather today and tonight has been predicted by the KTRF weather station and the humidity is expected to be low.

Tomorrow, occasional cloudiness has been predicted with scattered showers and lower temperatures.

After comparatively balmy 72's had been registered by North Airlines observers at the airport Thursday and Friday, a cool mass of air dropped the temperature to 63 Saturday and Sunday. Night time readings also dropped with lows of 38 posted Saturday morning and 39 Sunday.

Rainfall amounted to 0.24 inch Friday and 0.03 inch Saturday brought the month's total up to 0.8 inch.

GOOD CHEER CLUB TO MEET

The Good Cheer club will have its September meeting tomorrow, Sept. 20, at the Frank Armstrong home eight miles west of Thief River Falls.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Frank Armstrong assisted by Mrs. Burt Drydal and Mrs. Dake Ayers.

Mrs. J. G. Reed and Diane and Mrs. Erick Peterson attended a party Thursday evening at the Alex Swikla home near Middle River.

Vote Campaign Was A Success, Jaycees Learn

At their regular meeting in the Elks clubrooms Thursday evening, Sept. 15, members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce heard a report of the organization's Sept. 13 "get out the vote" efforts.

John McGinley, chairman of the campaign, told the club that the effort had met with success and that it would be repeated to encourage citizens to vote in the general election in November.

A number of good forums have been scheduled for the state Jaycee meeting in Virginia and Bruce Hall, state director, urged members to attend.

Dan Illies, manager of the municipal airport, showed a film on business flying.

Four Accidents in City During Week End, $850 Damage

Nr Injuries Reported by City Police or Sheriff in Crashes over Week-end

Approximately $850 property damage was caused in four traffic mishaps in the city over the past week-end, according to city police and the sheriff's office. Two of the accidents were investigated by police, one by the sheriff's office and the other was reported to police afterwards.

Reported to police but not investigated was a collision Saturday at 2:30 p.m. when Mrs. Mona Sullivan backed out of a parking space on Horace av. and struck a car driven by Richard L. Anderson, causing approximately $175 to the Anderson car, none to the Sullivan vehicle.

At 11:38 p.m. Saturday a car driven by Harold R. Nelson, city, went out of control on the Riverside park road and struck a parked car owned by Kern Olson, city. Damage to the Nelson car was estimated at $300, to Olson's $225 and to a guard rail, $25. Nelson and his passengers were examined for head injuries before being released, having received head bumps in the crash. Nelson was tagged for careless driving.

At 12:07 p.m. Sunday a car driven out of the alley between Davis and Dewey avenues onto Eighth st. by Evan Ose, city, struck a car driven on Eighth st. by Earl Leiran, city, causing $60 damage to the Leiran car. Ose was tagged for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Investigated by the sheriff was a mishap which occurred at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Gleason av. and Minn. highway 1. A car driven by a Grand Forks juvenile was passing another eastbound on highway 1 when another car driven by Lambert Rinowski, city, southbound on Gleason av., made a right turn onto highway 1, into the path of the Grand Forks youth's car.

Approximately $65 total damage was caused to the two cars which collided with not too much impact due to both drivers' attempting to avert the crash.

Rinowski was tagged for failure to yield the right-of-way, while charges, if any against the Grand Forks youth, are pending.

Dr. Orion Belch and Dr. Edward Gilbert will attend the North Central optometrists meeting at the Lowry hotel in St. Paul Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Warning Issued on Civil Service School Schemes

Area residents have again been warned that representatives of organizations which claim that they will train persons for civil service positions are again operating.

Recently, a man from this community inquired about a course on which he had paid $50 and had signed a contract calling for a total payment of $222.50. According to Clarence Knudsen, local U. S. Civil service examiner, all material furnished in the "course" is available from the civil service commission at no cost.

All cooperators are invited to call at the county office in the court house any time after September 26 to sign the documents.

All participants entitled to payment under the program, even though the payment had been previously assigned, are required to affix their signatures to the documents before the drafts can be released. The first checks probably will go into the mail October 3.

4,400 Fail to Pass Free Vision Tests

Defective Sight Found in 8% Checked at '60 Fairs

At least 4,400 fair-goers couldn't see well enough to fully enjoy the many elaborate and colorful exhibits at the Minnesota state fair and the 78 county fairs held earlier this year, according to statistics released by Harry A. Sieben, highway safety director.

"More than 29,000 persons voluntarily took the eye checks at outlying fairs, and about 13,000 were check at the state fair," Sieben reported. "More than 8 per cent had defective vision, and many of them were unaware of a defect."

"Of the number checked, 30,000 had driver licenses in their possession, and about 11,000 said they had passed a driver license examination at one time or another in Minnesota or another state," he said.

Sieben explained that the eye check was the same as that given to applicants for Minnesota driver licenses, and commented that "It has been assumed that people who voluntarily have their eyes checked have little fear of not meeting normal driving standards, and therefore, if the checks had been compulsory, the failure percentage would have been much higher."

Persons giving the voluntary eye checks were not permitted to take action against a holder of a drivers license if his vision was found defective.

"Defective vision is a factor in the many accidents that are daily taking the lives of Minnesotans," Sieben said. "We, as drivers, cannot be at our best behind the wheel if we cannot see clearly or far enough to react quickly and avoid an upcoming hazard."

MANAGER of the Falls Supply company in Thief River Falls effective October 1 will be Glenn J. Peterson, 812 Arnold av. N., who has been associated with the Gamble store for 13 years and is now assistant manager. The announcement was made by Robert Medcraft, northern regional manager of the General Trading company, owner of the store. The Falls Supply company is a wholesale dealer in automotive supplies.

United Fund Asks Commissioners to Name Appointees

More Public Information, Assurance of One Drive Asked by Rural Delegates

Each of the three county commissioner representing the rural area of Pennington county has been asked to name one representative to serve as a director of the United Fund, now in the process of organization, George Hale stated Friday. This action is taken at the request of township officials who met recently to consider the proposed fund-raising program. Thirteen townships were represented at the meeting called by Albert Koop.

Oscar Houske, acting as secretary of the meeting, reported that there was general discussion on some of the drives we have had in the past. It was the prevailing opinion that contributors should be able to designate what organizations their contributions should go to; there should be better auditing and more public information on the uses of money contributed; and there should be assurance that only one annual drive would be conducted.

Under the plan of county organization being considered the United Fund drive would be managed by 12 directors, three representing each of the following groups, agriculture, labor, business and the professions. Mr. Hale expects to call a meeting of these directors, being selected by each group, in the near future.

Township officials present at the meeting called by Albert Koop were Maurice Steiger of Black River, George Zachar of Cloverleaf, Edvin Halvorson of Hickory, Truman Hemestvedt of Kratka, Gordon Wold of Reiner, Dave Christensen of River Falls, A. J. Wold of Sanders, Odin Hanson of Silverton, Clement Prestebak of Smiley, Sven Sjulstad of Star, Fred Lundeen of Deer Park, Oscar Houske of Wyandotte and Albert Koop of Rocksbury. Besides Odin Hanson, county commissioner Glen Tasa was also present.

Red Cross Board Will Meet Sept. 22

Group Will Discuss Part in Full United Fund Drive

All persons who were contacted last spring to serve on the Red Cross board are urged to be present Thursday evening, Sept. 22, at 8 o'clock in the court house for an important meeting.

According to Ralph Hunt, county chairman, Fritz Bills, field representative, will lead the discussion of Red Cross participation in the United Fund drive now being organized.

State Party Heads Will Support Coya

Oklee Woman Wins by Big Margin in District

Returns from 604 of 642 precincts in the Ninth district congressional primary race gave Coya Knutson 13,613 votes to DFL party endorsee Roy Wiseth's 10,963, a margin of 2,650 votes. August Duren collected only 2,075 votes.

The large edge Mrs. Knutson had over Wiseth came as a surprise and showed her to be a potent vote-geter in the DFL column despite her earlier disfavor with party leaders.

After it became apparent early Wednesday she had decisively beaten Wiseth, DFL party leaders unanimously pledged their support of the hard-working Coya. In addition to help from state party leaders she will also have Sen. Estes Kefauver campaigning in her behalf in the Ninth district Oct. 5.

It was over her support of Kefauver in the 1956 presidential primary, when the party hierarchy was supporting Adlai Stevenson, that Mrs. Knutson first clashed with other DFL heads.

In the Republican column during the primary Jack Carlson got 2,399 votes to incumbent Rep. Odin Langen's 16,070 according to returns from 604 of 642 precincts. Thus Mrs. Knutson is, in effect, having a return bout in November with the Ninth district GOP standard bearer who narrowly beat her in the 1958 election.

Look for Features That Add Length to Life of Clothes

You can sometimes add another year or more of life to children's clothes if you buy or make them with special growth features.

Since growth is usually up rather than out, it's most important to look for ways to add length, Shirley Erickson, extension clothing specialist at the University of Minnesota, suggests these growth features to look for in ready-made children's clothing or to incorporate in the clothes you make at home:

Wide hems.

Sashes on dresses with waistline seams. A sash will cover up a waistline that's too high.

Princess, tunic or other style with no waistline seam. Since growth occurs in the trunk as well as the legs, adjustment in the waistline may be as necessary as letting down the hem to keep the dress in pleasing proportion. A princess or tunic style with no waistline will provide for this adjustment.

Adjustable straps or elastic on the waistband or skirts or trousers for the younger set. Buttons on straps can be lowered or the straps can be replaced later by buttonholes on skirt waistband buttons on the blouse. Elastic in the waistband will allow for expansion in size of waist.

Long tails on blouses to allow for growth in height.

Pleats instead of darts at the waistband on blouses. Pleats can be moved to the natural waistline as the child grows.

Cap or dolman sleeves. This type of sleeve will allow for growth in shoulder width.

Boxy-styled jackets. A boxy jacket may be attractive short as well as long.

Long loose sleeves on suit jackets. If the arms outgrow the long sleeves, the sleeves may be worn three-quarter length.

27,000 Expected on 'U' Campuses This Fall Term

Classes will begin Monday, September 26, for University of Minnesota students on the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Morris campuses.

Although an official attendance report will not be available until after the second week of the quarter, it is estimated that University enrollment this fall will approach 27,000.

The University's new president, O. Meredith Wilson will address the University student body for the first time when he greets new enrollees and welcomes students back to the campus at the opening fall quarter convocation at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, September 29, in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

Classes will be excused for the convocation hour, and students will assemble on the mall in front of the auditorium as the University bands, directed by the new bandmaster, Frank P. A. Benerlscrutto, play for the auditorium steps.

Provost Raymond W. Darland will welcome students at opening convocation on the Duluth campus September 29. Dean Rodney A. Briggs of the University of Minnesota, Morris, which will offer college-level instruction for the first time this year, will greet students at the first convocation on that campus. The Morris campus will offer first-year college courses only during the 1960-61 school year.

Registration, which began August 1, for the fall quarter, will continue through September. New student camps will be held Friday and Saturday, September 16 and 17. Welcome Week opens Monday, September 19.

Tooth Decay Down with Fluoride Use, Health Chief Says

Benefits in First 12 Years Persist throughout Life, Yearly Average Cost 10c

Today's children can look forward to fewer decayed, missing, or filled teeth than was true ten years ago, according to William A. Jordan, chief of the section of dental health, Minnesota department of health.

Sixty Minnesota communities whose municipal water supplies serve approximately one-third of the state's population have adopted fluoridation as a means of controlling dental caries since 1950. An additional 15,000 children have benefited from topical fluoride treatment programs in the last ten years.

Dr. Jordan estimates that about one million children, exclusive of those now alive, would benefit if these two preventive measures were available to all babies born in Minnesota in the next 12 years. Benefits of fluorides continuously present in the water supply during the first 12 years of life persist throughout life.

Tooth decay, the most common dental problem of young people, starts early in life and increases at each age level. About half of all three-year-olds show one or more decayed teeth, 75 per cent of the kindergarten youngsters, and 95 per cent of all high school students.

Studies show that dental caries is reduced 70 per cent among six and seven-year-olds born in communities with fluoridated municipal water supplies. Yearly cost of fluoridation in Minnesota averages ten cents per person.

Topical fluoride applications are recommended for children and adults living in non-fluoridated communities, or in areas where private wells are the sources of water supply. There are approximately 850,000 children living in areas served by private wells who would benefit from topical fluoride treatment programs. One application of an eight per cent stannous fluoride solution given annually reduces dental caries approximately 40 per cent. Topical applications using a two per cent sodium fluoride solution at ages 3, 7, 10 and 13 years require four applications for maximum benefit.

Masons, Eastern Stars Honored by University Regents

Cited for Providing Funds to Build Masonic Hospital on Minneapolis Campus

Each of Minnesota's 361 Masonic lodges and Eastern Star chapters will receive a copy of the University of Minnesota Regents award presented to the Masons of Minnesota Saturday, September 17, at a luncheon on the University campus.

The Masons were cited for their contribution to the Masonic Memorial hospital on the University campus, which was built with funds raised by voluntary subscription in a campaign conducted by the Masons. The million-dollar hospital was opened October 15, 1958. A unit of University of Minnesota hospitals, it is dedicated to patient care, teaching and research in advanced diseases, primarily cancer.

More than 500 Masons from lodges and chapters throughout Minnesota, who were active in the fund campaign for the hospital, attended the luncheon.

Regent Lester A. Malkerson, Minneapolis, presented the Regents award gold medal and citation to Past Grand Master Clyde E. Hegman, Minneapolis, president of the Masonic Memorial Hospital Fund, Inc.

University President O. Meredith Wilson addressed the luncheon guests and Malcolm M. Willey, University academic vice president, welcomed the visitors.

The Regents Award is presented to individuals or organizations who contribute to the building and development of the University through significant benefactions, or who have performed exceptionally valuable and meritorious service to the University.

IF 1960 CORN determined a state's size, Minnesota would be the nation's fifth largest, say researchers of Cargill Hybrids, seed firm which compiled this map to illustrate state-by-state production of this year's estimated 4.18-billion bushel crop. Using the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Sept. 9 forecast, Cargill re-drew the national map, giving each state an area proportional to its corn production. Minnesota farmers will harvest more than 301 million bushels — 7.2 per cent of the U.S.' total corn crop — and will receive nearly $296 million in payment.

HOUSE PLANT CARE

House plants which have been out of doors for the summer should now be brought in before they get nipped by frost.

Plants that were left in the flower pots should be lifted and cleaned before bringing them indoors. If they have grown much during the summer, it may be necessary to replant them into larger pots. Prune them back if they have become long and spindly. Inspect the plants carefully for such insects as mealy bug, red spider and thrip.

Instead of digging up your geraniums and coleus plants and storing them, it would be much simpler and better o make cuttings and root them in sand or vermiculite. A glass-enclosed cutting box is ideal for his purpose. These cuttings may also be started in water.

The tuberous begonias can often be transplanted to pots and brought indoors where they will flower for several weeks before it is necessary to store them for winter.

Late-blooming chrysanthemums can be brought indoors before frost injures the foliage. Use a large flower pot for the 'mums.

Check all the flower pots to be sure the drainage holes have not become clogged during the summer. Poor drainage is often responsible for overwatering of plants.

Prowlers Down RLF in Soggy Game Friday

Piling up a 19 to 0 lead in the first period of play on three touchdown runs by Gary Klungness and a conversion point by Eddie Lietzow, the Prowlers gained control of the district conference football game played here Friday night and defeated the Red Lake Falls Eagles, 33 to 0.

It was the third straight win for coach Joe Mrkonich's squad who will move into Northwest conference play Friday night when they meet the Little Green Wave of East Grand Forks on the Lincoln field.

In Friday night's tilt against the Eagles, the Prowlers won the toss and chose to defend the north goal, receiving the benefit of a brisk north wind. Red Lake Falls, accepting the kickoff, picked up but four yards in three scrimmage plays. Steve Demarais kicked to Gary Klungness, who picked up the ball on the Prowler 40-yard line and, after taking a dozen steps to his right, reversed his field and sped out around to the left for a 60-yard touchdown run. Paul Klungness, on a running play, failed to add the conversion point.

A Red Lake Falls fumble, recovered by the Prowlers' Gary Odegaard on the Eagles' 30-yard line, set up the locals' second TD. A Prowler offside penalty moved the ball back to the Red Lake Falls' 35-yard line, from where Klungness, on a slash through left guard, exploded for a 35-yard touchdown run. Eddie Lietzow dove through left guard for the point, giving the Prowlers a 13 to 0 lead.

Moments later the Prowlers had their third touchdown of the period when, after forcing the Eagles to kick, the locals gained possession of the ball on the Red Lake Falls 39-yard line. Lietzow gained four yards at right guard and Paul Klungness, playing at right halfback in the absence of Lloyd Ranum who was ill, gained seventeen yards on a sweep of left end. Gary Klungness cut through left tackle for eighteen yards and a touchdown. John Aune's run for the point failed.

The Prowlers picked up a touchdown in the second period on Paul Klungness' 2-yard smash at right tackle, capping a five-first-downs march by the locals. Don Nicholson added the point on a rush at right tackle, giving the Prowlers a 26 to 0 lead. The touchdown drive started on the Prowler 27-yard line. The two important gainers in the sequence of plays was a 34-yard run by Gary Klungness, carrying from the Prowler 30-yard line to the Eagles' 36-yard stripe and a pass, from John Aune to lanky Ron Hanson, that moved the ball from the Eagles' 14-yard line to the 2-yard line.

Play in the second half of the game was hampered by a chilling rain that fell in a persistent drizzle. The lone scoring play in the second half occurred in the third period when Gary Klungness gathered in a Steve Demarais punt on the Prowler 32-yard line and side-stepped along the west sideline for sixty-eight yards and a touchdown. Aune notched the conversion point on a running play, boosting the Prowler game total to 33 to 0.

While the Prowlers were rolling up 33 points, the Eagles were having difficulty mounting an attack. The Prowler defense, with tackle Elton Hornseth playing a rugged game, proved sturdy in checking the Eagles' running attack. Fullback Jerry King, on shots into the line, picked up considerable yardage, but the Eagles' sweeps and reverses were well-controlled.

Where Is the Feed?

We are in sympathy with Russ Embury and the Ducks Unlimited organization, and we can also see some merit in the state conservation department's program of wetlands acquisition. But what provisions are being made for feeding the ducks that these two programs are to produce?

We have spent a number of hours lately in patrolling the area adjacent to the Mud Lake and Thief Lake refuges, and we have been watching the flight patterns of the mallard ducks as they move out in search of feed. These ducks, practically all mallards, are very selective in their choice of feeding grounds, preferring swatched barley or Rodney oats. And when these ducks, in flights that aggregate into the thousands, invade one of these fields, the havoc they can create is considerable. And we can readily understand why the farmers object to having their crop lands being used as feeding plots for the Mud Lake and Thief Lake refuges.

With the machinery that the farmers now have available, it is only a matter of a week or two before the crops are harvested, and the stubble plowed under. The result is that the ducks, which we hope to have here for several weeks of shooting season, leave for other areas, such as the corn land to the south. Maybe it is planned that way, and that we up here are only to produce the ducks for the benefit of the southern hunter.

With all the state land that is available in this area, and adjacent to the refuges, we have often wondered why several feeding plots, seeded to barley, could not be provided. These feed plots would be attractive to local and flight ducks. While the hunters would be barred from shooting ducks in these feeding areas, it is probable that the flight shooting, as the ducks moved from the refuges to the feeding areas, would provide great sport.

It's not fair to expect the farmers in this area to provide the feed for the flight ducks. Some solution to this problem must be found.

His Finest Game

One of the features of the Prowlers vs. Red Lake Falls football game here Friday night, in addition to Gary Klungness' success in returning kicks, was the defensive play of the Prowler front line. And one of the star performers in this sturdy front wall performance was Elton Hornseth, the Prowlers' 205-pound, six-foot two-inch, junior tackle. Number forty-one on the program, and number forty-one on the field, too.

Hornseth, who saw limited service as a sophomore last season, has, in the two games played to date, blossomed into one of the best, and roughest, tackles to play for a Prowler eleven. And with the added experience he is gaining with each Prowler game, there is no doubt but that Elton will develop into an all-time Prowler great. And the Prowlers have had some illustrious tackles.

Elton's play, and his physique, too, is reminiscent of Charlie (Warhorse) Herron, a Prowler tackle back in the early 1920's. Charlie played four years of football for Lincoln high, being a team member in 1919, 1920, 1921, and 1922. In 1921 he was the team captain.

While Hornseth was the bulwark of the Prowler line on Friday night, he did receive able assistance from Don Ulferts at end, Jack Goulet and Jim Weckwerth at the guards, Bruce Russell and Gary Odegaard at right tackle, and Gary Anderson at end. The middle linebackers, Eddie Lietzow and Ron Amundson, were strong performers, too. It was a satisfying game for the Prowler line coach.

Miscellany

Local trapshooters collected considerable loot in the trapshoot held at Warren last week. Bob Mattson had scores of 25-24 to win a pair of top prizes awarded by the Warren Rod and Gun club. Bob's prizes were a dozen decoys and a sport shirt. Si Schantzen won a wrist watch and a sport shirt; Erling Torgerson won a deer hunter's policy; and Bill Dahlquist won an ice-chest and a colored picture. . . . Bill Taylor, the former all-around athlete of the Crookston Pirates who is now atending Harvard University, is rated as a fine prospect for the Crimson football squad. Bill, a sophomore, is a candidate for a varsity backfield position. . . . Herchel (Pepper) Lysaker, another Crookston Central graduate, is playing at left halfback for coach Marv Helling's North Dakota Sioux. Pepper, who played full-time on Saturday night, was a vital factor in North Dakota's 6 to 6 tie with a favored Montana State eleven.

Canadian Honkers Reported as 'Well'

Extending the Sanctuary Necessary, Farmes Says

The sixty Canadian Honkers being raised at Thief Lake are now a year and a half old and are doing well according to Robert Farmes, biologist with the Division of Game and Fish. They will be penned up until the spring of 1962 when they will be released for nesting.

Another allotment of goslings is expected soon and will be divided between Thief Lake and the Roseau bog. Present plans call for continued plantings each year.

Because federal regulations prohibit shooting within a half a mile from any "baited" area, it will be necessary to extend the sanctuary west of the outlet and north of Thief River.

Grid Game Schedule Set for City Schools

Langen Calls for Area Co-operation

Increase in Beet Acreage Would Boost the Economy

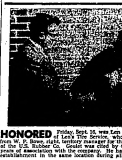
Speaking at Eldred Friday evening, Sept. 16, Congressman Odin Langen of the 9th district called for "cooperation between Chambers of Commerce and farm organizations, businessmen and farmers throughout the Red River valley in order that the case for increased sugar beet acreage in the valley may be forcefully presented to th next session of congress."

Langen told a Farm Bureau meeting in Eldred that although Congress failed to achieve a satisfactory extension of the Sugar act this year, it still does provide for expanded sugar beet production opportunities in 1961. "It is hoped," Langen said, "that the next session of Congress will in the further extension of the International Sugar act, adequately consider revisions provided for in legislation I introduced this year which would assure a continued expansion of sugar beet production in the Valley in the years ahead."

"Increased beet production in the valley," he said, "would give a tremendous boost to our entire economy. It would benefit farmers and businessmen alike. But cooperation and effort must be given if this desirable goal is to be gained."

Langen said his office is presently cooperating with the Northwest School of Agriculture in Crookston on research designed to show the potential for increased sugar beet production in this area.

He stressed that the soil and climate of the Red River Valley give it one of the greatest beet growing potentials of any place in the country.



HONORED Friday, Sept. 16, was Len Goulet, right, owner of Len's Tire Service, who received a plaque from W. P. Bowe, right, territory manager for the U.S. Tires division of the U.S. Rubber Co. Goulet was cited by the company for 15 years of association with the company. He has operated the local establishment in the same location during all of the 15 years.

Announce Policies for New Varieties of Oats and Wheat

No Price Regulations Are Expected to Be Necessary According to Agronomist

Sale policies for distribution of five newly developed small grain varieties were announced this week by Carl Borgeson, University of Minnesota agronomist.

Varieties affected are Clintland-60, Goodfield and Nehawka oats and Wells and Lakota durum wheat.

Contrary to usual practice, no maximum prices have been set this year. Because all of the varieties originated and are in production in other areas, prices aren't expected to need regulation.

Seed growers will reserve 90 per cent of their crop for other growers in the state until Nov. 1 for certified seed and Dec. 1 for registered seed.

Clintland-60 is an early maturing oat variety of medium height. It has good resistance to lodging and bears large seeds. It is resistant to smuts, to all races of stem rust found in this area except 7A, and to all crown rust races prevalent in this region.

Goodfield and Nehawka are both short, early maturing varieties with good straw strength and large seeds. Goodfield is resistant to smuts and to all known races of crown and stem rust common to this region but susceptible to Septoria. Nehawka is susceptible to both crown rust and race 8 of stem rust.

The oat varieties are presently classified "not adequately tested" by the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment station. This means they have not completed the three-year test period required before a variety can be placed on the "recommended" list.

Both Lakota and Wells wheat are short-strawed, high-yielding, earlymaturing bearded varieties of satisfactory quality. Both are resistant to stem rust, bunt and loose smut. Wells is resistant to leaf rust, Lakota is moderately resistant.

Lists of seed producers are available from the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1.

Growers of Elk and Caribou rye can obtain foundation seed (available only to registered growers) or registered seed now from the Rosemount Agricultural Experiment Station, Rosemount.

Foundation and registered seed of Minter winter wheat is available both from the Rosemount station and the Southern Experiment station, Waseca.

Pupils with Good Sight Get Higher Grades in School

Eyesight tests of 2,200 boys and girls in grades three through 12 have shown that students who see well do better than students with poor eyesight, the Upper Midwest council for Better Vision reported today.

This means that a child who should be making A's and B's might be coming up with only B's and C's because his vision is below par. To prevent this from happening, the council recommends that parents take their children for an eye examination each year before they go back to school.

And parents, the council says, should waste no time before consulting a vision specialist if they observe any of these warning signs: constant rubbing of eyes, frowning or scowling, watering eyes, reddish eyelids, squinting, dislike for reading, crossed eyes, aversion to bright lights, holding material wrong distance from eyes or tilting head to one side.

Professional eye-care, given at the right time, can correct these difficulties and may mean a big difference in a youngster's school performance.

In fact, the same tests mentioned earlier indicated that visual training under proper direction can help children make better scores on I.Q. tests. Several children between the ages of seven and 11 were given an intelligence test, followed by five months of intensive visual training, and then a repetition of the test.

Instead of making five-month gains in "mental age" as might have been expected, the youngsters were found to have made gains ranging from five months to two years. Every child was judged to have made more progress than "just growing up" would have caused. Great progress has also been reported when seeing troubles have been corrected by glasses.

Two DHIA Testers in Operation Oct. 1

New Unit Will Operate in Red Lake County Area

Directors of the local DHIA association took action to establish a second testing unit for the area. The Red Lake-Pennington association will now have two units with two testers keeping production records, states secretary Dale Svendsgaard.

George Janssen, who has been testing for the association will retain the north half of the testing area which will be largely a Pennington county unit. The southern half will be comprised largely of the Red Lake county unit.

The new unit will start operating October 1. All dairy farmers wishing to secure testing services are urged to contact the extension office in either county or the directors of the association. They are Don Walker, Red Lake Falls, president; Dale Svendsgaard, Goodridge; Melvin Melin, rt. 3, Red Lake Falls; Art Stenberg, Thief River Falls; and George Spong, Oklee.

Good records on dairy herds are essential for improvement of the herds and dairy farmers can progress more rapidly as well as increase profits from their herds by using DHIA records wisely. These records provide the butterfat production of a cow, a record of breeding lines, identification of calves, cost of feed, and amount of money the cow makes over feed costs is calculated on each cow. Electronic records are now also available thru DHIA for dairy farmers at $1.35 a year per cow in addition to DHIA costs. Further details may be recured from the extension offices.

Hatch of Waterfowl Late this Season Improves Picture

Production Greater Than Last Year, Survey Says

The late waterfowl hatch has been generally successful and the overall picture is definitely improved. Manitoba production is much improved over that of '59 and a similar increase has been noted in eastern Saskatchewan. Alberta production has been noted in eastern Saskatchewan. Alberta production has been particularly heavy in the northern parklands.

These are key excerpts from the September issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological," prepared by Angus Gavin, general manager.

Annual D.U. aeriel survey in northern portions of the three prairie provinces started August 31 and concluded September 8. Manitoba reported "heavy populations on most concentration areas." In Saskatchewan, populations were rated improved along the northern fringe of agriculture and reduced further north, where water levels are the highest in 20 years. Alberta reported "very high" or "exceptional" populations for the area south and east of Lesser Slave lake and the Hay lakes.

Gavin strikes a note of production optimism, "all observers report that populations seen this year carry a good percentage of young birds." Downy or Class One broods were still appearing in southwest Saskatchewan as late as August 15.

A Saskatchewan biologist, just returned from the Arctic, reported that "all species of geese have met with a very favorable breeding season. Nesting was early and brood success good."

Editorials . . .

"The road is always better than the inn." These words by the great Spanish writer, Cervantes, mean a way of living. In my younger days I often aimed too hard to reach some goal, finish some job. "When this is done," I'd say, "I shall find real satisfaction and reward." But later I came to realize that each achievement, like each inn, is only a point along the road. The real goodness of living comes with the journey itself, with the striving and desire to keep moving. Now I find that I can look back on my 84 years with pleasure and, what is even more important to me, that I can still look to the future with hope and desire. I have learned to take each inn along the way with a traveler's stride — not as a stopping place." —Maurice Maeterlinck

Hold Line on Taxes

Next year's taxes for county purposes will remain about where they are. An increase is likely for the school district. A substantial reduction in taxes for city purposes is possible. Adding it all up we should be able to meet our next year's obligations without an overall tax increase.

Practically all of the city's tax has been levied for debt service, and bond maturities for the coming year are $30,000 less than the maturities for 1960 and 1959.

The city's bonded debt, including the borrowings for this year's improvements, is $1,468,500, and this is offset by about $200,000 in assessments receivable. During the past five years the maturities have totaled about $850,000. During the next ten years the maturities add up to a little less than a million dollars. If these maturities were leveled off at $100,000 a year, which the law permits, the city could retire this debt without any tax levy for debt service.

And what about new improvements? There are a few things we need and these must be provided for. There are no emergency needs at this time and the improvements that classify as necessary are not going to be a financial problem. There are a few things that do not classify as necessities but that we should have, and these can be provided for without taxes, assuming that the city's earnings continue the pattern of recent years.

The tax burden in Thief River Falls has been a factor in retarding the city's development and a serious effort should be made to keep it from getting worse. We are satisfied that with reasonable coordination between our city and school authorities, and with the support of an informed public, the overall tax picture can be improved.

Dangerous Days

President Eisenhower has appealed to the American people to treat Soviet Premier Khrushchev with "traditional dignity," urging calm and reasonable treatment for all visiting heads of government during the special U. N. general assembly session that begins tomorrow.

Under the circumstances it is unfortunate that the dock workers in New York City have decided that they will boycott the Russian ship, making it necessary for the Khrushchev party to break through a picket line organized by the International Longshoremen's Association. Such a demonstration will serve no good purpose and could be an invitation to violence that might lead to serious consequences. It should not be permitted.

Khrushchev himself is not deserving of respectful consideration by our government or by our people. But Khrushchev, as the representative of the Russian people, must be treated with "traditional dignity" regardless of how we feel about him personally, and we would not strengthen our position among the nations of the world if we were to stoop to the level of conduct that has done so much to discredit him.

The regular fall general assembly session of the U.N., which starts tomorrow, is expected to last three months and probably will bring many world leaders to our country. Most of them will come here as our friends. Some are trying to maintain a position of neutrality. A few, controlled by the Communists, are our enemies and seek to destroy us. These create an extremely difficult problem about which President Eisenhower is greatly concerned.

And he deserves the cooperation of all Americans in extending to all visiting heads of government, friends and enemies alike, "calm and reasonable treatment."

Well Said, Governor

Governor Orville Freeman said nice things about the taconite industry to an Iron Range audience Saturday. In the six years since the program got under way there has been a $120 million expansion he pointed out.

"If this vital industry has problems in the future and pursues the same reasonable policies it has in the past," said the governor, "there is no doubt in my mind that it will have the continued co-operation of the state and its citizens."

Well said, Governor. This the kind of encouragement the industry needs in the interest of continued expansion within our state.

This story of taconite in Minnesota dates back many years, and Minnesota has reason to be proud of the pioneering that was done by the University of Minnesota School of Mines in co-operation with the mining companies, in developing processes for the beneficiation of low grade ores.

And the contribution that was made by the passing of new tax laws that enabled the companies to operate successfully here is also noteworthy in considering the record of progress. Governor Harold Stassen deserves credit for that achievement, to which, it might be noted, there was considerable opposition.

It is gratifying to know that a program so long in the making is now working out so well.

Costly and Dangerous

Some thoughtless youngsters are doing the high school seniors an injustice by painting the class numerals in conspicuous places around town, including bridges and water tanks. In self defense and as a service to the school and the city, the members of the class of '60 might take it upon themselves to do the necessary spying and reveal the identity of the children.

There are a couple of good reasons why this sort of thing should be discouraged. One is that it costs a lot of money to repaint some of the structures that have been disfigured. Harold Johnson, superintendent of the water operations, says it would cost at least $1,500 to repaint the water tank.

Another reason is that such pranks are dangerous. Climbing a water tower is extremely hazardous and too often such an escapade is the result of a silly dare. It must be stopped, and of course it will be. But let's not have it end with tragedy.

Next, the Finals

The primary election has come and gone and with this preliminary out of the way the nominated candidates can settle down to steady campaigning.

The victory of Mrs. Coya Knutson over Roy Wiseth must be marked down as an upset mainly because it was a defeat for the top brass of the DFL party, who had spent much time and many dollars in their support of Senator Wiseth.

With this background the Knutson-Langen contest in the finals is going to be especially interesting. Langen is seeking reelection for a second term and should be stronger as a candidate in his own right than he was two years ago. If qualification for the office is considered he should have no difficulty in the finals.

If He Weren't Old

President Eisenhower was reminded at his news conference recently that on October 4, ten days before his seventieth birthday, he would pass the record of Andrew Jackson, thus far the oldest Chief Executive in the White House.

The President said he thinks of growing old in terms of the old man who said, "I'm certainly glad I'm old. Considering when I was born, if I weren't old, I'd be dead."

Government-Run Railroads

(Boston Globe)

We would like to draw attention to two curiously contradictory actions by the government in relation to railroads.

An examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission has decided that the railroads should not be allowed to use the two plans for piggyback freight service that promise the biggest rate reductions for shippers. Reason: This would be detrimental to the trucking industry.

The House has passed a bill which would halt the experimental shipment of four-cent mail by air whenever scheduled planes had surplus space. Reason given: The railroads were being deprived of mail transportation revenue they needed.

Two arms of government thus . . . not only moved in opposite directions, but they moved in the wrong directions in both instances . . .

The ICC has already approved two plans for piggyback service, one in which the railroads move on flat cars highway trailers owned by common carrier trucking companies, and one in which the railroad supplies the trailer and also picks up and delivers the shipments.

In the plans rejected by the examiner the railroads would move highway trailers owned by shippers, on cars owned either by the railroad or by the shipper.

It is in these latter plans that the greatest savings would be had for shippers.

Here was a chance not only for a saving for shippers, but an increased revenue for the hard pressed railroads and a greater use of rails to the relief of congested highways. And it was a chance that could come about by a natural progress in competitive methods.

The House, on the other hand, took a position against the natural progress of competitive methods. It moved to force back on the slower railroads the mail that could be economically carried by more rapid transportation.

In the matter of railroads, the government giveth and the government taketh away. And the ways of government are inscrutable.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

Aboard a ship a magician was entertaining the guests—all except a parrot hanging nearby. Everything, including a pigeon that was made to disappear, was greeted by a shout of "Faker!" from the bird.

Suddenly an explosion destroyed the ship, and the parrot landed on a raft occupied by the magician. After two days of merely sitting and staring at the man, the bird finally admitted:

"All right, you win! What did you do with the ship?"

Business men shouldn't take the game of golf too seriously—or any other recreational game, for that matter.

If you're satisfied with yourself, take another look.

A depth of tenderness never before experienced in a love story is found in the Betty E. Box, Ralph Thomas presentation, "The Wind Cannot Read," a Twentieth Century-Fox picture showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Falls theatre, starring Dirk Bogarde and Yoko Tani.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

To furnish water for livestock, cooperators and ACP participants in the Nobles county soil conservation district have built 130 pits and ponds. These water areas also have a definite place in wildlife conservation. Harold J. Dineen, work unit conservationist with the SCS, reports that many of the pits and ponds had one to three pairs of ducks on them this spring.

Despite the late, wet spring this year Fred Oberg, Baudette, a supervisor in the Lake of the Woods soil conservation district, was working his fields of low, flat, poorly drained Wildwood silty clay sooner than most farmers with sandy soils. How did he do it? Oberg sums up his ability to cope with his rubbery soil in just two words: "Conservation farming." In 1956, Lloyd Laine, soil conservationist, helped Oberg work out a basic conservation plan. It called for a rotation of grain-grain-hay-green manure plowdown. Oberg returns all crop residues to the soil. With good drainage an absolute necessity, Oberg uses well-constructed open drains to carry run-off water to main outlets.

Twenty tons of manure per acre gave a tremendous boost to corn on last year's wheat field, according to Dean Glaeser of Gibbon. "Corn on this field is 8 to 10 inches taller than corn on the adjoining field which was in alfalfa last year," Glaeser says.

Good conservation practices have doubled yields over a 12-year period for an Isanti county farmer. Drainage and wind erosion used to be big problems for Leonard Meixell, Princeton. Then he began strip cropping, tiled a wet field and put in some open drainage ditches and planted a shelterbelt. The shelterbelt cuts wind erosion a lot, according to Meixell. It also furnishes cover for game. County agent Erven Skaar says the strip cropping also reduces wind erosion. Tiling made fields easier to work and the improved drainage raised crop yields.

Danger of Ensilage Gasing Explained

Without proper safety precautions, ensilage of corn, alfalfa, clover, oats, and possibly other crops, presents a hazard to farmers and livestock, the state health department warns. The danger is greater if the crops have withered in hot, dry weather, increasing the concentration of nitrate per pound.

If dried-out crops are fed to livestock, they can cause nitrate poisoning. The condition, technically known as methemoglobinemia, kills animals because their blood is rendered incapable of carrying oxygen, according to Dr. Leonard M. Schuman, professor of public health, University of Minnesota.

Farmers ensiling crops should observe safety precautions to prevent death from the effects of nitrogen dioxide. This lethal gas is formed from the nitrates in crops when the silage ferments.

Deaths of persons who entered silos during the fermentation period of freshly-ensiled corn, alfalfa, clover, oats, and other crops have been reported for many years. Deaths of persons who entered inadequately ventilated silos immediately after the fermentation period also have been reported. In recent years it was recognized that a number of these deaths were due to nitrogen dioxide.

No one should enter a silo for any reason from the time crops are placed in the silo until the end of the fermentation period, which lasts approximately seven to ten days. Since nitrogen dioxide is heavier than air it sinks to the bottom of the silo. Good ventilation should be provided near the base so the gas can be carried away as it forms.

The silo and silo shaft always should be well ventilated, using a blower if necessary. This applies to barns and other structures housing animals that adjoin the silo. Animals also can be affected by silo gas. The area around a silo should be fenced to keep out children and animals.

A person who enters a silo during the fermentation period and inhales nitrogen dioxide can die quickly from pulmonary edema (fluid in the lungs, causing suffocation). Or, he may die weeks or months later because scar tissue forms and blocks the smallest bronchial tubes in the lungs, causing suffocation. With a mild exposure he may develop a chronic lung condition.

Anyone who suspects that he has been exposed to silage gas should see his physician immediately, Dr. Schuman states. A person should suspect exposure if after entering a silo he notices an irritating odor, coughs, and finds it difficult to breathe. Although a heavy concentration of the gas can be seen, the gas is not always visible in lower but still dangerous concentrations. It ranges in color from red to brown, with a variety of red, orange, or brown hues.

Dr. Schuman is emphatic on one point—that ensilage is a perfectly acceptable farm practice with proper precautions. "Nothing in our studies indicates the need for abolition of silage, nor for that matter, of nitrogen-containing fertilizers," he states.

Three deaths were reported in Minnesota due to silage gas in 1955. They led to the identification of the condition by Dr. Schuman and his colleagues, who gave it the name "silo-filler's disease."

Although no deaths from the condition have been reported in the state since 1955, the Minnesota scientists discovered 37 cases of "silo-filler's disease" among 120 "suspected" cases studied last year. Thirty-one of these had respiratory illnesses of at least two weeks duration. Six had developed chronic respiratory illnesses.

Many Elm Trees Winter Damaged

If the once-stately elm tree in your back yard looks bedraggled this fall it's really not surprising. Minnesota elm trees are suffering from several diseases and abnormal symptoms this year.

Leaves on many trees have been turning yellow and dropping. This is caused in most cases by Anthracnose, the black leaf-spot disease of elm. This fungus disease has been abnormally severe this year, apparently because of unusually wet weather this spring and early summer.

Herbert Johnson, extension plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota, says you can spray elms in the spring to control Anthracnose but the disease isn't severe every year and control measures generally aren't needed.

Some elm trees have sparse foliage again this year, a condition that has been around to some extent for the past several seasons. Johnson says several factors contribute to this condition, winter injury among them.

A very dry fall in 1958 was followed by a cold winter with little snow cover. Hot, dry weather the next summer may have weakened the trees still further.

Scale insects are sometimes found in large numbers on elm trees and contribute to the poor condition of many trees. And although the dreaded Dutch Elm disease haas not yet been found in Minnesota other fungus diseases with similar symptoms have been known to kill and damage many trees.

Also, says Johnson, salt used on city streets in the winter kills and injuries many elm trees along the boulevards. Marginal browning of the leaves and dying ends of branches are signs of salt injury.

According to Johnson, proper care, including fertilizing and watering, is the best protection for your trees.

Slow Down and Live!

WINNER in the beef steer judging at the Newfolden fat animal show Saturday was Lowell Johnson, Stephen. Lowell's black Angus was judged the top steer in the show, while Lowell copped showmanship honors as well.

TOP LAMBS at the Newfolden fat animal show Saturday were shown by Wayne Kilen, left, Gatzke, and Ronald Slusar, right, Warren. Both the championship animal and showmanship honors were won by Miss Strandberg, who will be given a trip to the Junior Livestock show in St. Paul Oct.3-6.

TWO trips to the Junior Livestock Show in St. Paul Oct. 3-6 were won by Gary Aandal, left, and Laverne Hamre, whose lamb is being held by his brother, Ronnie. Judging of the market class livestock for Pennington county 4-Hers was at the county fairgrounds Saturday afternoon, Sept. 17.

More Handicapped Persons Are Aided

Persons Helped to Return to Productive Employment

Eighty handicapped residents of northwestern Minnesota have been rehabilitated into productive employment during the past year. This figure was announced in the Annual Report released to the governor's committee on vocational rehabilitation at the annual meeting in St. Paul by the Bemidji district office. This was an increase of 14 per cent over the 70 persons rehabilitated last year.

This increase in the number of persons served by vocation rehabilitation was general thruout the state, according to Marvin O. Spears, district supervisor of the Bemidji district office, and the state division set a new record high of 1,251 persons rehabilitated, 78 more than last year.

Of the Bemidji district four were from Pennington county. The division of vocation rehabilitation helped these persons return to or enter employment despite their handicaps by providing a variety of services. Rehabilitation counselors provide advice and guidance in selecting a vocational goal, training to help the person prepare for that goal and help in job placement when the person is ready to work. Other services are also provided to the extent that the disabled person cannot provide them for himself. These include medical services, maintenance while in training, artificial limbs for amputees and tools and equipment needed in employment.

The Bemidji district covers a sixteen county area of northwestern Minnesota. Henry Howard, senior counselor, serves Kittson, Polk, Pennington, Clay, Norman, Red Lake, Roseau and Marshall counties from a branch office in Crookston.

Orthopedic conditions and tuberculosis were the two biggest causes of disability among the persons rehabilitated in this area with heart diseases and amputees also ranking high.

Business People Urged to Accept Part in Gov't.

A new approach to the problem of how to get more business people to take an active part in governmental affairs has been started by the Minnesota Small Business association with the organization of local and county MSBA chapters, according to John A. Herman, St. Paul, executive vice president.

Cass county, with 208 MSBA members, is expected to be one of the first of the county chapters, he said. Organization there is under the direction of Milt Uglem, Walker, MSBA northern district director.

"One of the prime purposes of the MSBA is to encourage the businessman's participation in governmental affairs," Herman said. "We consider it of particular importance that business and professional people, successful in their own fields, be encouraged to share their experience with local and county government."

"Further," he said, "the chapter should be an excellent means of getting businessmen together to discuss, among other things, ways whereby the general economy of their areas might be encouraged through the attraction of new industries."

Odin Langen Cites Party Differences

Congressman Speaks to Young Area Republicans

"While the August session of Congress accomplished little, it took significant action in two extremely important areas," Congressman Odin Langen told a meeting of Young Republicans in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening.

"The first of these was in the field of international relations," Langen said, "where congress acted speedily to shore up free world defenses in new trouble spots of the world. Legislation to deal with the communist threat in Latin America is an example of this," he stated.

"Congress not only bolstered our defense posture," the ninth district congressman said, "but it also acted responsibly with regard to our national economy."

"For the second straight year, we should have a balanced budget and this means a great deal to you and me," he said, "for when our national budget is in balance, an easing of the tax load and lower interest rates become much more of a possibility."

Langen also described the secretary of agriculture as being probably the most powerful man in the country in his being able to influence the income of so many people by the decisions he is called upon to make.

This statement came as part of Langen's answer to a question concerning criticism of the soil bank. He cited the various abuses of the soil bank but stated that nevertheless the law under which it operates is the law of the land, enacted by congress.

If the democratic-controlled congress is so alarmed at the way the soil bank act is being administered, Langen stated, it is partly because the act was too loosely written in the first place and they needed only act to remedy the situation.

Langen also criticized those who say there is too little difference in our two political parties. He used the fiscal records of the past 60 years to illustrate the differences. Republicans are not against expenditures in the public interest but insist that they be for the most part on a pay-as-you-go basis instead of increasing the national debt, he said.

The meeting held at the Robert Bredeson home Tuesday evening drew an unusually large turnout of Republicans of all ages, both from the city and outlying areas.

Other areas of discussion at the meeting included campaign plans, how they would be carried out and the type and amount of help needed to carry out a successful drive in the city and county.

A highly interesting question and answer period followed Langen's informal talk.

Nine Cyclists Die in State This Year

Education, Care Needed to Reduce the Rising Toll

Traffic accidents are taking a heavy toll of bicyclists so far this year, according to Harry A. Sieben, state safety director.

"Nine bicyclists have died in traffic this year, compared to four deaths at this time last year," Sieben reported.

"It's the responsibility of both parents and drivers to help keep our bicyclists safe in modern traffic," Sieben said. "They must be taught how to ride safely to and from lay, and drivers must always be on the alert for these riders, of whom a majority are children."

He explained that bicyclists must be reminded that they must follow the same rules that apply to motorists. Traffic laws must be observed, and the two-wheeled vehicle must be well-lighted and in good mechanical operation.

Poultry Breeders Conference is Set

Speakers include poultry specialists from private industry, from colleges and universities throughout the nation and from the University of Minnesota.

All interested persons are invited to attend. For further information, contact the Director of Agricultural Short Courses, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1.

Application is Made for Roseau Station

Grand Forks Men Plan to Cover 125-mile Radius

Application to operate a 1,000-watt radio station on 1410 kilocycles in Roseau has been filed with the federal communications commission by Marlin T. Obie and Henry G. Tweten of Grand Forks.

The men earlier this year applied for a license to operate a station for the Mayville-Portland, N.D., area. Erection of the two stations will begin next spring if FCC approval is granted.

The Roseau station would cover a 125-mile radius, according to Obie who has radio properties in East Grand Forks and Lewiston, Mont. At the beginning, the station would operate during daylight hours.

A Glorious Summer
What a glorious summer it has been for me. I've judged queen contests, narrated water shows, attended welcoming lunches, spoken at conventions and started a boat race to mention but a few of the events. I want to thank all of the grand people I met for the many hospitalities shown me.

Hint For Nimrods
With the hunting season rapidly approaching — here is something to remember when preparing game for table use. Game should never — but never be fried. Chefs agree that larger game is at its best when broiled or roasted. Any wild fowl or game, be it duck, rabbit, squirrel or rough cuts of venison, make delicious stew. Another point upon which many chefs agree is that beer served with game enhances the flavor of meat as does no other beverage.

A Flapjack Recipe
Here's my favorite flap-jack recipe:
Sift together the flour, salt, baking powder and sugar. Beat together the egg yolks, butter, beer, and milk. Add to flour mixture, stirring until smooth. Fold in the egg white.
Makes about 18 3-inch pancakes. Use your favorite pancake mix if you prefer and substitute beer for liquid specified on the package.

Parking Setup on Second St. Stays 'As Is'

Council Sets Date for Hearing on '60 Street Project

At a more than usually long regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, Sept. 20, the city council examined the assessment roll for the 1960 street improvement projects, set the date of the assessment roll hearing, and was then forced to table several matters until an adjourned meeting next Tuesday evening, Sept. 27.

After examining the many special assessment problems which always arise with any sizeable project, the council set a public hearing for Thursday evening, October 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the municipal courtroom. Those who wish to question their assessments may appear at that time to ask questions of the council.

Cliff Bjorkman appeared before the council to ask that diagonal parking on Second st. between Main and Horace avs. be retained rather than changing to parallel parking. Bjorkman said that a group of businessmen have been observing traffic over the two-block section of street in question and that the "traffic problem is not serious nor have there been any accidents." He called the move to create parallel parking one which would eliminate parking spaces for customers. Following, the council unanimously to table the matter unil next spring and to retain diagonal parking.

City department heads will be notified to make up their budgets for 1961 and a meeting will be scheduled for council committees and the supervisors soon to go over the lists. Work on the city budget will then begin.

A request by the city schools for the use of the city Auditorium for the junior high school basketball program was read by Dr. W. P. Kaisler, chairman of the recreation board. The request was granted. A second request for a hockey rink and recreational skating rink at Northrop school by the city schools ran into a snag when finances were discussed. If the park board approves the use of some of its funds for this purpose, the recreation board was

Memb of School Board egislators Meet re Tuesday

Minn Historical Society Historical Building Zone 1

FAREWELL services at the Zion Lutheran church Sunday will end 17 years of service to the church and to the community by Dr. and Mrs. Walter Pedersen. Dr. Pedersen has accepted a call from the Ascension Lutheran Church of Seattle, Washington. They will leave here next Wednesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Pedersen came to Thief River Falls from Enumclaw, Washington, in October of 1943, to serve a congregation of fewer than 200 members. Ten years ago the present church structure was completed, the indebtedness has been reduced to less than $30,000 and the membership greatly increased.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Pedersen are natives of North Dakota, her home having been in Minot and his in Grand Forks. He is a graduate of the University of North Dakota and Augsburg Seminary. He later took graduate work at the University and received the degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1958.

A regional meeting of members of the Minnesota School Board association and candidates for the legislature from this area, held at the Lincoln high school auditorium Tuesday evening, was well attended. Arnold Pearson, president of the board of the Thief River Falls district, opened the meeting and introduced Paul Olstad of Bemidji, a director of the state organization, who presided.

Mr. Olstad and William Wettergren of St. Peter, executive secretary of the state organization, led the discussion, dealing mainly with the legislative program the association is preparing to be presented to the next session of the Legislature.

Much of the discussion had to do with state aids and the possibility of a deficiency appropriation to meet full payment of state aids for the present biennium. Mr. Wettergren stated that the deficiency had been estimated at $17 million but that it might be as much as $20 million.

A suggested formula for the distribution of state aids for the next biennium would be based on a maintenance cost per pupil unit in average daily attendance of $300. Aid for the districts with low per pupil taxable valuation would be continued at approximately the present schedules.

The association is recommending that all areas in the state be included in school districts maintaining both elementary and secondary schools by 1965, and the immediate dissolution and attachment of all districts that are not maintaining a public school within the confines of the district.

A liberalization of the laws covering the termination of teacher contracts giving to school boards greater authority in the termination of contracts during the first and second years of experience by a teacher in any school district, and thereafter by a majority roll call vote of the full membership of the board.

Attendance at the meeting was estimated at 160.

'Antique Laws Hamper Rails in Competition'

Counsel for State Railroads Speaks Monday Evening

"Public officials face a great challenge in allowing the railroads to compete equally—in order that the railroads may grow and prosper along with America's economy," said M. J. Galvin, public relations counsel for Minnesota railroads, speaking before an area meeting of candidates for the legislature at the Rex Cafe Monday evening.

The Minnesota railroad industry was host at a dinner for the candidates for the Minnesota House of Representatives, the incumbent senators, public officials and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and news media in the Thief River Falls area.

Mr. Galvin declared that, if the railroads are granted removal of antiquated restrictions, they can face the future with confidence and will remain th basic form of transportation in the Nation. He stated that, in Minnesota, one of the burdens upon the economic growth and efficiency of railroads is the antiquated station agency law, last amended in 1901. He stated that a law which requires an agent at any station which produces $8,000 in gross revenes annually, from incoming and outgoing business, is an artificial standard which has no relation to the transportation needs of any given community.

Galvin declared that there can be no justification for the maintenance of agency service in communities based upon a law established when the railroads were monopoly and agency service was based upon the need of farmers to deliver their grain by horse-drawn vehicles. Railroad studies have indicated that in many small branch-line communities station agents receive a full-year's pay for working as little as 20 minues a day. He pointed out that such economic loss can only be paid for in the form of increased freight rates levied on the general public.

He called for a realistic understanding of the value of the railroad industry to the consuming and taxpaying public and, called for the end of such antique restrictions as the station agency law.

The Emmanuel Lutheran church of Plummer was the scene of the wedding of Yvonne Tischart and Donald Wahlbeck at a candlelight service September 3, at 7:30 p.m. Baskets of gladioli and lighted candelabra graced the altar as Rev. O. M. Simundson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Joseph Tischart of Plummer and the groom is the son of Mrs. Earl Jurgenson of Hallock.

Mrs. Dave Ostby played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Kenneth Haaven as she sang "Because," "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her uncle, Elmer Lee, was attired in a floor length gown of white nylon ruffles and illusion lace over a full skirt of net and taffeta. Prowlers Favored in Friday Night Tilt

Coach Joe Mrkonich's Prowler football squad will move into Northwest conference competition on Friday night when, on the Lincoln athletic field here, they meet the Green Wave of East Grand Forks. East Grand Forks, under the direction of Ron Thompson, who took over the Green Wave football coaching duties when Harold (Snooks) Sullivan retired to assume the directorship of athletics for the East Grand Forks school system, has posted a win, over Grafton, and taken a loss, by Bemidji, in the two games played.

The Prowlers, who will be favored in Friday night's tilt, have scored three wins in the three games played, having defeated Warren, Mahnomen, and Red Lake Falls. Right halfback Lloyd Ranum, who missed the Red Lake Falls game here last Friday because of illness, is expected to be available for limited action on Friday. Ranum returned to the practice drills on Wednesday. If the hard-running backfielder is not ready for Friday's game, sophomore Paul Klungness will be running out of the right halfback position. The other Prowler backfield posts will be filled by John Aune at quarterback, Gary Klungness at left halfback, and Eddie Lietzow at fullback.

Kickoff time for Friday night's conference game is at 8 p.m.

Prowler 'B' Squad Defeated by EGF

Winless Locals Travel to Roseau for Tuesday Tilt

The East Grand Forks 'B' squad scoring touchdowns in the first and fourth periods, defeated the Prowler 'B' squad, 12 to 0, in a football game played on the Lincoln field here Tuesday evening.

The Prowler 'B' squad, winless in three games, will travel to Roseau on Tuesday, Sept. 27, for a game against the Rams' 'B' team. On Saturday, Oct. 1, with the kickoff time at 1 p.m., the Prowler 'B' team will play the Bemidji 'B' team on the local field.

In Tuesday night's game here, the East Siders picked up there first touchdown when, midway in the first period, a pass interception gave the Green Wave possession of the ball deep in the Prowlers' territory. Norm Bolstad, on an off-tackle smash, tallied the TD on a five-yard gain, driving over the north goal line.

Late in the fourth period, on a fourth down and ten yards to go on the Prowlers' 35-yard line, a pass, Don Coulter to Wayne Ostlund, was completed for a touchdown. Ostlund, after making the catch on the Prowlers' 30-yard line, made a fine run, twisting away from several tacklers, for the score.

New Boundaries at Roseau River Hunting Grounds

Hunters planning to visit the Roseau River public hunting grounds during this fall's duck hunting season will find a change in the location of the sanctuary area, announces Jack Jensen, refuge manager. Approximately 700 acres formerly open to hunting and trapping in the East Pool 1 area are now posted as a sanctuary and trespassing is prohibited.

The sanctuary in the Middle Pool 2 area has been reduced by 2,400 acres and is posted against hunting. These changes should result in better hunting opportunities, explained Jensen. Formerly the Pool 1 area has been "burned out" by intensive shooting. The new sanctuary will permit waterfowl to stay for a longer period of time.

Hunters are urged to check with refuge employees in regard to these changes.

'Ducks Unlimited' Is Hunting Hunters

Organization Dedicated to Restoring Grounds

Minnesotans are lucky. Located at the top of the great Mississippi flyway we have the first shot at the big flights coming down from Canada—the source of two-thirds of our ducks.

Ducks Unlimited is dedicated to the restoration of the shrinking Canadian wetlands in which those ducks nest and breed. Their efforts on your behalf have done much to rebuild and preserve the great duck flights.

It makes sense that the top duck hunting state should also be the top Ducks Unlimited state. This year Minnesota intends to rank first in the U.S. in DU membership.

That's why F. John Ward, Minnesota chairman of Ducks Unlimited, has put out the word this year from his St. Paul headquarters.

"This year, we're hunting all-out for hunters," says Ward. "We figure it's for their own sakes, for better hunting now and in the future."

This is how Ward explains it: When Ducks Unlimited came into being in 1937, the waterfowl population of North America was at a critical low. Since that time it has increased approximately 300 per cent. "We DU members choose to think that this has not been just a fortunate coincidence, although no one agency or group can assume sole credit for the impressive upturn in the fortunes of migratory game birds."

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife service, state fish and game departments and other conservation organizations have all played important parts in bringing the ducks back and perpetrating duck hunting as a major outdoor recreation. But DU's contribution is unique and selective in that the money it raises goes directly above the Canadian border to improve conditions in the breeding areas of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

In these prairie provinces are located the continent's big duck "factories" where 65 per cent of North America's migratory waterfowl are produced. To DU, this seemed the logical place to put its money, particularly since the funds invested in conservation by American sportsmen through federal duck stamps, taxes, and licenses cannot by law be spent outside of the United States.

During the 23 years of its existence, Ducks Unlimited has invested more than $7,000,000 in improving the output of the Canadia breeding areas. It has built and maintained over 550 projects, involving about 1,500,000 acres of breeding terrain. This has been done with the full cooperation and added financial support of Canadian governments and citizens.

Minnesota's part in DU's record of achievement has been excellent, far better than the national average. Minnesota is in second place nationally in terms of total membership with over 5,000 members. Last year Minnesota climbed to first place in new members and this year intends to make first place in total membership.

The immediate goal for 1960 is at least 3,000 new members and to bring our total number of sponsors up to 200. (A sponsor pays $200 a year for five years.) Everyone of the 87 counties has a chairman and committee ready to hunt out the hunters. Each has a goal, based on duck stamps sold in the county. They are ready to tell the full story of the work of Ducks Unlimited. We will tell you some fascinating parts of that story in the next article of this series.

Upland Game Bird Season Will Open Saturday, Sept. 24

Sharptail Limit Is Three; Hunters Asked to Beware of Pheasants in This Area

Minnesota's 1960 upland game bird season will open at sunrise on Saturday, Sept. 24, with ruffed grouse and sharptailed grouse being the species that will be the object of the local nimrods.

The ruffed grouse shooting area will be state-wide, with the bag limits being four per day and eight in possession. The sharptailed grouse shooting, which will be restricted to an area in the northwestern part of the state, will have a daily bag limit of three birds, and six in possession.

The area that will be open to sharptailed grouse hunting is as follows: that portion of the state lying within the area bounded by U. S. highway 75 on the west, south to Crookston; thence east along U. S. highway 2 to Bagley; thence south along state highway 92 to U. S. highway 71; thence along 71 to state highway 87; thence along highway 87 to U. S. highway 371; thence along highway 371 to Brainerd; thence along state highway 218 to state highway 95; thence along highway 95 to Taylors Falls; and thence along U. S. highway 8 to the eastern boundary of the state.

A special request has been made to the sportsmen who will hunt in the Pennington and Red Lake counties to be on the alert so that they will not mistake young pheasants for grouse. The sportsmen's clubs in the area have released numerous pheasants in this area, and the young birds are similar to grouse.

Four Local Voting Delegates Named

Sportsmen Will Sponsor Firearms Training Here

Four voting delegates to the Northwestern Conservation club were named from the Pennington County Sportsmen's club at the regular monthly meeting of the local club in the auditorium Tuesday evening.

To represent the Pennington county club are Martin Gulbranson, Ed Rustad, Gay Warnecke and Robert Mattson. The next meeting of the Northwestern Conservation club will be held at 8 p.m. Monday at Warren.

Other business acted upon by the Pennington sportsmen included a vote to sponsor the Junior firearms training program here.

A movie was shown before the business meeting and a lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

Prospects: Fair

The partridge (ruffed grouse) and sharptailed grouse hunting season will open at sunrise, about 6:16 a.m. in this area, on Saturday, Sept. 24.

The reports as to the relative abundance or scarcity of the upland game birds are following the pattern of recent years, being inconsistent. Some hunters who have made scouting trips into the prime hunting areas state that there has been an increase in the sharptailed grouse; while other hunters, failing to see birds, report that there aren't enough birds to warrant a month-long season.

Considering the fact that this area was favored by ideal hatching conditions this spring, it is reasonable to assume that there has been an increase in the sharptailed grouse population. But with the soil bank lands, and the heavy vegetation that will require a killing frost to improve the hunting conditions, it is probable that this weekend's opener will be rated as fair to poor.

John Drury, who ambles across many acres in this area in his employment with the soil conservation department, reports that Kittson and Roseau counties contain quite a number of sharptailed grouse. But he adds that these areas will be hunted heavily this week.

The Bob Craik-Lloyd Brunsberg-Frank Clinton party will be hunting the Salol area, and to insure getting a supply of birds they have secured the services of Jub Prichard as guide. According to present plans, Dennis (Cotton) Langevin will be the post gun for this party, the boys recognizing that he, Cotton, is he most experienced of the group in making shots.

The ruffed grouse situation will have to await the season's first frost as the foliage is too heavy to make for a successful shoot this weekend. The reports on the partridge, too, are conflicting, with the most optimistic reports coming from the Warroad, Fourtown, and Winner areas.

Last Call for the Golfers

The local golf tournament will be closed on Sunday, Sept. 25, when the Thief River Golf club is host to the annual "Snowball" shortstop golf tournament.

This event, which has developed into a top-flight attraction for the area's golfers, has been a "must" on the tournament schedule of the area's golfers since its inception in the early 1940's.

Last year, with the championship flight being arranged on a 27-hole medal play basis, Grand Forks' Martin (Duke) Evenson won the top honors, posting a 113 to edge out Bemidji's Glenn Fleisch. This year's tournament will be played on the customary shortstop golf tourney procedure, with the players competing in nine-hole matches.

Tee-off time for the championship flight has been slated for 9 a.m.

Phil the Auggie

Phil Hanson, all-around Prowler athlete in 1957, 58, and 59, is in his sophomore year at Augsburg college in Minneapolis. Phil, who was a co-captain of the Prowler football and basketball squads in 1959, is a regular on the Auggie football squad this season.

In the two games that Augsburg has played to date, the Auggies have marked up a pair of wins, defeating River Falls Teachers, 19 to 7, and St. John's College, 19 to 12. Phil, who had a remarkable punting average with the Auggies last season, has been playing at quarterback and at end for this season's Augsburg club.

The Augsburg team will play the Concordia college Cobbers at Moorhead on Saturday, October 1st. The game is slated for 2 p.m., and it's probable that several carloads of local fans will make the 125-mile trip to Moorhead for the MAIC tilt.

Note to Stretch Erickson

It's not true that Concordia college's famed Arlo Brunsberg won the state high school tennis championship while playing for Fertile high school in 1957.

It was remarkable that Arlo, making his first try at the sport of tennis, was able to win the 30th district singles title and the Region Eight singles championship. But in the state tournament, being beaten by Harold Levander of So. St. Paul, 6-3 and 6-1.

Given a couple of years of training in tennis it is probable that the well-coordinated Brunsberg would have won the state singles title.

A Win for Washington

The "Big Green" from the north end of town, the Northrop Indians football team, dropped a 15 to 13 decision to the Washington Wildcats in a grade school football game played on the Lincoln field Wednesday afternoon.

Coach George Schlieff's Wildcats, with a burly hard-running fullback in Bob Marquis, led throughout the game, having a 13 to 6 lead at the halftime intermission.

The Indians came back to even the score in the second half, and then lost the game on a safety, giving up two points.

So it's a round of cheers to coach Schlieff and his Washington club. Next Wednesday, the Wildcats will meet Roger Dorn's Knox Tigers on the Lincoln field, and that should be quite a tussle. Knox will attempt to offset the plunges of Washington's Marquis with the running of Bill Dicken, the Knox fullback.

Rotary Golf Team Defeats the Lions

Club Trophy Presentation Made at Monday Banquet

As was expected by members of both the Rotary and the Lions clubs, the host Rotarians regained the golf trophy when they defeated the rival club 367 to 435 at the Thief River Falls Golf club Monday evening, Sept. 19.

The victory was outstanding in that the total scores were made by a team of 11 Rotarians and 8 Lions. Justus Larson and Lloyd Bennes, members of the host club, tallied the scores.

Clarence Mattson, president of the Lions club, yielded the trophy to Jarvis Prichard, Rotary president, after appropriate remarks to which Prichard replied.

Low scores for the day were posted by Elton Cummings and Justus Larson with 42's and were rewarded with appropriate awards.

Others who won prizes for their golfing skill or lack of it included Roger Tunberg, E. B. Benson, Al Purdy, Dr. M. D. Starekow, Bob Baker and Morrie Howick. Awards ranged from a can of "Instant Hole in One" in a pressurized can to pills for the alleviation of many golfing ailments.

Archery Season for Deer Will Open Oct. 1

State game officials today reminded deer hunters that a statewide archery season will begin Saturday, Oct. 1, while firearm hunters will have to wait until Nov. 12.

The bow and arrow deer season will extend through the end of October and some 12,000 archery enthusiasts are expected to take to the woods.

Firearm hunters will be able to pick from nine zones this fall, providing one, two, three, five and nine days of hunting opportunity. Some zones will be open to all legal firearms while others are open only for shotguns with single slugs.

Deer hunters are urged to clip out and closely check the official deer zone map to be found in this newspaper.

Virtually the entire state will have a firearms deer season with only the extreme southwestern corner of the state closed. Over 200,000 firearms hunters may be in the woods this fall.

Game officials indicate that deer populations continue to look good throughout most of the state following their fourth consecutive mild winter. With winter "yarding" kept to a minimum, Minnesota whitetails have been free to roam around in search of adequate food supplies.

"Does carrying young during the winter months need nourishing foods," explains Lytle Blankenship, big game biologist. "If they are able to move about and browse freely there is a greater chance for a good fawn crop. But, if they are restricted to a yarding area where food supplies may become deficient, many fawns may not be born."

"In Minnesota we have been fortunate in recent years to have a succession of mild winters. This has allowed the deer population, especially in the northern regions to thrive and provide fine hunting," added Blankenship. Last fall Minnesota hunters harvested 105,000 deer, the largest in the history of the state. Over 212,000 archers and gun hunters combined to take the record harvest under nearly ideal hunting conditions.

"The success of this year's deer hunting season depends in great measure on weather conditions during the seasons," warns Dave Vesall, game management chief. "If weather conditions are good for hunting we can expect to have a greater rate of success than if hunters become discouraged by extreme cold, lack of snow, rain or other poor conditions."

Hearing Is Sept. 30 on Growing Use of Bulk Milk Storage

Bulk Tanks Are Coming Into Use in Areas Devoted to Milk for Manufacturing

A hearing will be held at St. Paul September 30 by the state department of agriculture, dairy and food, to discuss problems brought about by the growing use of bulk milk tanks.

Because of the current interest in the bulk milk storage tank method of collection for processing plants, it is expected that the meeting will be well attended by dairymen from all parts of the state.

Bulk tanks have replaced milk cans in many areas where Grade A and table milk production predominate, and now bulk tanks are making inroads into areas devoted primarily to the production of milk for manufacturing purposes.

Since the initial investment cost to the dairyman is considerable and some savings can be effected by the bulk tank method, processing plants usually pay a little more to producers of milk marketed by bulk tanks than by the old established can method.

There is some basis for belief that present dairy laws do not adequately cover all such conditions and should be modernized, hence the meeting September 30, stated Byron G. Allen, commissioner.

No Conservation Reserve Signup During This Fall

There will be no signup this fall of additional land or contracts under the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve, A. E. Strandquist, office manager of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, said today in response to inquiries from farmers regarding the status of the program.

Strandquist also said that program contracts which expire in 1960 or later are no longer eligible to be extended for an additional period of years.

"Under the Soil Bank act enacted in May of 1956," Strandquist explained, "the secretary of agriculture was authorized to enter into conservation reserve contracts with producers during the five-year period 1956-60.

"The signup under the 1960 program was held last fall, so that farmers would know in advance of the cropping season whether their land would be accepted into the conservation reserve. Since the authorization to enter into new contracts has not been extended beyond 1960, there will be no signup period this fall.

"Farmers should understand, however, that the existing contracts for 1960 and previous years will remain in effect and payments will continue to be made under them for the period of the contracts and in accordance with contract terms. The annual department of agriculture appropriation bills provide money with which to meet obligations already on the book."

There are 1,061 Conservation Reserve contracts in effect this year in Marshall county, involving a total acreage of 146,404.8 acres, Strandquist said. Contract periods range from 3 to 10 years, and annual rental payments for 1960 amount to approximately $1,474,096.26.

Nationally, there are more than 300,000 Conservation Reserve contracts in effect in 1960, covering a total acreage of approximately 28.6 million acres in 48 states. The average rental payment is $11.85 per acre, and the rental payments for 1960 will amount to about $338 million.

Officials Lay Plans for Checking Game

Bags to Be Checked by Field Men During Season

Regional game managers of the Minnesota game and fish division met recently and laid plans for the 1960 hunter bag checks. "Hunters will be contacted by our field men and their game checked to determine hunting success, age and sex ratios and species being taken," explained Donald Ledin, assistant game chief.

Bag checks will be made during seasons for ruffed and sharptailed grouse, waterfowl, pheasants and deer.

"Our field men will also be giving envelopes to hunters with instructions for saving the feet and wings from pheasants and grouse," added Ledin. "These should be mailed to the game and fish division in St. Paul where they provide additional information on age and sex ratios of our game bird populations."

Ledin complimented Minnesota hunters for their cooperation on bag checks in past years.

Wool Payments in Marshall County $40,141 for Year

Wool growers of Marshall county have now received a total of $40,141.05 in incentive payments earned during the 1959 marketing year, A. E. Strandquist of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation commitee said today.

This completes the making of payments to the county's wool growers on wool and unshorn lambs marketed during the year from April 1, 1959 through March 31, 1960.

On shorn wool, the rate of payment was $43.20 for each $100 received for wool marketed. For unshorn lambs, the rate was 75 cents per hundredweight for the liveweight of lambs sold.

The wool program, authorized by the National Wool act, is continuing during the present marketing year, with a national incentive price of 62 cents a pound. The object is to increase the annual wool output of the United State to a total of 300 million pounds.

Time to Look over Guns, Expert Says

Don't Wait Until the Last Minute to Get Work Done

With the fall hunting seasons close at hand hunters have been reminded that now is the time to look over their guns. Jerry Liemandt, assistant chief game warden in charge of hunting safety, advises all hunters to "take a close look at the guns they plan to use this fall."

"We should all ask ourselves these questions," Liemandt said, "Did we clean our guns thoroughly last fall? Did they operate good last season? If not, did we have them repaired? If we are thinking of purchasing a new gun we should do it soon in order to get familiar with it before hunting starts. How about ammunition? Did we have any left over last season and was it stored in a cool, dry place? Ammunition will deteriorate if not properly stored."

"Fall days are usually filled with leaf burning and storm windows and little time is left for gun inspection," explained Liemandt, "so now is the time to look over the favorite bird gun or deer rifle."

"Whatever you do," admonished Liemandt, "please don't wait until the last minute and then grab your gun and head into the brush. Spend a few minutes now looking the guns over, getting the 'feel' of them again. It will pay off when that pheasant explodes out of the corn or a deer bounds into range."

August a Popular Anglers' Month, Arrests Increase

Conservation enforcement officials reported that the month of August was a popular one with anglers and found game wardens busy with license violators.

"We made 174 arrests in August for violations of the game and fish laws," said Francis Johnson, chief game warden. "Of these, 56 were for infraction of the license laws. Our drive against license violators is continuing and they are finding it most unprofitable to cheat on licenses this year."

Johnson also announced that wardens were preparing to enforce the law protecting canvasback and redhead ducks this fall. "It is too late to identify a can or a redhead when it is dead in your hand," asserted Johnson. "These two species are in short supply and we want to help them in every way possible. I urge every duck hunter to learn to identify these ducks in the air. Know what you are shooting at before you pull the trigger. Our wardens plan to conduct extensive hunter checks this fall and we will be on the lookout for hunters who shoot ducks first and identify them later."

The Minnesota duck hunting season opens at noon on Saturday, Oct. 8, and continues thru Nov. 16. The daily bag limit is four but may not include canvasback or redheads.

Let's talk about the DIFFERENCE in fuel oils
MIDLAND INFRA-HEAT FUEL OIL with CAL-RAD looks like most other fuel oils. But it's the differences you can't see, as a result of the refining and blending processes, that can cost you money and heating comfort. Many fuel oils contain additives. They, too, are different. Cal-Rad in Midland INFRA-HEAT is a tested and proved additive that overcomes the moisture and sludge problems inherent with heating oils.
With ordinary fuel oil in your tank, moisture can cause damaging rust and sludge formation. Let's see what this means.
The opening in your oil burner's nozzle is smaller than the period ending this sentence. That tiny hole must stay open and clean for efficient fuel atomization and combustion.
INCOMPLETE COMBUSTION
Cal-Rad in Midland INFRA-HEAT absorbs and disperses moisture, prevents rust and sludge. The moisture burns with the fuel. Your burner nozzle stays clean, inside and out. No smoke, soot, fuel waste or lost heat. Uniform fuel atomization like this gives you clean-burning, economical heating comfort.
Here a tiny particle of rust or sludge is lodged near that small opening. Deflected fuel drips away unburned. Faulty burning makes soot and smoke. Finally the opening is plugged. Fuel is wasted, heat is lost. A service call results.
When you are tempted to say, "oh, all fuel oils are alike" . . . . think about these two pictures. Remember the importance of these differences in fuel oils.
For the finest money saving, clean, home heating fuel, call the Midland cooperative. Only Midland has the "Comfort Assurance Plan" featuring both Budget Pay and Keep-Fill services and only Midland has petroleum products that are Midland controlled . . . from the oil well to you.
Through your purchases you can become a stockholder at the Midland cooperative.

"I have traveled alone, unarmed, all through the interior of the Caucausus, Turkey, Mongolia, Persia, amid primitive tribes supposed to be hostile to white men. I have also gone among bandits in such places and never been molested. But here in a so-called civilized city, in the evening on a lighted street, near a large university, I am attacked by jungle beasts. I do not think such things should be tolerated."—Dr. Karl H. A Welcome Visit

Crown Prince Akihito of Japan, and his commoner princess, Michiko, are visiting our country on a rather unusual type of good-will tour. In a period of two weeks they will attend nine airport receptions, 30 sightseeing and ceremonial visits, nine other official receptions, ten dinners and four luncheons. There will be no news conferences and no speeches.

This visit will highlight this year's celebration of the 100th anniversary of Japanese-United States relations. It was planned originally as a return of President Eisenhower's scheduled June visit to Japan.

We are sure it was not timed with this in mind but it is timely nevertheless, that this good-will tour comes at a time when Premier Khrushchev is trying to impress the backward nations of the world with his charges that we are imperialists, seeking to expand our far flung empire. The fact that the Japanese, conquered and controlled by us, are now free and friendly and prosperous, should be fairly convincing proof that Khrushchev is not telling the truth.

Unmarked Patrol Cars

The increase in traffic fatalities raises a reasonable question as to whether the banning of unmarked patrol cars has been a factor in this trend. It is a question that cannot be proven factually. We will go along however with those who believe it at least is a contributing factor.

We can see no reasonable objection to unmarked patrol cars. There is a place for policemen in uniform and there is also a place for detectives operating as plain-clothes officers. From our own reactions in driving and from our observations of the reactions of others we are of the opinion that unmarked patrol cars serve a good purpose.

The law imposing the ban should be repealed.

That Panama Flag

President Eisenhower has directed that the flag of Panama be flown beside the Stars and Stripes at one point in the canal zone, thus recognizing the nation in which the canal is located. We can see nothing wrong with this recognition.

The government of Panama has been recognized by the United States in other ways, the last treaty, setting forth the conditions under which our government operates the canal and controls the government of the Canal Zone, having been approved by the United States Senate in 1955.

The President's action at this time probably was taken in anticipation of a Khrushchev blast during his United Nations appearance about the Panama Canal as an example of our "imperialism". It was done for the purpose of strengthening our relations with Latin American countries.

We have no reason to be ashamed of our operations in Panama. Teddy Roosevelt undoubtedly encouraged a revolution that established a friendly government in Panama that made the original treaty of 1904 possible, but the record of our operations in the Canal Zone justifies what was done. We built a canal after the French had failed, and at that time it was a tremendous engineering feat. Central America, along with North and South America and the entire world have benefited by what was done.

But the canal is still in Panama. We occupy a ten-mile strip across the isthmus for which we pay rent. We can see no good reason under the circumstances why the flag of Panama should not fly alongside ours.

Healthy Competition

Dr. Benjamin Fine, education editor of the North American Newspaper Alliance, reports a continuing increase in the percentage of children and young people attending non-public schools in our country. In 1900 the non-public schools accounted for eight per cent of the total elementary and secondary school enrollment. This has now increased to 14 per cent, and within five years, Dr. Fine believes, the figure will be up to 15 per cent.

Most of these private schools are sponsored by religious organizations, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish. In the field of higher education a larger percentage of our students attend non-public schools.

This development of a dual system of education is not only healthy but is essential to our progress as a free people. It is fortunate that we are not all cast in the same mold and that there is diversity in our development. One of the most dangerous shortcomings in the Russian system of education probably is its lack of diversity, resulting in a dogmatism that discourages speculation.

Healthy competition is helpful to growth. It is well that the public schools have competition and it is encouraging to know that private schools are making progress. Lack of competition is an invitation to stagnation.

Fifty-Fifty

In 1941, Sergeant Alvin York, World War I hero, received $150,000 for film rights to the story of his war record that won for him the Medal of Honor. Now the Tennessee American Legion is raising $29,141 to pay back taxes claimed by the U.S. government.

Sergeant York, now 72, is unconcerned. His version is that, "When I got that money I paid the government half and told them the other half was mine."

There are many who would agree that fifty-fifty should be fair enough.

Still Immature

Candidate John Kennedy and some of the lower level Democrats are telling us that serious mistakes in foreign policy have been made by the present administration. They are right. But serious mistakes in foreign policy were also made by the Truman and Roosevelt administrations, and if Kennedy is the next president he no doubt will make some serious mistakes too.

In this area of government administration the records of both parties are both good and bad. Republicans must share in the responsibility for the mistakes of Roosevelt and Truman; Democrats must share in the responsibility for the mistakes of the Eisenhower administration.

During this period foreign policy has been looked upon by the leaders of both parties as a joint responsibility and for that reason, fortunately, our country has not been divided on any important question of foreign policy at the time the decision was made.

John Kennedy is a likeable young fellow but his campaigning to date has not indicated that he measures up to the standards of leadership we should look for in a president. A mature man is not quite so fast with the answers, and he still knows too many things that are not true. At this time he would not be impressive in the company of the top men of Europe.

But What's in a Name?

The good people of East Grand Forks may change the name of their growing city. Some of them do not like the present designation. They do not want to be looked upon merely as an "East Side." But there always are people too who are satisfied to leave things as they are.

Many, many years ago an effort was made to change the name of Thief River Falls. There were purists who objected to the "Thief" and its associated ideas. They thought and thought and thought for a better name and finally one of the elders, who was an authority on history, recalled that the railroad came to Thief River Falls in October of 1892, just 400 years after Columbus had come to America. So Thief River Falls should be named Columbus. It was a natural.

But most of the citizens living here at that time didn't object to Thief River Falls and Columbus was voted down.

The people of East Grand Forks may favor a change but find themselves unable to agree as to what the new name should be. If they should change, the easiest new name for us to identify them by would be Green Wave.

Less Noise, Please

(Financial Post, Canada)

It will be news to most people that an International Association Against Noise exists. The association publishes a journal called Silence. Its first conference was held recently in Paris, appropriately since the French, though reputedly talkative if not noisy, have done pioneer work in suppressing harsh, unnecessary sounds.

Honking of motor horns was forbidden in Paris some years ago. Now the French have a law imposing stiff fines for playing portable radios on public vehicles. The anti-noise people in France have just published a book, called Noise, which makes a devastating case against disturbance of the public quiet.

The author concluded, after extensive research, that the noise of big cities, from buses, subways, trucks, etc. is well above the traumatic or shock-producing level. A big Paris insurance firm found that soundproofing its offices reduced employee mistakes by 52 per cent and improved health by 35 per cent.

Noise can cause heart attack, migraine, urinary and endocrine disorders, nervous breakdowns and marital squabbles. Murder is hardly ever committed silently.

More power to the International Association Against Noise that quietly calls attention to this menace to health and happiness.

Defensive Footwork

(Wall Street Journal)

It's Premier Khrushchev speaking: "If I step on your foot you expect me to apologize. So I don't. Why didn't you apologize for the U-2? If you are strong you can afford to apologize."

The Khrushchev simile is not altogether inaccurate. The U.S. did indeed step on the Soviet foot by sending reconnaissance planes over Russian territory. But, we might remind the Premier, this action was taken because the Russian foot has long been poised for kicking and it would be a weak nation that did nothing more than put itself in the appropriate posture.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

An elderly lady driving up the Pacific Coast highway in California zoomed past a state highway officer who was cruising along at the correct highway speed limit. He gave chase and when he had brought her to a stop, he asked to see her driver's license.

"Young man," she said sternly, "how can I be expected to show you my driver's license when you people keep taking it away from me all the time?"

The truck diver was carefully maneuvering his truck past another car when a lady driver, attempting to park her car in very limited quarters, crashed into him.

Her face flushed with exasperation, the irate lady leaned out the window. "You could see I was going to do something stupid," she yelled up to the trucker, "why didn't you wait to see what it was?"

BUDGET OUT OF BALANCE?

. . . here's sure way to solve your problem!

Budgets-out-of-balance probably cause more family arguments than almost anything else! Usually the trouble is that the amount budgeted for SAVINGS has a way of simply disappearing into the thin air. The argument then is about how or why this happened and who was responsible! The solution is as simple as this: If you would make it a practice to DEPOSIT your budgeted savings FIRST thing every payday, they couldn't disappear, and there'd be nothing to argue about. In the interests of family harmony and a growing bank account, always do your saving BEFORE you do your spending . . . starting very next payday!

Light Weight Wheat Eligible for Support

Price-support regulations on 1960-crop wheat have been relaxed to include lightweight wheat previously ineligible for support, A. E. Strandquist, office manager of the Marshall county ASC office has announced. The change has been made because prolonged drought in some areas is resulting in a higher percentage of lightweight wheat than usual.

Under the relaxed regulations, wheat grading "sample" on test weight only will now be eligible for support, but no wheat testing less than 40 pounds per bushel will be eligible. Before the provisions were relaxed, price support was limited to wheat grading No. 3 or better, or No. 4 or No. 5 on test weight only.

The lightweight wheat will be discounted below the minimum test weight (50 or 51 pounds a bushel, depending on class) for Grade No. 5 wheat at the rate of 4 cents for each pound thru 45 pounds per bushel and 6 cents for each pound thereafter for wheat having a test weight of 40 thru 44 pounds per bushel. This discount will be in addition to other required discounts and will be added to the discount of 9 cents per bushel for wheat grading No. 5 on test weight.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota by JIM KIMBALL

"In the fall a man's fancy turns to guns, boots and dogs." Nothing romantic or poetic about that homemade verse but wives of hunters will vouch for the truth of it and June brides of young hunters must soon face its awful reality.

Well, gentlemen, now that we have bluntly told the fair sex one of the facts of life (and hope we got by with it) let us talk about dogs.

Dog owners, like cribbage players, are never modest. Each boasts of having the best dog in the country and of having done the best job of training and handling. Now with me this is, of course, actually the case.

Raising and training Springer Spaniels was one of the devious devices used to work my way through school so my prejudices run in favor of the field spaniels. However, I will concede that all dogs, good and bad, are great conservationists. Good, well-trained dog make hunting easier and more successful and they conserve game by greatly reducing the crippling loss. Poorly trained dogs are even better conservationists. By running wild in the field, barking and jumping out of boats and blinds they are quite successful in preventing their "masters" from getting a shot. . . . What greater conservation?

Now for some advice to the man who would train his own dog. First, if you are unable to handle your own kids don't try to handle a dog because dogs are smarter. Besides, even the most spoiled kids are often whipped into line by their ruthless little companions. No so with hunting dogs. Untrained, they are worse than nothing.

If the first blessed event in your family should happen to be a puppy you have the opportunity of a lifetime. To master the art of developing this pup into a well-mannered, obedient hunting dog virtually assures you of the ability to raise a family of respectful, well adjusted, happy kids. Before your dog is trained you will have learned patience, tolerance, and never to give an order unless you are in a position to enforce it. I wish one of these survey polls would study the kids of successful dog owners. I bet they wouldn't find a spoiled one in the lot.

Dog owners will disagree on many points but they all agree that after once hunting over a good dog you will never be happy without one. Watching your dog work is at least half the joy of hunting. Sending your dog into a thicket is more pleasant than crashing through it yourself and there is no thrill like having your dog flush the cock pheasant or grouse while you stand in the open where you can make a good clean kill and know your bird will be retrieved.

The love of a boy for his dog has been much eulogized but the bond of friendship between a hunter and good working dog is one of man's finer blessings.

Precision in a Pipe Organ

You know what precision it requires to build a bridge, or an engine, or a watch. The same exactness goes into the construction of a pipe organ.

But the men who make pipe organs, like all others who build, have a feeling for the USE of their product.

An organ will lead hundreds in their worship of God. It will support a talented choir in the rendition of a sacred cantata. Or it will blend with a host of untrained voices to raise a stirring hymn to God. It will sing softly while Christians commune, or thunder majestically a great recessional.

And yet this valuable organ whose creation requires such skill and precision is secondary in the life of the Church. It is simply an instrument, like this weekly advertisement, to help the Church fulfill its Mission. That Mission is to lead you, and your family, and your world, to the Lord.

When the organ calls men to worship — be there!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

will finance the new homes of the 1960's?
To meet the housing needs of America's exploding population, some 13,500,000 privately financed new homes will be needed by America's families in the next ten years. Where will the billions of dollars to finance these homes come from?
Currently, Insured Savings and Loan Associations, like ours, are making more loans for the construction of homes than any other type of financial institution. During the 1960's the greatest demand for home financing will fall on Insured Savings and Loan Associations.
It is a challenge we accept . . . pledging ourselves to continue to serve you in the future as we have in the past.

Four Persons Hurt in Crash over Weekend

Car Misses Turn Near St. Hilaire Injuries Are Light

Two traffic mishaps in Pennington county over the weekend resulted in minor injuries to four persons in one of the cars involved and total damages estimated at $850, Sheriff Charles Richards reported today.

Richards said the first mishap occurred at 10:15 p.m. Friday when a car driven by Vincent Hesse, 19, city, failed to negotiate a T-intersection, about a mile and a half northwest of St. Hilaire, and crashed into the ditch.

Hesse was treated for cuts, while his passengers, Myron Gutterud, 19, Sharon Horejsh and Lorna Lappegaard, both 15, sustained cuts and other injuries. Gutterud and the Lappegaard girl both lost teeth in the mishap. All from Thief River Falls.

Damage to the car was estimated at $250. The case is still under investigation, Richards said.

In the other mishap, two miles south and two miles west of the city, Mrs. Clifford Swanson was driving north and approaching an intersection about 6:25 p.m. Saturday.

Seeing a car approaching from the east, she applied brakes and apparently held them too long, thus going into a slide and rolling over in the intersection, Richards said. Damage to the car was estimated at $600 but there were no injuries.

Alma Trailer Plant in Red Lake Falls Closed Thursday

Overproduction, Break in Wage Negotiations Are Given as Two Reasons

The Alma Trailer Co. plant in Red Lake Falls, closed for several weeks in August, shut down again Thursday, September 22, laying off about 29 employes.

According to the Red Lake Falls Gazette, the company closed to allow sales to catch up with production. No date for the resumption of work has been given.

James Ryan, Sr., president of the company, stated that the shutdown was to clear the inventory and that there had been a misunderstanding with the employes. He added that the workers are not represented by a union and that he did not know of any union coming in.

According to the Gazette, wage negotiations had been under way with no settlement. A wage increase proposed by workers was reported to have been refused by the company and a counter offer by the company was refused by the employes.

Alma currently has a backlog of about 30 completed mobile homes on its lots and material for producing 25 more. The Red Lake Falls plant is dependent upon the home plant in Michigan some of its heavy, shaped millwork and other components. The firm leased the building at Red Lake Falls for 20 years with an option to buy.

New Car Models Make Appearance in Showrooms Soon

Trend Toward Bigger, More Powerful Autos May Be Thing of Past

This is the season of the year when new-car buyers and "shoppers" draw in breaths of that glorious odor known as the "new car smell."

Beginning this weekend, the 1961 models make their appearance in dealers' showrooms and visitors will have their annual opportunity to compare makes and models.

The trend toward bigger automobiles with greater horsepower seems to have slowed down and, in some cases, reversed itself. One major manufacturer at least is advertising a slightly narrower and shorter line of cars.

Economy of operation is stressed in much of the advertising this year and some new smaller models are being introduced.

Gone or going from the scene are the big tall fins which have been the subject of much discussion for several years and the rear ends of some cars have been given a much smoother and tapered look.

Pictures of several models of the new 1961 automobiles are being carried in this issue of the Times and others will be shown in later issues.

Organization of beginning band and orchestra classes will begin this week in the Thief River Falls elementary schools with demonstration programs at each school, according to James Solsten and John Moum, instrumental music instructors.

All parents who are interested in having their fifth and sixth grade children begin studying a band or orchestra instrument are urged to attend the programs. Those who are unable to attend the program at the school where their children attend are welcome at programs at the other schools.

All demonstration meetings will begin at 8 p.m. The Knox school program will be in the gymnasium Tuesday, September 27; the Washington school program will be Wednesday, September 28 and the Northrop demonstration will be Thursday, September 29.

Parents are urged to bring their children to the meetings so that the instructors may help them select an instrument.

If it is impossible for parents to attend, it does not mean that a child cannot begin a band class. However, all who can are urged to be at one of the programs to enable the instructors to consult with the parents.

Justus Larson of the Larson Music Co. will display instruments at the programs and will explain his instrument rental plan.

Purse Taken from Car Friday Night, Vandals Continue

Stop Signs, Automobile Target of Painters in City During Week-end

Car prowling, vandalism and two minor traffic mishaps were reported by city police today after a relatively quiet week-end in the city otherwise.

The car prowling was reported at 6 p.m. Friday by Mrs. Earl Peterson, St. Hilaire, who said her purse was taken from her car while it was parked in the 400 block on Kendall av. S. The purse contained $20 and personal effects, she said.

The vandalism concerned painting of stop signs, hydrants and hubcaps, wheels and license plates on one car. Stop signs at First st. and Kendall and Markley avenues, and Schuneman and St. Paul avenues were painted, as were fire hydrants in the same general area.

Clifford Swanson, rt. 2, reported his car hit another as he was traveling west on First st. just after crossing the bridge. The other vehicle, going east, struck Swanson's as it made a left turn off First st. to go north on Horace av. About $75 damage was caused to Swanson's car by the other driver, who did not stop.

An unknown party also hit a shed belonging to Ray Harris in the alley behind his residence at 417 Duluth av. S. The shed was facing east but since the crash faces north. The unknown driver stopped to pick up glass from his broken headlights, police said.

This is BicycleSafety Week—

Educational Programs Scheduled

An organized effort to improve safety attitudes and behavior in children, their parents and the community begins this week, which has been designated Bicycle Safety week in Thief River Falls.

One of the most common areas of concern in Thief River Falls is bicycle traffic. As a result of planning by the local school staff and encouragement and assistance by Police Chief Elton Cummings, a concentrated educational effort will be made by the schools to promote bicycle safety.

The week of September 26-30 will find children in grades thru nine seeing a bicycle safety film, then discussing the film in their classrooms. Three films will be used to make it possible to reach all children in one week.

St. Bernard's children will see "Drive Your Bike" and "Bicycle Safety Skills" September 29. Knox children are scheduled to see the film September 27 and 28, Northrop children will see "Once Upon a Bike" September 28 and Washington children will see "Once Upon a Bike" September 27. Junior high students are scheduled to see "Drive Your Bike" September 30.

Plans are being laid for stiffer licensing procedures and an ordinance change which would facilitate enforcement by the police department.

Safety education has been an important part of the local educational program in previous years. One fact stands out as week and other concentrated efforts the reason for Bicycle Safety efforts to promote safety which will be made this year. That fact is that for parents and all adults such concentrated efforts will be educational and serve as reminders. Unless children see good safety conduct on the part of adults, can adults expect children to follow safety rules?

Amendments Made to Social Security Act Boost Benefits

More Disabled Workers, Children Now Covered; Other Important Changes

Social security amendments signed by the President, September 13, 1960, will bring benefits to an estimated 125,000 additional disabled workers and to the members of their families thruout the country, Walter D. Kistler, Manager of the Grand Forks Social Security office has announced.

Kistler pointed out that the change regarding disability benefits is only one of a number of changes made by the amendments. The new law will bring increased benefits to 400,000 children and, through liberalized work requirements, will make some 250,000 people, age 65 or over, eligible for benefits. Other significant provisions increase the number of people eligible for benefits and increase benefits in some instances.

Returning to disability insurance, Mr. Kistler explained that a person can now qualify for disability benefits without regard to his age. If he has worked long enough under social security and if his disability is severe enough to meet the definition in the social-security law, he and eligible members of his family may draw the benefits if he has not reached 50 — the age requirement in the prior law.

"Those who have already made application to have their social security records frozen because of their disability do not need to take any action now," Mr. Kistler said. "The Social Security administration has their records on file and will write to them telling them what they should do. However, those disabled people who have not had a previous contact with a social security office to discuss disability protection should get in touch with our office right away because benefits cannot be paid until an application for them is made."

Another change made by the new amendments affects people entitled to benefits and who are working, Kistler explained. Unchanged is the rule that a person can get social security benefits for every month of the year if his earnings for the year do not go over $1200. For amounts over $1200 — the following formula applies beginning in 1961: One dollar in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings between $1200 and $1500. If a person earns more than $1500, he forfeits a dollar in benefits for each dollar that his earnings go over the $1500 amound. However, in spite of this rule, no one will forfeit benefits for any month that he earns $100 or less in wages. If he is selfemployed, he does not forfeit a benefit for any month that he does not engage actively in the affairs of his business.

It is estimated that 25,00 people — many of them aged widows — will benefit by changes in the law which permit payment of monthly checks to eligibel survivors of working people who died between March 31, 1938, and December 31, 1939, with at least a year and a half of work under social security. Before this change, survivors could not receive benefits on the social security account of anyone who died before 1940. Also, a dependent widower can now get benefits even if his wife died before 1950, if the wife met the work requirements under social security. Before this change, dependent widowers could not become eligible for benefits unless the person on whose social security account the benefits were claimed died in or after September 1950. But no one can receive benefits under this provision until he has made a claim for them through the local social security district office.

Families drawing social security benefits for two or more children and not now receiving the maximum payable to a family will find an additional amount added to their social security checks for December 1960, because of a change which calls for payment of an amount equal to three-fourths of the base amount to each child. This is changed from the formula which provided for one-half of the base amount to each child with a quarter of the base amoun divided among all the children. Families affected by this change need to take no action. The additional amount will show up on the social security check which they receive in January 1961.

Kistler explained that the amendments also reduce the amount of work time need to qualify for benefits. Instead of needing two calendar quarters of work for every four quarters after 1950, the number of work quarters required is now one for three. Unchanged, however, is the provision that no one may get benefits without at least six quarters of work. "Anyone who has failed to qualify for benefits in the past because he did not have enough work under social security should call at the local social security district office to find out if this new provision now makes him eligible," Kistler explained.

Other changes made by the amendments extend social security to parents working in a trade or business owned by a son or daughter, permit nonprofit organizations to provide social security coverage for present employees who want coverage, and for employees hired in the future even if less than two-thirds of the employees desire this coverage, and give clergymen, whose social security participation is optional, an extension to April 15, 1962, to choose to be included under the social security plan.

A further change allows benefits to be paid to wives, stepchildren, and adopted children of retired and disabled workers if the relationship has been in effect for at least one year. In addition, the lump sum death payment can now be paid directly to the funeral director if no widow or widower of the deceased survives, and the person responsible for the payment of the burial expenses agrees to this disposition, or if no one assumes responsibility for the burial expenses within 90 days of the date of death.

Finally, under the two further changes in social security disability insurance, a person drawing disability benefits may have a trial work period of 12 months during which he will continue to receive his monthly checks. The second change affects anyone who again becomes disabled within five years of the time that a previous period of disability ended.

"For further information about how these amendments affect you, phone, write, or call at your social security district office at Grand Forks," Kistler explains. "You should make sure to call if you may be newly entitled to benefits. Monthly checks cannot be started until an application for them is made."

Last week as I putting my blanket down on the beach by the lake in Bemidji I noticed a particularly nice bunch of grasses at my feet. I though to myself, "Now if I were Eisenhower or Churchill or even Dinah Shore, I would draw that." Just for the fun of it I decided to try. So Page and I left our blanket and walked up town to buy a sketch pad and two pencils. With these back at the beach, I tried to reproduce the wiggly stems and little round seeds with pencil squiggles. This attempt and a later drawing of a tumbled down building convinced me that I had better seek help and advice if I fully intended to become an artist. When I got home I checked to see what the library had that might help me with pencil drawing. After all I had invested in two pencils.

The books I found on the art shelf pleased me very much. One in particular fitted my needs to a "T." My knowledge consisted mostly of recognizing the sharpened end of the pencil from the unsharpened one. I was stumped by different kinds of pencils and when I had tried to draw the tumbled-down building I had no idea how to make the shadows. But "Pencil Drawing" by Ernest W. Watson answered all my questions. It was filled with working knowledge that is a mystery to beginners but which experienced artists take so much for granted they forget to mention it at all. Simple things like how to sharpen your pencils for the best effect, how to erase and what kinds of paper to use were all explained. I had bought a B and a 5B pencil, but I found by reading Mr. Watson's book that you can produce a full range of greys if you have a complete set of pencils from 2H to 5B. Mr. Watson accompanied his explanations with picture examples of what effects a certain pencil will produce on a certain paper.

If you are an absolute beginner like me, then "Pencil Drawing" is the book for you. But there are lots of other interesting, if more technical, books on the shelf. "The Quickest Way to Draw Well" by Frederic Taubes is more wordy but has wonderful examples to show you how to give the impression of an object without putting in every detail. Drawing every leaf on a tree is far too wearisome and time-consuming a task for anyone, but it is something that a beginner might attempt.

Several books deal primarily with drawing people—a very difficult thing to do, I think. I, like Grandma Moses, find that stick-like figures serve me best, so I was very interested to find that they are a good way to start.

Truly the most fascinating book I found was "How to Draw Farm Animals" by Arthur Zaidenberg. Nothing amuses a little child like my two year old more, when she needs to settle down, than pictures. And while she is willing to accept my "circle" cats and rabbits as the real things, I would like to learn to make them better.

Actually two things started me on this drawing kick. One was the bunch of weeds on the beach and the other was a children's book which Page brought me in the library. Called "Jane Likes Pictures" by Elisabeth MacIntyre, it added considerably to my repertoire of "circle" cats and rabbits for now I can draw fish, ducks, elephants and a row of little boys holding hands all with circles and loops. It is a book to delight all adults and children. And it allowed me to expand my talent so tremendously that my newly adopted motto is "Anyone CAN draw!"

Systemic Control of Grain Rusts Is Getting Closer

Chemical Measures May Play an Important Role in Fighting Plant Diseases

The day when rust diseases in small grain crops may be controlled by chemicals is closer because of a recent finding by University of Minnesota plant physiologists.

Arne S. Andersen and J. B. Rowell have devised a successful method of measuring the effective life of chemicals used for systemic rust control. Systemic control means the chemical is taken up by the plant system and fights rust from inside the plant. Main advantage of this method is that rain can't wash protection away.

Systemic control isn't a new idea. German scientists were studying the method over 20 years ago. Finding the right chemical to do the job has been—and still is—a problem. The ideal control must do several things: enter the plant easily, act as an aradicant (by removing rust symptoms already present), remain active in the plant over a long period of time, be inexpensive and leave no toxiv residue.

Scientists have known that nickel chloride readily enters the plant system— but when used alone remains effective only for a day or two. Andersen and Rowell find the cycloheximide derivatives—chemicals already in limited use to control white pine blister rust—will fight rust from inside a grain plant for as long as three weeks. Two treatments could see a plant safely through a rust epidemic.

The problem is, the cycloheximides are slow to enter the plant and are too expensive for practical use.

However, Andersen and Rowell's measurement technique now give scientists a tool which may help them learn more about the mechanisms in a plant which affect chemically induced rust resistance. This in turn may lead to discovery of a low-cost rust control chemical which combines the easy entry of nickel chloride with the lasting ability of the cycloheximides.

The main approach in rust control has been in developing new varieties which resist prevailing diseases. This approach will continue to be important. But chemical measures could play an important role in controlling diseases between the time new races or strains first appear and the time new, resistant varieties are developed.

TRAINING in the techniques of blood bank work was given to representatives from several area hospitals and institutions at Northwestern hospital Friday and Saturday, September 23-24. The class was open to all medical laboratory personnel currently engaged in laboratory work on a full or part-time basis. Miss Virginia Burrs of Minneapolis, right, medical laboratory consultant wth the state department of health, and Mrs. Lilian Ose, left, chief technologist at Northwestern hospital, discuss some of the work with Sister Robertine, center, of St. Johns' hospital in Red Lake Falls.

Apple Trees Show Damage by Fungus

All Varieties Susceptible, Spring Spraying is Urged

If the leaves on your apple trees are falling earlier than usual this fall, it's probably because of apple scab fungus. Many apple trees, especially the Hopa ornamental crab, have shown severe symptoms of the disease this season.

Leaves and ends of young twigs turned black on many trees early in the summer. Foliage was sparse all season and with the early leaf fall many trees are now almost completely bare.

The disease also attacks apple fruit and results in large, brown, dry spots which appear on many apples.

High moisture conditions in late spring and early summer permitted the unusually heavy infection this year, according to Herbert Johnson, extension plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota.

Infection spots were close together on the leaves and these have grown together in many cases. Also, additional infection has taken place from time to time during the summer.

Varieties of apple and crabapple differ somewhat in their resistance to the disease. Generally all varieties are susceptible.

Fungus spores that live over winter on diseased leaves could cause infection in your trees again next spring. Fall chemical treatments are not recommended but carefully cleaning up fallen leaves may help prevent spread of the disease next year.

The disease is controlled in the spring and summer by spraying. The "Home Fruit Spray Guide," available at all county extension offices and from the Bulletin room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1, gives the materials and schedule for spray application.

A fertilizer application next spring will improve the general health and vigor of your apple trees.

Start Drive to Save Two Duck Species

An all-out effort is being made by the Department of the Interior to save the canvasback and redhead ducks from the guns of the careless hunter.

The drive is based upon the premise that there is a possibility that nesting condition for two species will be improved next year and that as many birds as possible should be returned for next year's breeding season. Regulations already issued put these birds on the fully protected list in all flyways; an educational campaign to aid the hunter observe these regulations is being launched.

Newspapers and radio and television stations are being asked to cooperate. Appeals also are being made to hunters directly through posters to be put up in gun clubs and in other places frequented by hunters. State conservation agencies are aiding in these efforts and are carrying out similar programs.

Special identification leaflets also are to be distributed in addition to the material being carried in newspapers, on television or explained over the air.

The educational drive is built around a drawing of a pair of redhead and a pair of canvasback ducks, prepared by the wildlife artist of the Fish and Wildlife Service. The title is "Don't Shoot Us". A truism is emphasized—Dead Birds Do Not Nest. This is being distributed to newspapers and television stations throughout the areas in which these two species are found. Appropriate written material is supplied with the drawing. The same drawing is the basis for the poster.

The identification leaflet is designed to train hunters how to observe ducks to determine the identifying characteristics. It differentiates between the diving ducks, to which the redheads and canvasbacks belong, and the puddle ducks. It further points out differences between the canvasback and redheads as compared with other diving ducks. This leaflet has also been prepared by the Fish and Wildlife Service artist.

The drive is aimed at the careless or over-anxious hunter, the well-intentioned fellow who can unwittingly kill a canvasback or redhead duck just as effectively as if he had done so on purpose. The hope is to get the hunters to withhold their fire until they are sure the birds in their gunsights are not canvasbacks or redheads.

Haugstul is Winner of Golf Tournament

Medal Play Score of 115 Tops for Flight Honors

Fosston's smooth-swinging Jim Haugstul, with a three-round medal play score of 115, won the championship flight honors in the "Snowball Special" golf tournament played here on Sunday. The local club's Reid Stromberg had a 117 for second place, and Ron Kvikstad, also of the local club, had a 118 for third place. Seven golfers participated in the championship flight competition—Haugstul, Stromberg, Kvikstad, Ray Kruger, Chet Highness, Stan Larson and Glenn Fleisch—and the flight play was arranged on a 27-hole medal play basis. The competition in the other flights was on a match-play basis.

In the championship flight play, Haugstul was one stroke off the pace at the end of the 1st round, having a one-over-par 37 while Stromberg came in with a 36.

On the second round, Stromberg carded a seven on the par three eight hole, and marked up a 43 for a total of 79. Haugstul, with a steady brand of golf, marked up a 38 and a 75, holding a two-troke lead over Ron Kvikstad, who carded a 38-39.

On the final round, Haugstul, playing in the last foursome to tee off, was aware that he had a two-stroke "cushion" over Stromberg and played conservative golf, carding a 40, for a three-round medal of 115.

Jim Haugstul's card:

Par	444	334	435—36
Haugstul	554	344	544—38
Haugstul	554	244	445—37
Haugstul	555	344	435—40

The flight winners, runners-up, and consolation winners:

First flight—won by Jim Solsten, runner-up Gene Radeke, and consolation winner, Chuck Hiller.

Second flight—Curt Johnson, Al Satter, and George Lennon.

Fourth flight — Bob Gaarer, Phil Hornbacher, and Earle Anderson.

Fifth flight—Nickey Carlson, Glenn Krenz, and Herman Anderson.

Sixth flight — Jim Vavrosky, Duane Olson, and Shorty O'Hara.

Fifty years ago, some 200 offenses were punishable by death in England. Now only four are—arson, treason, murder and piracy.

DUCK hunters should be elated over the recent survey completed by Ducks Unlimited of Canada. The late hatch, which started in mid-July, showed an improved waterfowl picture. Manitoba production has been generally good as was true in eastern Saskatchewan. In Alberta, production has been particularly heavy in the northern parklands and surprisingly good in the south.

Hunters Urged to Return Postcards

Survey Will Determine Seasonal Waterfowl Kill

Daniel H. Janzen, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife at Washington, D.C., has urged all waterfowl who have received registration cards with the purchase of their federal duck stamps to cooperate with the Fish and Wildlife service of the U.S. Department of the Interior by filling out and promptly returning the indicated portion of the form.

This year more than 1,400 post offices throughout the country have been furnished with double postcard forms which are handed to purchasers of duck stamps at these particular post offices.

One-half of the card is to be filled out by the hunter and returned at once to the bureau. The other half is to be retained as a sort of scorecard on which the hunter can list the numbers and kinds of waterfowl which he bags during the coming season, and the number of days he hunted.

"This sample of hunters who return the cards," said Janzen, "will receive questionnaires at the end of the hunting season in which they will be asked to report their seasonal hunting success. It is highly important that all duck stamp purchasers receiving registration cards fill them out and mail them promptly. Cards from everyone contacted are necessary to make our sample representative of the entire hunting population."

The chief purpose of the survey is to determine as accurately as possible the extent of the waterfowl hunting kill for the season in order that a proper balance between the harvest of these birds and the hunting regulations may continue to be maintained.

This annual mail survey was inaugurated on a national basis during the 1952 hunting season when 150 post offices cooperated with the service in handing out the card forms. According to Janzen, it was one of the most progressive steps ever taken by the Fish and Wildlife service in the matter of estimating the annual harvest of waterfowl.

District Lawyers Form a Committee to Elect 3 Judges

Group to Work in Behalf of Judges Whose Terms Terminate at End of Year

The lawyers of the Ninth Judicial district comprising seventeen counties in northern Minnesota, have formed a volunteer committee for the election of three judges of the district court whose terms of office expire at the year's end.

The three judges are Hon. Paul Lundgren of Thief River Falls, Hon. John T. Galernault of Aitkin, whose court chambers are at Brainerd, and Hon. James F. Murphy of Grand Rapids. The only one of the judges who has opposition is Judge Galarnealt against whom a lawyer from Brainerd has filed.

The Lawyers' Volunteer committee is officered by Clem A. Ryan of Brainerd as chairman, Carl E. Erickson of Brainerd as secretary and Herbert E. Olson of Bemidji as treasurer.

The committee also has a co-chairman in each of the 17 counties in the Ninth Judicial district. These chairmen are attorneys Lyman Brink of Hallock, Sletten Olson of Warren, John Padden of Crookston, Robert Wynne of Baudette, John Furnseth of International Falls, John Spellacy of Marble, Charles Clark of Park Rapids, Ed Rogers of Walker, Bert Hanson of Roseau, L. W. Rullen of Thief River Falls, Edward Dessert of Bemidji, Oscar Lewis of Bagley, L. A. Wilson of Mahnomen, O. E. Austinson of Ada, Charles E. Boughton of Red Lake Falls and Thomas Cline of Aitkin.

The committee has announced that it will conduct an active campaign in each county in the district in behalf of the three judges, and particularly for Judge Galarneault who is well-respected by the bar for his ability and conscientious discharge of his judicial duties.

The committee has also announced that a poll of the lawyers of the district is being taken by secret ballot as of October 1 and that the result will be announced shortly thereafter.

Moisture Content Is Important Factor in Good Corn Silage

Grind Ear, Shell Corn to Prevent Separation, Add Water If Corn Is Too Dry

No matter what kind of corn silage you put up, the right moisture content is necessary to nutritious silage with high keeping quality.

Whole plant corn silage should be harvested at 65 to 70 per cent moisture, says county agent Paul Stelmaschuk. This is when the kernels are in the hard dough stage—fully dented and firm.

Ground shelled corn should go into the silo with 25 to 30 per cent moisture, according to extension agronomists and agricultural engineers at the University of Minnesota. But if you put the kernels in whole, the moisture content must be higher—perhaps as much as five per cent — in order to minimize spoilage.

Ear corn is ready for the silo at 30 to 35 per cent kernel moisture. That's because the grain and cob together average about five per cent more moisture than the grain alone.

If you're putting up ear corn or shelled corn silage, grind the corn. Grinding helps prevent separation of cobs and kernels during filling — gives silage high feeding value and helps prevent spoilage during feeding. Also, grinding is important if you add water to adjust silage moisture.

A hammer mill or burr mill will do a good job of coarse grinding for either ear corn or shelled corn silage.

Since both ear corn and shelled corn silage are feed concentrates, you'll want to take special precautions to prevent spoilage loss. Cover the doors and top of the silage with plastic sheeting. The plastic will seal out air and help prevent spoilage.

No matter wha kind of silage you're making, add water to your silage if corn is on the dry side when you fill. Figure about four ballons of water per ton of silage for each one per cent rise in moisture.

Prowlers Down E. G. F. With First Half Punch

The football Prowlers, after building up a 19 to 0 lead in the first half of play, were hard-pressed to hold off a rebounding East Grand Forks eleven and defeat coach Ron Thompson's Green Wave, 25 to 12, in a Northwest conference game played here Friday night.

This week's schedule will find the Prowlers traveling to Roseau for a Northwest conference game against the defending champion Roseau Rams on Friday night.

Unfavorable conditions prevailed here Friday night with a misty rain being slanted across the field by a sturdy southeast breeze.

The Prowlers, defending the south goal, kicked off to East Grand Forks. The Green Wave, after picking up a first down to the East Side 48-yard line, failed to gain yardage in three plays and big Ray Gibbons booted the ball on fourth down to Paul Klungness. Klungness on a shifty run up the west side-line, moved the ball from the Prowler 20-yard line to the East Grand Forks' 32-yard stripe. Three running plays carried for a first down on the East Grand Forks 20-yard line. A Prowler penalty moved the ball to the 25-yard line, and then Lloyd Ranum, on a slant over left tackle, sped 25 yards for a touchdown. Gary Klungness added the point on a run through right tackle.

The Prowlers scored their second TD of the game on the opening play of the second period. Three first downs had carried the ball from the Prowlers' 36-yard line to the East Grand Forks' 2-yard line as the first period ended. Gary Klungness drove through left guard for the touchdown. Ranum, on a try at right tackle, failed to add the point.

The locals moved into a 19 to 0 lead a short while later when Gary Klungness, on a 1-yard plunge, capped a touchdown drive that started on the Prowlers' 47-yard line. The long gainer in the sequence of plays was a 32-yard sweep of right end by Gary Klungness. Following the touchdown, giving the Prowlers a commanding lead, the locals tried a pass, John Aune to Ron Hanson, for the point, but the toss was high and fell incomplete.

East Grand Forks tallied their first touchdown on a 42-yard pass completion. On a fourth-down and ten yards to go from the Prowlers' 42-yard line, quarterback Bob Raymond tossed a short pass to John Wickkiser, who gathered in the ball on the line of scrimmage and, on a twisting run, eluded the Prowler defenders for a touchdown. East Side's conversion attempt, a pass, was incomplete, and the Prowlers held a 19 to 6 lead at the intermission.

During the half-time intermission, the fans were treated to a grade school football game, with Roger Dorn's Knox Tigers defeating the Washington Wildcats, 7 to 0.

East Grand Forks moved back into contention by scoring a touchdown in the third period. Don Coulter recovered a Prowler fumble on the East Grand Forks 48-yard line. With burly fullback Bob Kobetsky doing the bulk of the ball carrying, East Grand Forks, in four first downs, moved to the Prowlers' 4-yard line. Kobetsky, on a slant at left, drove over for the touchdown. Ray Gibbons' placement try for the point was wide of the uprights.

The Prowlers gained some insurance points on a fourth-period touchdown by John Aune. Eddie Lietzow's interception of an East Grand Forks pass on the Green Wave 20-yard line, set up the score. Ranum skirted left end for 13 yards and a first down. Gary Klungness picked up three yards in two running plays, and then Aune pushed over center for the TD. Ranum's try at right tackle failed to add the conversion point. Neither team threatened in the final minutes of the game, and the Prowlers had a well-earned 25 to 12 victory, their fourth in a row.

Coach George Schlieff's Washington Wildcats produced an early season upset in the grade school football league last Wednesday when, with fullback Bob Marquis scoring a pair of touchdowns and adding a conversion point, defeated Dick Brooks' defending champion Northrop Indians, 15 to 13.

Washington received the opening kickoff and, in eight plays, with Marquis driving over center for ten yards, scored the game's first touchdown. Marquis plunged for the point; giving the Wildcats a 7 to 0 lead. The Indians came back with a touchdown when, late in the period, Jon Looker scored from 15 yards out on a bootleg play.

In the second period, Marquis again tallied for the Wildcats, scoring on a 20-yard run, giving Washington a 13 to 6 half-time lead.

Washington boosted their lead to 15 to 6 by scoring a safety in the third period. In the fourth period, Northrop's fullback, Dave DuPree, broke through center for a 60-yard touchdown run. Looker added the conversion point on a quarterback sneak.

Not Much Action

From the reports we have received, it seems that most of the action in the opening weekend of the upland game bird season was provided by the hunters. Of course, with Saturday's rain squalls and Sunday's robust south wind, hunting conditions were poor.

Although several parties of hunters were successful in filling their limits on sharptails, the great majority of hunters had a wet and dreary opening on Saturday. And the ruffed grouse hunting, due to the heavy foliage, attracted but few hunters. Ron Solheim, after an all-day hunt in the area east of Grygla, did bring in a four-bird limit of partridges.

The most successful hunting on sharptails appears to have been in the vicinity of Greenbush. John Jaranson and Art Christianson filled their limits hunting southeast of Greenbush; Dr. M. G. Johnson and Les DeBriyn had a limit shoot on Saturday hunting northwest of Greenbush; and Bob and Leo Pahlen, Len Brekke, Dean Joppru, and Red Monroe, had two days of exceptional hunting east of Greenbush, filling their limits by early afternoon on Saturday and Sunday.

On the local scene, George Busse and Erling Olson had an early fill while hunting north of Mavie on Saturday morning. There were other reports of limit shoots, but these reports were the exception rather than the rule.

As one disgruntled hunter remarked, "The hunting is bound to get better, for it couldn't get any worse."

End of a Streak

When George Schlieff's Washington Wildcats, by a 15 to 13 score, defeated Dick Brooks' Northrup Indians last Wednesday afternoon in a grade school league football game, it marked the first time in seven years that the Indians had trotted off the field in a grid contest carrying the short end of the score.

And the last time, previous to Wednesday's loss, that the Northrops had dropped a football decision it was to a Washington Wildcats team. It was 'way back in the fall of 1952 that the Wildcats, with such future Prowler stars as Dale Wennberg, Archie Schneider, and Arlan Hjelle in their lineup, defeated the Northrop team. Then, as now, the Washington team featured a powerhouse fullback in Schneider. This season's Wildcats squad has big Bob Marquis at fullback, and it was his powerful running that carried the Washington team to their win over the Indians. And speaking of Schneider. We would surely have liked to see the 195-pounder continue his football career in high school, but Archie decided otherwise and limited his high school athletic activities to hockey. Archie is employed in Rochester, and will be playing hockey down there this season.

The grade school league this season is well-equipped with fullbacks that can carry the ball for yardage. In addition to Washington's Marquis, there is Dave DuPree at Northrop, and Bill Dicken at Knox.

As an added note on the Washington vs. Northrop game last week we must mention that one of the defensive standouts in the game was the middle linebacker of the Northrop squad. We're referring to Earl Molstad, the 71-pound center on coach Brooks' squad. He was in on practically all of the tackles made by the Indians.

An Object Lesson

News reports reveal that the Minneapolis city council has adopted a resolution calling for a bond issue to finance the enlarging of Metropolitan stadium. It's only a matter of time, we imagine, before the St. Paul city council will take similar action for the enlarging of St. Paul's Midway stadium. The two cities certainly aren't very cooperative in their efforts to obtain major league baseball for this area.

The promoters of major league baseball for the Twin Cities should take a cue from the Dallas-Fort Worth group that is completing plans for major league baseball—Texas style—for that area. This group has 1) selected a stadium site midway between the two cities; 2) guaranteed enough capital for a $9,500,000 bond issue to pay for the ultra-modern stadium that is planned.

Said one of the Texas sponsors, who recalled that while the two cities were divided as rivals in the past, the residents of Fort Worth and Dallas today are strongly united in their efforts to secure major league baseball. He added, "They are smart enough to know that the two cities must combine and work together if they are to get a major league franchise."

Billy the Coach

The Winnipeg Warriors of the professional Western league opened the 1960-61 hockey season on Saturday night by playing an exhibition game against the Boston Bruins of the NHL in Winnipeg.

And coaching the Winnipeg Warriors this season is Bill Robinson. Robinson played a number of games with the senior hockey Thieves here back in 1954, and is recalled as being a spectacular stick-handler.

Bill, a wing man, handled a hockey stick somewhat in the manner of the legendary Mark McCaffery. McCaffery, of course, must be rated as the most polished stick-handler to perform with the senior hockey Thieves. And the local club has had some great ones in George Beverley, Jerry Lavergne, Chet LeDoux, Bob Baker, and Paul Bedard.

Night Driving Perils Increase in the Fall

"Night driving dangers will increase with fall weather," is the warning issued by Harry A. Sieben, state traffic safety director, pointing out that most serious accidents occur after dark, and, "there are many more hours of darkness ahead during the fall and winter."

Sieben said that during October, safety leaders will be emphasizing "Night Traffic Hazards" as the particular program given during the Autumn Alerts section of the year-long Blueprint for Safety for accident prevention.

"Last year most fatal accidents occurred between 1 and 2 a.m., with Saturday being the most dangerous day of the week," Sieben pointed out. "The majority of all accidents happened between four and five in the afternoon at the beginning of the twilight hour."

During October 1959, 64 persons were killed in traffic accidents, including 19 pedestrians.

"There is less daylight and more darkness during October," he said, "thus the danger hours increase. One way to help prevent tragedies is to remember to turn on your headlights as soon as dusk begins. Parking lights are not to be used for driving lights, but headlights help you avoid collisions and help the oncoming driver be aware of your presence.

"In the fall and winter, this is just as important when driving in the morning."

"Changing light conditions make it easy to misjudge speed and distances for both the driver and the pedestrian at dusk and at night," Sieben warned. "Each must be alert for the other to avoid injury."

Minnesota's Blueprint for Safety is a 12-month program of safety emphasis activies geared to particular seasons. "October was chosen for 'Night Traffic Hazards' because of the lengthening nights which lead into our winter," Sieben pointed out. "Drivers and those who walk must accustom themselves to these changing conditions and drive and walk accordingly."

Leading causes of accidents are failure to yield the right of way, exceeding safe speeds, and pedestrian violations during October 1959. Continuing these dangerous moving violations will result in more deaths.

Warning Issued of New Sheep Disease

'Scrapie' Reported in Two Adjoining States, Canada

Minnesota sheep growers are being alerted to an infectious disease known as scrapie which attacks the nervous system of sheep. Veterinarians believe it is caused by a virus and affects all breeds, says county agent Paul Steimaschuk.

Raymond B. Solac, extension veterinarian at the University of Minnesota, says scrapie has not yet been found in Minnesota but has been reported in two adjoining states.

There are, however, six Minnesota flocks with over 600 sheep now under regulatory supervision. These flocks are made up chiefly of sheep that have had no direct contact with the disease. But, because they are suspected as a possible source of infection, they are inspected regularly by state or federal veterinarians.

Eight months ago only two Minnesota flocks were under supervision.

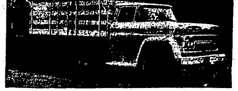
The name "scrapie" describes the most noticeable symptom of the disease. Infected animals scrape off patches of wool as they rub against objects to relieve the intense itching. Other symptoms are tremors and uncoordinated gait.

Infected animals generally die three weeks to six months after symptoms first appear.

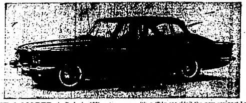
Scrapie is not a new disease. It spread from Europe to Canada in 1939, and to Michigan in 1947. Now it has been identified in 23 other states.

Solac says little is known about the natural spread of the disease. It may be spread by carrier animals or by other means. The only way known to stop the spread of scrapie is to prevent sheep from exposure to it.

Sheep exposed to scrapie in Minnesota are slaughtered. Both the federal government and the state pay indemnities for such sheep. Scrapie is hard to detect and may be confused with parasitic skin diseases and certain nervous diseases of sheep. But if you suspect an outbreak in your flock, notify your state or federal veterinarian.



CHEVROLET trucks for 1961 will continue to have the highly successful suspension system introduced last year, moderate front style changes and refinements in chassis and cabs. Proved by one full year of customer use, the suspension features independent front springing with torsion bars and rear coil or variable rate springs. Cab improvements include a smaller floor tunnel in some models for increased leg and foot room and an optional 6-inch thick foam rubber seat. A 1961 two-ton and half-ton truck will be on display at the Northern Chevrolet Co. showroom Friday, October 7.



THE LANCER is Dodge's 1961 entry in the compact car field and is available in a variety of two-and four-door sedan, hardtop and station wagon models. Above is the four-door sedan. A small car with a "big car ride," the new compact Lancer is nearly two feet shorter and 700 to 800 pounds lighter than conventional cars in the low-price field. The new Lancer may be seen beginning September 29 at the Forkenbrock Motor Co. in Thief River Falls.

Youth Encouraged to Join a 4-H Club in Marshall County

County Agent Urges Early Enrollment to Get Start in the Activities, Projects

Marshall county boys and girls who want to "learn by doing" in a variety of projects, have the fun of taking part in recreational activities and of meeting young people their own age will have an opportunity to join a local 4-H club this fall.

The Marshall county extension office and 4-H adult and junior leaders are encouraging youths between 9 and 21 years of age to enroll as soon as possible to get an early start in project work and to be included in fall activities.

Taking at least one project is a requiremen of 4-H membership. But 4-H'ers may choose what they will enjoy from a wide variety of projects offered in junior leadership, shop, gardening, conservation, safety, as well as in homemaking and farming. In each project they "learn by doing" skills they can put to use immediately, as well as in later life.

Recreation at monthly meetings, parties, outings and trips give the members an opportunity to have fun and to meet young people their own age. They make new friends at meetings, at county fairs and camps.

The chance to hold office, to plan and conduct meetings and to demonstrate before a group develops leadership abilities and self-confidence.

Boys and girls interested in joining a 4-H club should see their local club leader or county extension agent. The county extension office can supply the names of leaders and clubs in different areas of the county.

"The art of happiness, like that of bicycling, should be learned as early as possible. The balance, the unconscious poise, the effortless adjustment, do not come naturally to those who have never known them in childhood."

—Margaret Kennedy

Bicycle Safety

School officials are giving leadership to a "bicycle safety" promotion that deserves the support of all good citizens. There long has been a need for better regulation of bicycle traffic and out of "Bicycle Safety Week" may come a better understanding of whatever code we have in the city governing the use of these popular vehicles.

Bicycles are hazardous. They add to the hazard of our streets and highways and to the hazard of our sidewalks. They are hazardous because most of the riders are boys of an irresponsible age. And when there are no rules governing the use of bicycles, or if whatever rules there are are not enforced, a larger number of these boys of an irresponsible age are going to be a threat to the safety of themselves and others.

On the sidewalks of the business section bicycles are a nuisance whether they are being ridden or are obstacles for pedestrians to walk around. Maybe one answer to this problem is better bike parking facilities.

In general the rules for safety in riding a bicycle are the same as for driving a car. Good manners and consideration for the rights of others are always important, and if, by better regulation we can produce better mannered bike riders we will have done much to prepare them for their later responsibilities as car drivers. Our bike riders are at the right age to learn the fundamentals of safe driving.

We Still Like Ike

We liked President Eisenhower's United Nations speech and we are sure it made a favorable impression thruout the world among people who had not decided in advance that they would not like it. Mr. Eisenhower's conduct as a lame duck president, in both national and international politics, is interesting. In spite of the fact that he is on his way out, he has been subjected to a continuous blast of carping criticism from at home and abroad, but under all of this pressure he has remained calm and unperturbed.

Regardless of what the outcome of the election may be, Ike is going to be missed. His contribution to the survival of freedom in the world has been very great, and it is unfortunate that his usefulness in the service of the people is drawing to a close. It is fortunate that, as long as he is President he is going to be the spokesman for our country, a respected representative of our people under any and all conditions.

During his two terms in office as President, Mr. Eisenhower has not distinguished himself as a great politician. But as his years of service draw to a close he is gaining recognition for his contribution as a statesman. He will be recognized in the future as one of the great military leaders who served his country well both in war and in peace.

On The Job

Congressman Odin Langen is one of 11 members of Congress who had a perfect attendance record during the session that ended recently, according to a report issued by the clerk of the House of Representatives. During the two-year period of the session Langen was present for all of the quorum calls and roll call votes.

Missing a roll call now and then is not an inexcusable thing. Members sometimes have good reasons for their absence. But considering the records of some of our representatives in Congress who seem to spend most of their time travelling around the country for personal reasons, it is nice to know that we have one member who is making a serious effort to earn his pay. Odin Langen has been on the job.

Uneasy Lies The Head—

Khrushchev has served notice that drastic changes will have to be made in the operating structure of the United Nations or his country will not be bound by its decisions. We can't see that that is going to make much difference. His country hasn't been bound by the directives of that organization up to the present time and its representatives have been obstructionists within the organization from its beginning.

Last week the Soviet Union recorded its 90th veto in the Security Council. The veto was used against a resolution that supported the efforts of Dag Hammarskjold in the Congo. A similar resolution was approved by an overwhelming vote in the General Assembly.

Close observers of Khrushchev are concerned about his need for victories to maintain his position of leadership in the Soviet Union. His humiliating defeats in Africa and in New York may encourage him to acts of desperation. There are other strong men in Russia to whom he must make an accounting and, as was noted a long time ago, uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

But under the leadership of Dag Hammarskjold the United Nations organization has survived several extremely difficult and dangerous situations, and is proving itself to be an effective weapon for maintaining peace. It is not likely that the structure will fall part at this time merely because Khrushchev is unhappy with its decisions.

Why Embarrassed?

Governor Freeman thinks the Republicans of the state must be "painfully embarrassed" by Governor Rockefeller's defense of the withholding system for collection of state income taxes in New York. He said that withholding is now a political issue in Minnesota.

The Governor should tell all of the facts when he speaks of withholding as an issue. There has been some opposition to withholding in Minnesota as means of tax collection, but most of the opposition to Governor Freeman's proposal for withholding was opposition to the idea of collecting three years taxes in two years, bringing a windfall of some $30 million dollars that Governor Freeman wanted very much to provide temporary relief for the state's financial difficulties.

In New York the withholding measure, sponsored by Governor Rockefeller, included a forgiveness provision that offset the doubling up of taxes that come with the start of such a system.

If Governor Freeman would go along with the forgiveness provision that was part of the New York plan, we are sure he would find much less opposition to the withholding idea here in Minnesota. We can see no good reason why Minnesota Republicans should be embarrassed by the good results of a Republican-sponsored program in New York.

Our Side Won the Victory

Candidate Kennedy thought the administration should have apologized to the Russians because of the U-2 incident. Campaigner Adlai Stevenson thinks the administration is guilty of a terrible blunder in limiting Nikita Khrushchev's travels in this country to a small area of New York City.

Well this is a campaign year and we take such charges in stride. The U-2 incident was handled badly but not so badly that it deserved an apology to a Khrushchev. And we like the way President Eisenhower has handled the awkward situation created by Mr. K's visit to the United Nations. This visit has very definitely not been a Khrushchev victory, which it could have been if the wrong decisions had been made in Washington.

Considering the rudeness with which Khrushchev has treated him on several occasions, President Eisenhower was justified in his refusal to welcome him as a friend. The limitation of the area in which Khrushchev could travel was justified by considerations of security.

And considering the developments in the United Nations, following the forced withdrawal of the Russians from the Congo, it appears that our side has won the battle.

Going Modern

(Louisville Courier-Journal)

We learned from television commercials that a kitchen is not a kitchen any longer. It's a food preparation center, just as the old backyard has become an outdoor living area. We are not against progress or the refinement of the language, but we can't help believing that Harry Truman's old axiom will lose a little flavor when transplanted: "If you don't like the heat, stay out of the food preparation center."

Smiley 4-H Meeting

Enrollment for a new club year occupied much of the evening when the Smiley 4-H club met Wednesday, Sept. 4. Three new members were present to enroll. They were Lanny Peterson, Charlotte Rude and Lona Carlson. The club extends an invitation to anyone in the community between nine and 21 years of age wishing to become a member to come to the Smiley hall Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 7:30. Election of officers was held during the business meeting. The staff is headed by Robert McCrum, president; Jimmy Helgeland, vice president; Nancy Newton, secretary; and Larry Rude, treasurer. New reporter will be Sharon Knutson and JoAnn Kraemer, song leader. The four adult leaders are Mrs. Adam Lendobeja, Mrs. Norton Nelson, Mrs. Maurice Newton and Harland Knutson. Fund raising was discussed to provide money for a new 4-H building at the fair grounds. A committee consisting of Nancy Newton, Sharon Knutson, Sharon and Nelda Lea Nelson, Carol Stenseth and Gloria Philipp were appointed to decide what the club should do. It was agreed to draw $50 from the treasury for the first payment to the building fund.

Barry Lee presented program consisting of talks and demonstrations. Since the club decided to enroll in the safety project again, Harland Knutson outlined a program which could be worked out for each meeting. A committee was appointed to work with Mr. Knutson. They were JoAnn Kraemer, Charlene Rude, Bobby McCrum and Jimmy Helgeland. Larry Rude gave a project talk on poultry. Carol Stenseth demonstrated making a table centerpiece and Nelda Nelson gave her demonstration, "Good Light, Good Sight" she presented at the state fair. Bobby McCrum showed slides and commented on places of interest he visited during his Boy Scout trip to Boulder, Colo., this summer. Refreshments were served by the Erwin Helgeland and Rober Kraemer families.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Stenseth, Ricky and Mark returned home Monday after spending some time at the state fair and visiting relatives in St. Paul and Wisconsin. In St. Paul they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Skjerping, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Snartamo and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stepke homes. Carol and Jerry Stenseth spent the week in Thief River Falls with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hanson.

Miss Marilyn McCrum accompanied by Betty Rude arrived at her parental home last week from Boulder, Colo., where she is spending a week before leaving for Hawaii to be employed. Miss Rude is visiting her parents the Herman Rudes. Carol Rude, who has also been employed in Boulder went to Seattle, Wash., to be employed.

HOME VEGETABLE STORAGE

If there are proper storage conditions in the home, some of the garden produce may be kept for fresh use during the winter months. A corner of the basement might be walled off to provide space where conditions can be kept suitable for storage. Such a room should be insulated on walls and ceiling and have some type of ventilation.

An opening through the outside wall or a window with a ventilator shaft extending to the floor will facilitate circulating the air and regulating the temperature in the storage room.

Temperature is one of the most critical factors in keeping fruits and vegetables. Squash and pumpkin prefer warm temperatures between 40 degrees and 50 degrees F., whereas onions, potatoes, carrots, beets, rutabagas, turnips, parsnips, cabbage and apples keep better at 32 degrees to 40 degrees F.

Moisture is another factor to be considered. Onions and squash keep better if the air is dry and the relative humidity is between 50 to 70 percent. Other garden produce prefer a moist atmosphere.

After the vegetables and fruits are harvested, they are still alive. To keep them living as long as possible it is necessary to regulate the temperature and humidity of the storage room. This will slow down the growth processes and maintain the edible quality of the stored product.

For best success store only the high quality produce. Select vegetables free of defects and disease. Be sure the vegetables have been properly matured before placing theme in the storage room.

Fertilizer stimulates growth of weeds as well as crops. Weed control becomes doubly important when fertilizers are used.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Q—Is the War Orphans Education program just a college program? I am eligible for training but don't want to go to college.

A—No. In addition to classroom work leading to a college degree, the War Orphans Education program provides opportunity for training in a wide variety of schools below the college level—technical institutes, business schools, some vocational or trade schools, normal schools, institutions offering training in medical and related fields, and junior colleges.

Q—Since I have been totally and permanently disabled for six months, I have applied to VA for waiver of premiums of my GI insurance policy. May I stop paying premiums now?

A—No. You should continue to pay premiums regularly, until you receive notice from VA that your application for waiver has been granted. All premiums paid after the effective date of the waiver will be refunded to you.

Q—I'll be in school this fall, under the GI Bill, and will be entitled to claim another dependent since thre's just been an addition to our family—a baby girl. What kin of evidence will VA want, in order to increase my school allowance?

A—VA would like to have a certified copy or abstract of the public record of birth, or a certified copy of the church record of baptism.

Q—I am a Korea veteran who never held a GI insurance policy. The VA has just decided a disability of mine is service-connected, and this makes me eligible to take out insurance now. How soon do I have to apply?

A—You must make application within one year from the date VA found your disability service-connected.

Q—I'm a Korea veteran, holding GI term insurance. I understand, by a recent law, I now can convert it to a permanent plan. Is this so?

A—Yes. If your policy has the letters "RS" before the policy number, you may convert to any one of the six VA permanent plans. You are also eligible to exchange your policy for a lower-priced term policy.

Q—Is it possible for a disabled "peacetime" veteran to draw VA compensation at wartime rates?

A—Yes, if the disability resulted from extra-hazardous service, as, for example, participation in simulated warfare, the veteran may be eligible for compensation at wartime rates.

Q—Is there a deadline for filing a claim for disability compensation with VA?

A—There is no deadline. A veteran may apply any time. However, an eligible veteran may have his payments back-dated to the day following his release from service. A veteran who applies after he has been out of service one year may be paid only from the date his application was filed.

Q—Can a disabled Korea veteran getting military retired pay receive vocational rehabilitation training from VA?

A—Yes. Receipt of military retired pay does not affect the eligibility of a Korea veteran with a service-connected disability to take vocational rehabilitation training. He must, however, need the training to overcome his handicap; his discharge must have been under conditions other than dishonorable; and his disability must be such as would entitle him to VA compensation if he were not receiving military retired pay.

Early haymaking was part of Wendell Carlson's farming program this year. The Kandiyohi county farmer cut his hay early this year because he felt he could afford to neglect some other jobs rather than delay haymaking. Carlson began mowing alfalfa on June 1, just before the first blossom showed. A day later he baled the hay—in first-class condition. A crimper aided the sunny, early June weather in curing the near perfect hay. "Every time I look at this good hay and remember the rainy weather later in June I praise the hay crimper and early cutting," Carlson says.

Randox-T and Atrazine gave very good results in controlling both annual grasses and broadleaf seeds in premergence weed chemical trials set up by Sibley county farmers and county agent Duane Wilson this year. Both liquid and granular forms were effective. Less effective, but still giving control, were granular 2,4-D and Simazine.

The multiple benefits of soil conservation are beginning to appear for the Kahnke Brothers, Redwood county farmers. According to their farm conservation plan, they have put in 30 acres of contour strip cropping and 65 acres of contouring and grassed waterways. A 2.5 acre farm pond is planted with rushes and stocked with fish. Honeysuckle, 400 evergreens and 1,200 multiflora roses are planted around the pond. The Kahnkes describe the pond area to SCS technician Robert J. Feldt as "A real wildlife haven."

Conservation farming pays for William Dehn, Byron. When Dehn took over his 180-acre Olmsted county farm in 1947 there was only a thin, eight-acre stand of timothy growing. Severe erosion had gullied many of the fields. Dehn set up a contour strip cropping program—he terraced some of the strips later—and began following a liming and fertility program. According to R. C. Radway, county agent, Dehn now grows 75 to 80 bushels of corn and 50 to 60 bushels of oats per acre. A firm believer in daily rotation grazing, Dehn has pastured 18 head of cattle on six acres of rotation pasture from June 1 to August 15 this year.

Huck Saves the Day

Saturday's always "together" day for Huck Roberts and his missus. Five days a week Huck's selling on the road, so they like to spend Saturday afternoon by themselves.

Most of Huck's friends know this and stay away unless invited. All except one couple. Then Huck found a polite way to send them home.

Soon as Huck would spot the couple driving up, he'd put on his hat and coat—and step out the front door. Polite as could be, Huck would say, "Sorry we can't ask you in, we're just on our way out!" Then, soon's the couple drove off, Huck went right back inside!

From where I sit, neighborliness means a mutual respect between neighbors—for one's privacy, feelings and preferences. This holds for little things too. For instance, when a neighbor prefers a glass of beer or buttermilk, that's his business. And it's our job to respect his preference every day of the week—Saturdays, Sundays and holidays included.

THE 1961 FORD line, which will be introduced in Thief River Falls Thursday, September 29, at the Tunberg Motor Co., includes a new model, the Galaxie Club Victoria, with crisp, new styling that has been honored by an international fashion authority in Rome for its "functional expression of classic beauty." The new Fords are nearly four inches shorter and two inches narrower for greater maneuverability and introduce 30,000-mile lubication. Other engineering features include self-adjusting brakes, double-wrapped aluminized muffler, longer-lasting bright trim and underbody parts and a 4,000-mile oil change interval. A new optional 390-cubic-inch high performance engine is also available.

THE DART is Dodge's increasingly popular entry in the low-price field. Economy has been stressed in every component of the 1961 models. The new tires give 15 percent more mileage. The six and eight-cylinder engines operate on regular grade fuel. An alternator prolongs battery life. The all-rust-proofed Unibody and high-quality enamel assure a longer life and a brighter finish. The new Dart will be on display at the Forkenbrock Motor Co. in Thief River Falls beginning September 29.

Viking Soldier Is in Radio Training

Pvt. Hilmar J. Ellingsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ellingsen of Viking, is attending the 12-week intermediate speed radio operation course at the Armoor school, Fort Knox, Ky. The training is scheduled to be completed Oct. 27.

Ellingsen is being trained to send and receive Morse code and to operate and maintain various types of radio equipment under all conditions.

The 23-year-old soldier entered the Army in May 1960 and completed basic training at Fort Hood, Tex.

He was graduated from Newfolden high school in 1955 and was employed by the Audio Development Company, Minneapolis, before entering the Army.

Train Youth in All Phases of Tractor Operation Safety

Should a boy be allowed to drive a tractor?

This is a problem which has been bothering farm safety experts for some time.

A report from the National Safety council show that each year more fatal tractor accidents occur in the 10-14 age group than in any other age category.

"This seems to point up the fact that young people who don't know how to handle tractors are being allowed to operate them," the Council said.

"If it is absolutely necessary for a youth to drive a tractor, he should be thoroughly trained in all phases of tractor safety before he takes over the wheel." the council warned.

A teen-ager—or anyone who operates a tractor for that matter—should be aware of the need for regular safety inspections, should know the proper way to handle a tractor in any situation or on any terrain and should use extreme caution at all times," the council added.

The council said carelessness and ignorance are responsible for most tractor accidents.

"Too many chances are taken." it added.

The council said one of the biggest chances is taken when more than one person rids a tractor.

"This is just inviting troble," a spokesman said. Tractors are made for one person to operate—no more. But too often someone hitches a ride. And that can lead to tragedy.

The majority of children in the 4-9-year-old were killed in tractor accidents last year were riding a tractor. Not operating one—just along for the ride.

A farmer recently told an official, "I would rather hear a child cry because he was refused a tractor ride, than to hear him cry because he got hurt riding one."

In general, accidents with farm machinery are decreasing, the council's report showed, but tractor accidents are on the upswing.

"It is alarming," the Council said, "and the only way from persons can lick the rising tractor accident rate is to use every safety precaution available."

Rural Roads Are Setting for Death

Little-known facts about traffic safety:

Three times as many traffic deaths occur in rural areas (including towns with less than 2,500 people) than in urban areas. In Minnesota, 76 per cent of the fatal accidents occurred on rural roads.

Reasons for this, according to the Minnesota Safety council, is probably because of the abundance of driving done on open roads, which most often are in rural areas, and increased speed.

In most fatal auto accidents, only one car is involved.

Turnpikes have a lot fewer traffic fatalities, based on number miles driven, than all rural roads in the United States. The average mileage death rate recently was a third as high as the rate for rural roads.

Males are involved in almost eight times as many fatal auto accidents as females. Naturally, they dive a lot more than the gals do.

Saturday, not Sunday, is the most dangerous day of the week for drivers. About one out of every five traffic fatalities occurs that day. Sunday is second most hazardous.

Safety men say the new interstate highway system can save as many as 3,500 lives a year, and that use of seat belts could save an additional 5,000 lives annually.

While few slow drivers ever run afoul of the law, they're still a highway hazard, the Minnesota Safety council reported. Driving too slow can cost a life—your life, or the life of a motorist who takes a chance and passes you when he shouldn't. Keep pace with traffic.

Odds are that if your car isn't up to snuff, safetywise, the fault will lie with the rear lights, brakes, front lights or exhaust system. When a hazard is found at vehicle safety checks, those four problems are the ones that crop up most often.

Buyer May Take over Interest on Wheat in Storage

A farmer who acquires a farm on which marketing quota excess wheat is stored may take over the excess and thus protect the farm's full wheat history in the future, A. E. Strandquist of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee has reported.

Under the wheat marketing quota program, Strandquist points out, a grower who produces excess wheat may avoid payment of penalty and loss of history acreage by storing his excess and underplanting in future years.

The new regulation is designed to take care of situations in which a producer loses his interest in the stored excess and has no interest in any other farm on which he can under-plant or underproduce in future years. If he sells the stored wheat and pays the marketing quota penalty, the farm's acreage history for the year in which the excess was produced will be reduced to the allotment. By transfer of the excess to the new farm operator, this reduction in acreage history will be avoided.

The transfer provision applies only to stored excess wheat produced in 1959 or a subsequent year and only when all of the excess wheat for such year is still in storage. Any person interested in this provision should get in touch with the county ASC office before transfer of title.

Traffic in August Higher Than July

Traffic on Minnesota highways in August increased two per cent over July, the Minnesota highway department reported. The increase was attributed to the normal jump in travel during state fair week.

A survey of the 28 automatic traffic counters located on rural trunk highways throughout the state showed slight increases on several trunk highways; but the only substantial increase, nine per cent, was recorded on T.H. 14 west of Rochester.

The one notable decrease in August was a 11 per cent drop under July on T.H. 10 northwest of Anoka.

August traffic also showed an overall increase of 1.1 per cent over the same month last year.

Ministers of Area Go to Conference

Forty Missouri Synod Lutheran ministers from northwestern Minnesota attended the Park Region pastoral conference at Lutheran Island camp, Henning, Minn., Sept. 21 and 22.

One of the main speakers was Mr. J. Brandt, county agent of Todd county, who spoke on "Rural Life and the Church." Other speakers on the program were the Rev. Roger Fischer of Warren and the Rev. A. Kretschmar of Bertha. The Rev. A. C. Seitz of Thief River Falls spoke on Minnesota district matters.

Chairman of the conference was the Rev. R. G. Troeger of Detroit Lakes. In the opening communion service Wednesday morning, the Rev. Geo. Grabarkewitz of Vergas preached the sermon.

The "double-four" herringbone milking parlor is the best arrangement for the average one-man dairy operation, a recent study shows.

Lund Talks on Future Power Needs of Area

Plans Considered for Steam Plants at Lignite Fields

Lyle Lund of Grand Forks, business manager of the Minnkota Cooperatives, Inc., discussed possible solutions for the future power needs of the rural electric cooperatives and the cities operating municipal plants in the area, at the Rotary club Monday noon.

The most likely development is a power pool formed by Minnkota and two other generating and distributing cooperatives serving North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota, he said, stating that plans are now being considered for the construction of a large steam generating plant using low cost lignite for fuel.

In planning for the future all present generating facilities are being considered, including diesel plants such as the one we have here at Thief River Falls. He explained that the steam units located near large lignite deposits, would meet the basic requirements of the area, supplementing Missouri river power, and would have to be operated near capacity to assure low cost power. The stand-by and peak load needs could be provided most efficiently by diesel plants, he stated, pointing out that the facilities at places like Thief River Falls might be expanded for area needs.

Mr. Lund predicted that large steam plants, strategically located, would be able to generate power at costs that would compare favorably with the present cost of Bureau power generated by hydro plants along the Missouri River. The firm power available from these sources is necessarily limited to the production that can be expected under the most unfavorable conditions. The additional hydro power that is available when conditions are normal, or especially favorable, is fairly dependable and sells at a lower price than firm power. The combination of firm and dump hydro power, firm steam plant power, and diesel plant power would provide the most economical balance for low cost service in the area.

Commenting on the situation here in Thief River Falls, Mr.

Ch[illegible]h Celebrates Ann[illegible]rsary Sunday

GUEST speaker at the 65th anniversary celebration at St. John's Lutheran church Sunday, October 2, will be the Rev. V. E. Schroeder of Bismarck, pastor of the local church from 1926 to 1953.

Rev. Victor E. Schroeder, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church from 1926 to 1953, will be one of the guest speakers at the 65th anniversary celebration at St. John's Sunday, October 2.

Now living in retirement in Bismarck, N. D., Rev. Schroeder was at the local church longer than any other pastor in its history. Because of failing eyesight, Pastor Schroeder is no longer able to prepare and deliver sermons but he will extend greetings to the assembled congregation in the Sunday festival service.

Rev. Schroeder will be the principal speaker at the anniversary dinner to be served in the church fellowship hall after the service beginning at 12:45 p.m. He will give a historical address. Under his editorship a fine anniversary booklet was prepared at St. John's in 1935 which now serves as valuable resource material.

The Rev. Fred J. Seitz, now retired and living at Pequot Lakes, will deliver the anniversary and missions sermon in the service at 10:30 and will also speak at the banquet and tell of his work as pastor here from 1907 until 1919. St. John's senior and Sunday school choirs will sing in the service.

At the noon dinner program the Rev. A. C. Seitz, present pastor, will serve as toastmaster. Elmer Andersen, vice president of St. John's will speak in behalf of the congregation. Members of the anniversary committee are Christ Anton and Fred Koop. The meal at noon will be pot luck but the ladies aid will furnish baked ham. There will be food ready for all guests and visitors.

Earliest church work by The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in this area was done by the Rev. G. Drews, Wylie, who, beginning in 1888, came to Thief River Falls about once a month. It was under the pastorate of the Rev. Adolph Kuring, resident at Wylie, that St. John's congregation was formally organized in 1895. The following names appeared on the earliest membership lists: city attorney, reported that state

Helm Girl is Bitten by Squirrel Monday

Animal To Be Examined for Possibility of Rabies

A seven-year-old Thief River Falls girl was bitten by a squirrel Monday evening and the animal will be examined to determine whether or not it was rabid.

According to Dr. Ralph Helm, 505 Kneale av. S., his daughter, Kerry Lane, was with a group of children which tried to catch a squirrel. As the animal raced by her, she tried to grab it and it bit her on the leg.

The squirrel held onto the child's leg until she was able to kick it loose, then it climbed into a tree.

Tuesday morning, Dr. Helm saw the squirrel in the tree and called Sgt. Donald Myers of the police department who shot it.

Susan and Carol Greene and Mrs. RuVella Magnan were supper guests at the Mrs. Willard Kelly home Tuesday evening.

Nine Counties Represented at Session Here

Tax on Personal Property, Other Topics Discussed

Nine northwestern Minnesota counties were represented at a regional meeting of the State Association of County Commissioners held here Wednesday, 60 county board members and other county officials attending. Alfon Hanson of Crookston, state president, and Ralph Keyes of St. Paul, state executive secretary, were present and spoke, Mr. Keyes leading the discussion sessions. Donald Olson of Thief River Falls, ninth district president, presided.

Glenn Tasa of Pennington county, a member of special state committee on the distribution of federal aid secondary funds, reported on meetings of that committee with state highway department officials. At the present time most of this money is distributed to the counties but state officials have proposed to reduce this amount to the required 50 per cent. The committee has opposed such a reduction.

Problems involved in the elimination of the personal property tax on household goods were discussed. Only 22 counties in the state have exempted household goods as the law presently permits but there are no northwestern Minnesota counties in this group.

Other subjects discussed were the financing of county ditches and the investment of ditch funds, public employes retirement, veterans preference and county assessing.

Republican Candidate Charges . . .

'DFL Administration is Incompetent'

Speaking at a well attended meeting in the Elks Hall Tuesday afternoon, Senator Elmer L. Andersen, Republican candidate for governor, charged that "another fruit of fiscal irresponsibility of the Freeman administration is the current crisis in state aid payments to the state's elementary and secondary schools." Final state aid payments for the year ending last June 30 were made from tax collections that were intended for this year's needs and this will result in a huge deficit in the state's school funds.

"Now the governor suggests the need for emergency appropriations by the next legislature," Senator Anderson said, "but the people would like to know how he's going to raise the money for this and other purposes. What are his budget plans? What are his taxing plans?"

Senator Anderson cited the scandal resulting from excessive withdrawals of food from the state penitentiary and other institutions as further proof of administrative incompetence. He inferred that this could be attributed in part to the frequent absence of Governor Freeman from the state and pledged himself to devote all of his time to the business of state government.

Referring to the national contest Senator Andersen declared the most important problem facing us a nation is our survival as a free nation in continuing struggle with world Communism. He urged the election of Nixon and Lodge as the best equipped of the two teams available to guide the nation during the next four years, from the standpoint of understanding and experience in world affairs.

Gaylord A. Saetre, Moorhead attorney, Republican candidate for attorney general, accused the DFL and Governor Freeman of "putting the wraps" on their candidate for attorney general. He stated that Governor Freeman two years ago muzzled former attorney general Miles Lord during he campaign "apparently because Lord was felt to be a liability to the ticket."

"This technique is being repeated this year with Freeman's recent appointee," Saetre said, "because the governor realizes that he cannot justify the appointment of a lawyer less than four years out of law school to the highest legal office in the state." He compared the appointment of Walter Mondale, "an inexperienced lawyer" with placing a young medical intern at the head of the Mayo Clinic.

The speakers were introduced by Dale Folger. Coffee and cookies were served by a group of Republican women. The attendance was estimated at 200.

City Streets Project for 1961 Considered

Council Calls for Survey of Area West of Main St.

Further discussion by the city council during an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening, September 27, on the street program for 1961 resulted in a vote to have a survey made of 37 lineal blocks west of the business district before a preliminary cost estimate is made.

The area under study is from the Great Northern railway tracks to Sixth st. and between Main and Arnold avs. plus four blocks on Knight av. north of Sixth st. and Seventh, Eighth and Ninth sts. from Main av. to Duluth av.

Before the council's action, D. H. Stewart, consulting engineer, compared the area to that which was completed this year. In contrast to uniform soils and good condition of most curbs and gutters north of the business district, the area under consideration for 1961 has much curb and gutter work to be done and some of the subsurface will need to be replaced to get a stable base, Stewart said. He recommended soil testing of the streets and a survey of curbs and gutters before preparing a cost estimate for the project.

The meeting, which began early but ended at its usual time, considered several other matters including a request by Al Tonder for city participation in the drainage of his land south of the corporate limits across from Greenwood cemetery.

Following some discussion, the council suggested that Tonder should initiate his request with the township and county boards.

Plans and specifications for a shelter house in Riverside park were shown by K. Russell Anderson, architect. Following suggestions that the $3,900 cost could be reduced to $2,500 by some changes, the council voted to call for bids to be opened at its regular October meeting.

A proposal by the Nordheim Roofing Co. of Bemidji for roofing the fire department building and the street department building was examined. It was decided to delay work on the street department building but the bid of $306 to roof the fire department building was accepted.

Two resolutions were adopted for traffic control. "Yield" signs will be erected where LaBree and Horace avs. enter Fourth st. making Fourth st. a throughway from Main to Atlantic avs. A "Yield" sign will also be erected at the east end of Fourth st. where it enters Atlantic.

"Yield" signs will also be erected at the approaches to Riverside park and a 10-mile-an-hour speed limit in the park was established.

The matter of the proposed roadside park east of the Eighth st. bridge came up again Tuesday evening when Robert Wurst,

Sale of Lions Opens This Afternoon at 4

Fifty-seven prime examples of American manhood will go on the auction block this afternoon at 4 o'clock and at a like hour Friday afternoon, giving buyers an unexcelled opportunity to buy a day's work from each man offered.

The event, of course, is the annual Lions club Slave Auction, sponsored by the organization to raise funds to carry on its community projects including the Kiddies Carnival, Halloween party, eyeglasses for needy children and the purchase of playground equipment.

All members of the club have promised to put in a day of work for their buyers, no matter what that work may be. Merchants will vie for part-time help for special promotions and projects and housewives, weary of prodding their husbands to do fall chores during the hunting season, will undoubtedly put in their bids.

For the first time, sealed bids have been accepted by George Hale, club secretary, at the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. office. Additional bids will be accepted until sale time. Envelopes containing the bids should bear the name of the "slave" to be bid on and the directions to the secretary may call for a firm bid or he may be instructed to place an opening bid and continue to raise until a set maximum is reached.

Auctioneers for this year's sales will be Dave and LeRoy Bruggeman, local auctioneers.

According to the schedule of the sale, Dr. Herb Achenbach, Hans Chommie and Bill Froiland will be the first Lions up for bid today with 23 other members to follow. Tomorrow, 31 members will go on sale.

Dr. and Mrs. Dewey G. Force and children left Sunday for their home in St. Paul after visiting Mrs. Force's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Schultz, over the weekend.

New Farm, Home Organization Set Up for This Area

Northwest Association To Have Special Agent Headquarterd in TRF

A Northwest Farm and Home Development association has been organized in Pennington, Marshall and West Polk counties.

The association was established 60 member farm families in cooperation with the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service.

Special agent for the association will be William Penning, agricultural agent in Grant county since 1957 and agent in Pennington county from 1953-55. Penning's office will be in Thief River Falls, where he will take up his duties this month.

The association will have four main objectives: To provide intensive education in farm and home planning and operation for members families, through individual aid in more accurately evaluating costs and returns from alternative enterprises and through providing information on new technology; to promote more rapid adoption of recommended organizational and operational changes among both organization members and other families who receive information from the members; to demonstrate methods which other area families might also use in bringing about changes in overall farm planning and to identify farm problems which call for further research and educational efforts.

In general, the association will be patterned after a similar organization which has been in operation in Waseca county since 1954.

Expenses of the new northwest association will initially be shared equally by the members and the agricultural extension service.

The association will work closely with local county agents and specialists from the agricultural extension service state staff.

Mail Boxes Are for Mail Use Only

The increased use of circulars as political campaign material has raised the question as to whether such material may be placed in mail boxes. The answer is "no" according to Postmaster James Dryden. "It is contrary to postal regulations to deposit anything in mail boxes except material for which postage has been paid," he states.

Local SCS Office Announces Robert Kloubec Appointed

Former Mahnomen Man Replaces Don Lawrence for TRF District Work

Robert Kloubec, formerly stationed at Mahnomen with the Soil Conservation Service, has been transferred to Thief River Falls to fill the position of work unit conservationist assisting the Pennington county Soil Conservation district, H. G. Halvorson, area conservationist, announced.

Kloubec has been an employe of the Soil Conservation Service for about ten years. His first assignment was at Napoleon, North Dakota, and in 1953, he was transferred to Mahnomen as work unit conservationist there. Bob is married and has two daughters—Coroon, age 7, and Nicolette, age 9.

"I believe Bob will prove to be an excellent replacement for Don Lawrence who was transferred to Crookston early this summer," Halvorson said. "He is thoroughly familiar with agricultural conditions in northern Minnesota and has a fine record as a soil conservationist."

One Case Monday in Municipal Court

Highway Patrol, Police Cases All Forfeit Bonds

After two busy sessions of municipal court the past three weeks, the session Monday before Judge H. O. Chommie, was an extremely light one with only one person putting in an appearance.

Ruben Jorde, rt. 2, was brought in by Game Warden Carl Sundstrom for transporting a loaded shotgun in a motor vehicle and was fined $15 after pleading guilty to the charge.

The highway patrol had three cases, all of whom forfeited bond. They were: Darrell D. Huderly, Virginia, speed, $20; Clayton P. Omlid, Goodridge, over center line, $30, and Lawrence C. Kohout, Minneapolis, speed, $17.

City police had three cases and these also forfeited their bonds. They were: Maynard W. Peterson, city, speed, $27; Edward J. Garland, rt. 1, Mahnomen, having an open bottle of alcoholic beverage in a car, $30, and Winston Backen, Mahnomen, possession of liquor by a minor, $15.

No cases were brought by the sheriff's office.

Lund Talks About Area's Need for Power in Future

Lund was of the opinion that with the firm Bureau power now available to us along with dump Bureau power and the available production of our present municipal plant, we will not be confronted with a power shortage for several years.

Referring to the occasional interruptions in service that we have experienced he said that additional transmission lines now under construction, or in the planning stage, should do much to overcome these inconveniences. In the area planning, Thief River Falls will develop as a major terminal for the Minnkota system. The city is now served by two lines and a third and more direct line will be built.

In support of the large steam generating plants built near the lignite fields of North Dakota, Mr. Lund stated that the fuel per kilowatt would be only about one-fifth of the fuel cost for a similar plant located at Grand Forks and about one-tenth of the fuel cost for a diesel plant operation. The diesel plant is better suited for emergency need and occasional use because of the relatively lower per kilowatt cost.

City Street Work Is Considered by Council Tuesday

officials have stated that there has been a misunderstanding and that the state will only furnish guard rails, toilet facilities and possibly a boat dock for the park. The city would be required to furnish perpetual care, tables, benches and parking facilities. A state representative will meet with the council October 26 to discuss the matter.

The council voted to advertise for bids for crushing stone for next year's street work. Bids will be opened at a time set by D. H. Stewart.

Damage to the Fourth st. parking lot by heavy trucks resulted in the council banning semitrailer and tandem truck parking on the lot. Space for these vehicles will be provided on the north side of Fourth st. between LaBree and Horace and in a half-block area between Horace and Atlantic. This area would be set aside for the heavy trucks every day except Sunday with a 24-hour limit set.

The request for the appointment of Ray C. Olson as a voluntary fireman was again tabled.

City garbage rates will be raised from 50c a month to $1 after the change in the ordinance is prepared by the city attorney but customers will get three pickups a week instead of the present two. The council voted unanimously for the change.

A lengthy discussion on the problems of getting rid of turkey feathers and other material from the Land O'Lakes plant followed a committee report on a meeting with plant officials. The council passed a resolution on the agreement between the city and the company which provides that the city will dig a trench at the dump ground which will be used by Land O'Lakes and which will be covered as used.

Two appointments by Mayor Orin Green were accepted. Dr. W. P. Kaisler was reappointed to the recreation board for the ensuing term and Stanley Peterson was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Oreal Halland on the library board.

A report by Homer Matheson & Co., auditors, on fire department finances was read and discussed at length. The council adopted a resolution directing the fire department not to service fire extinguishers in the city.

A lengthy discussion on a retirement age for city employes resulted in no action. Considered were voluntary and mandatory retirement ages, problems of hardship for some employes and other problems.

The first reading of a resolution setting new load limits on city streets was delayed until the next meeting.

Church Observes 65th Anniversary at Services Oct. 2

Geske, Randorf, Krause, Ristau, Robbeke, Kretzschmar, Richter, Brown, Adolf and Just. St. John's first pastor to live in Thief River Falls was the Rev. Valerius Kern who came in 1896. He still is living and, recently lived in Bismarck with a daughter but is well up in age and unable to be here Sunday. Other pastors who served here are the Rev. B. L. Luttman, the Rev. P. E. Ross, the Rev. E. H. Kreidt and the Rev. Walter Clausen, now in El Paso, Texas, under whose leadership plans for the new church were made. The present pastor, the Rev. A. C. Seitz, came in November, 1956. The present beautiful modern church edifice was dedicated in June, 1958. After conducting services in rented quarters for a number of years, St. John's dedicated its own church in 1902. This was a combination church and parsonage and was located at St. Paul and Highes.

In 1910, this building was destroyed by fire, "caused in all probability by defective wiring." Construction of a new church was immediately begun, and in July, 1910, the church building was dedicated which served as St. John's house of worship until 1958. The former church was purchased by Our Savior's Lutheran congregation. St. John's parsonage still remains at 413 St. Paul av. S. The congregation has been affiliated with the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod since 1913, and its present pastor is first vice president of the Minnesota district of that church. For its anniversary and mission Sunday service at 10:30 this Sunday and the fellowship dinner at 12:45 St. Johnson's congregation extends a cordial welcome to its neighbors and friends in and around Thief River Falls.

County Agent Says, 'Order Grain Seed Now, Avoid Rush'

Certified Seed is Better for Disease Prevention, Grain That Stands Better

Order your grain seed now and you can scratch one more "last minute rush" item from next spring's calendar.

And while you're at it, order certified seed of recommended varieties. You'll get better disease resistance, grain that stands better, and fuller bins next fall.

County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk points out that certified seed comes from a known pedigreed source. It gets both field and laboratory inspections to make sure it doesn't have off-type kernels. Weed seed content is limited by law and by standards set by the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association. Certified seed must also stand up to definite standards on germination.

The fact is, you can't afford poor seed. And that from your own bin may be the poorest you can get. In spring, 1956, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture surveyed the seed which farmers were putting in drill boxes. Where farmers were using their own seed, 22 per cent of the samples contained so many weed seeds that, had the seed been up for sale, it would have violated state law.

Of seed from neighbors, 24 per cent would have violated the weed statute.

In spite of this evidence, only about five per cent of all small grain and oil crops grown in Minnesota comes from certified seed. Much more should be used.

It's easy to find certified seed sources. They're all listed in the new Minnesota Directory of Certified Seed. You can get a copy from the county extension office or from the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1.

The directory lists growers of varieties which are approved for Minnesota. Some of these varieties are recommended. Others are varieties still being considered for possible recommendation.

Workshop Attended by Local Teachers

Speaker Says American Schools, Teaching Better

Three teachers from Thief River Falls schools attended a workshop for presidents and committee chairman of local teachers associations at Oklee Saturday, September 24. Teachers attending from Thief River Falls were Olga Bloomaness, Ellen Clark and Gladys Johnson.

The teachers heard Dr. Karl Berns, assistant executive secretary of the National Education association, Washington, D. C., discuss "Education in the 60's". Dr. Burns has traveled extensively in Europe including the Soviet Union. Dr. Berns speaks German and was able to talk in the native tongue to several thousand children, teachers, administrators and lay people in Germany, Austria, Sweden and Holland. Dr. Berns stated that nowhere in Europe were there schools or the quality of teaching that we have in the United States.

Another guest speaker was Laurel Pennock, principal of Jefferson school at Rochester. He gave the delegates information on ways to make associations more effective in bettering education for the pupil and the teacher.

Some time was also given to group discussions of teacher education, welfare, ethics, public relations and salaries.

Pull Tractor Over on Shoulder for Your Own Safety

Farmers have every right to take up half the highway, even when there's a smooth, broad shoulder they could pull onto.

However, there are some good reasons for pulling off when your tractor and implements present a traffic hazard, says the October issue of Successful Farming magazine.

One is common courtesy, says the magazine. It's maddening to the driver who must "hit" the brakes while you demand your rights. Safety is another reason for pulling onto the shoulder when your equipment menaces automobile traffic.

According to Major James Machholz, assistant chief of the Iowa highway safety patrol, an average of about 50 fatalities a year involving farm equipment take place on just one state's highways.

You might be seriously injured or killed if a vehicle hits your equipment.

The sadness of injury or death makes your right to half of a paved highway somehow seem not so important after all, says the magazine.

Volunteer Group Is Organized for Aalbu Campaign

Anyone interested in becoming a Volunteer for Vic is asked to contact the chairman in his county. Prescott Larson, Bagley farmer, will head the overall group and is Clearwater county chairman. In Red Lake county, Mrs. Charles Shmidt, Jr., is chairman while in Pennington county Roy Jorgenson is chairman.

Duck Bag in 1959 Had Sharp Drop

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service reports that annual mail survey of waterfowl hunters showed that approximately 7 million ducks were bagged during the last season, a 42 per cent decrease from the previous year.

Most pronounced decreases were: canvasbacks, 61 per cent; redheads, 58 per cent, and ring-necked ducks, 59 per cent. Coots were down 72 per cent. The harvest of all species declined except scaup and scoter.

In general, the bag of species nesting primarily in the prairie states and provinces declined more than did the bag of species which nest either north or south of the prairies.

It is believed that the reduction in bag was due to three factors: (1) A marked reduction in the number of birds available caused by drought conditions in important nesting areas; (2) the reduced season lengths, bag limits and shooting hours which were in effect, and (3) a reduction of 26 per cent in the number of waterfowl hunters.

Re: Petition of County of Pennington, By Joseph Seidel, Its Engineer, for the right to make a Minor Alteration or change in Pennington County Ditch No. 43.

Board of County Commissioners
s/ Odin C. Hanson
s/ Don Olson
s/ Carl R. Anderson
s/ M. A. Lindberg
s/ Glenn Tasa

Commissioner Tasa introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED that pursuant to Chapter 160, Article 11, Section 30, Minnesota Statutes 1959, the Commissioner of Highways be appointed agent of the County of Pennington to let as its agent a contract for the construction of that portion of County State Aid Highway No. 27, described as follows:

From 4.4 miles North of Red Lake River to T.H. No. 1, Southeast of Goodridge.

which project shall be combined with Pennington County's Federal Aid Secondary Project identified as S.P. No. 57-627-01 and Minn. S 6115(4), and the Chairman and the Auditor are hereby authorized and directed for an on behalf of the County to execute and enter into a contract with the Commissioner of Highways prescribing the terms and conditions of such agency in the form set forth and contained in "Minnesota Department of Highways Agency Contract Form No. IV-8", a copy of which said form was before the Board, assuming on behalf of the County all the contractual obligations therein contained.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Olson and declared carried.

Commissioner Anderson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Chairman and Auditor forthwith enter into agreement with the State of Minnesota, acting through its Commissioner of Highways, for the maintenance, except snow plowing, of the road described in said agreement as Temporary Trunk Highway No. 1, to-wit:

Beginning at the junction of State Trunk Highway No. 1 and Pennington County Road No. 84 at or near the southeast corner of Section 27, Township 154 North, Range 42 West; thence northerly on said Pennington County Road No. 84 for a distance of approximately 3.0 miles to its junction with Pennington County Road No. 63 at or near the southeast corner of Section 10, Township 154 North, Range 42 West; thence continuing easterly on said Pennington County Road No. 63 for a distance of approximately 10.00 miles to its junction with State Trunk Highway No. 219 at or near the southeast corner of Section 8, Township 154 North, Range 40 West and there terminating being approximately 13.0 miles in length.

said municipality to be paid therefor at the rate of $33.00 per mile per month. Fractional miles and fractional months, if any will be used in computing amounts payable. The use of said road as a detour by the State will terminate on or before December 31, 1961. The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Tasa and declared carried.

Elmer Andreson appeared representing the Carnegie Public Library Board and presented detailed request for an accelerated participation by the County for the Library budget. Facts and figures relative to the use of the Library were presented and an abbreviated description of the plan for future expansion of the facilities was reviewed. After discussion it was moved by Olson seconded by Lindberg that the Board appropriate from the Revenue Fund the sum of $1,400.00 for current operation of the Library and $1,000.00 to be set aside by the Library Board for future expansion of their facilities. Motion carried.

Commissioner Tasa introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners of Pennington County, Minnesota has availed itself of the authority granted by M.S.A. 373.163 and has paid the dues of said county to the State Association of County Commissioners for the year 1960 and it is the intention of said Board of County Commissioners to designate delegates to attend meetings of said Association.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of County Commissioners of Pennington County, Minnesota that it does hereby designate Merle A. Lindberg as a delegate from said county to serve on the Mental Health committee of said association and entitled, upon presentation of properly verified claims to reimbursement for his actual and necessary expenses in attending such meetings.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Anderson and declared carried.

Members of the County Agricultural Society (Fair Board) appeared relative to problems of the Board. Discussion was had relative to having a FREE GATE at the County Fair instead of having to charge as is presently being done. The Free gate would possibly necessitate an increased County wide tax levy to offset the loss. It was pointed out that some Northwest Counties have a free gate and have a 2 mill tax levy instead of the ½ mill levy that Pennington County has. No action was taken. The County Board agreed to consider the matter.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Lindberg that the Road & Bridge Committee and the Bridge & Culvert Committee inspect roads and bridges and culverts at 1:00 P.M., Sept. 26, 1960.

Carried.

Commissioner Lindberg introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, the County Welfare Board has submitted a budget for welfare purposes for the year 1961 and has requested a tax levy to provide funds to enable it to meet its responsibilities under Section 393.05, MSA:

and WHEREAS, such a budget and requested tax levy has been duly considered;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of County Commissioners approve such budget, including the following tax levy, with the provision that when taxes are collected and apportioned, the apportionment to each of the six welfare funds shall be in the ratio that the levy for each bears to the total levy for welfare purposes.

Old Age Assistance	$76,345.50	46.27%
Aid to Dependent Children	19,503.00	11.82%
Aid to the Disabled	2,656.00	1.61%
Aid to the Blind	3,983.00	2.42%
Poor (General Relief)	26,294.80	15.93%
Administration	36,217.50	21.95%
Total	$165,000.00	100.00%

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the County Auditor be hereby authorized and directed to spread a levy for welfare purposes in the amount of $165,000.00 on the tax rolls of the County.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Tasa and declared carried.

The County Auditor submitted the budget and proposed tax levy for the year 1960, due and payable in the year 1961, as follows:

Revenue Fund	$110,000.00	21.73 Mills
Road & Bridge	75,947.79	15.00 Mills

School Transp.	5,083.20	1.00 Mill
County Fair	2,541.60	.50 Mill
	$393,391.83	77.70 Mills

Moved by Olson seconded by Anderson that the Board accept the budget and tax levy as submitted by the County Auditor and authorized and instructed the Auditor to spread said tax levy on the tax books of the County for the year 1960.

1,000 Geese at Mud Lake Refuge, Dill Tells Lions Club

Winter Count of Deer Is Up, Refuge Open 9 Days

According to a count taken last Friday, there are 75 to 80 thousand ducks on the Mud Lake refuge, Herb Dill, manager, told the Lions club at their meeting Wednesday noon in the Elks club.

Mr. Dill talked and showed colored slides taken on various trips and also some wildlife shots taken on the refuge. During the question and answer period following his talk, he noted that there are about 1,000 geese on the refuge now. Of these he estimated that a little over 300 belong to the refuge flock and that the refuge flock produced about 160 young geese this year.

On the deer population, he stated that the winter count was way up, that the refuge would be open for all nine days of the deer season and that there would be fore open area this year.

During the business session J. J. Womack, chairman of the Slave Sale, asked all members to be ready to be on the auction block at their appointed time Thursday and Friday.

FULLBACK Bob Marquis, scoring two touchdowns and adding a conversion point, led coach George Schlieff's Washington Wildcats to a 15 to 13 win over the defending champion Northrop Indians in a city grade school league football game played at Lincoln field last week. The Wildcats dropped a 7 to 0 decision to the Knox Tigers in an exhibition game played Friday night during the intermission of the Prowlers vs. East Grand Forks game. The next league game for Washington will be Wednesday, Oct. 5, when they play Northrop on the Lincoln field.

High Percentage of Grouse Taken from This Year's Hatch

Hunters Average Pair of Grouse Each During Opening Days of Season

This year's hatch of both ruffed and sharptail grouse was good, it has been reported by Robert Farmes, biologist with the Division of Game and Fish.

Game bag checks Saturday and Sunday at the opening of the hunting season showed that 71 per cent of the sharptails taken are from this year's hatch and that the ruffed grouse hatch was "apparently good."

Of the 604 hunters checked in 10 principal sharptail hunting areas, hunters were averaging two birds each although the weather on opening day was poor. Most hunters reported seeing many birds and some said they had seen as high as 100 while in the field.

One of the best areas was in northeast Kittson county, Farmes said.

The high percentage of sharptails from this year's hatch was reported after examining 126 birds taken by hunters. Although not many ruffed grouse were taken, many were seen and when the vegetation thins out, Farmes predicts that hunters will have good shooting.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Number Eleven

The Roseau Rams and the Prowlers will be meeting on the Roseau field on Friday night in the eleventh game of a football series that began, on the varsity level, in 1948. The Prowlers, with a four-game winning streak on the score board, will be favored to win Friday night's tilt. The Rams have been the winners over the Prowlers in the past two games that have been played between the two clubs.

Football fans planning on making the trip to Roseau on Friday for the Prowlers vs. Roseau game should make a note of the fact that the game is scheduled to start at 7:30 P.M.

From 1948 to 1957 the Prowlers were on the long end of the scores, and winning these eight games by quite decisive margins, ranging from a 20 to 7 win in '48 to a 39 to 0 win in '56. For the past two seasons, though, the Rams have been the winners, posting a 32 to 13 win in 1958, and a 25 to 12 win last season, when Roseau went on to win the Northwest conference championship.

From all reports, and judged by the results of the early-season games, this is a year of rebuilding for Roseau and coach Ray Kavanagh.

From last season's championship squad, such boys as Don Ross, Bert Waag, Jeff Vacura, Dick Roth, Denny Andol, Larry Stordahl and others have been lost to the Rams through graduation. But in spite of these graduation losses, the Prowlers can be assured that the Rams will field a capable team tomorrow night.

Roseau, with its fine hockey tradition, will always be a factor in high school football. The two sports, placing stress on bodily contact, are compatible, and the athlee who is active and proficient in one of the sports is usually a capable performer in the other.

At an election held last week by the Prowler football squad, Eddie Lietzow, Jack Goulet and Ron Amundson were chosen tri-captains for the 1960 season. Eddie plays at fullback, Jack at a guard, and Ron is the center.

Game and Fish

Ole Ekeren and Henry Granum returned on Monday from a week-long duck hunting trip in the Melfort, Sask. area. The two hunters report that the duck hunting was exceptional, and that judging by the flights of ducks that were evidence, the hunters in the states should have some fine duck hunting this season. If weather conditions force these Saskatchewan ducks into the flyway in our area, Ole and Henry contend that the mallard flight should be heavy.

The trip to the Saskatchewan river area, east of Prince Albert, is about 825 miles, and except for a stretch of gravel that Ole used for a short-cut, the road is blacktopped. The two hunters used a duck boat and a battery of decoys, about forty decoys, in their hunting, and had an easy time in bagging limits. All mallards, too.

As a game conservation note we'll report that Donald (Nuts) Myers was in the hospital, recovering from a tonsillectomy, this past weekend. The fact that Don was in the hospital must have saved a sharptailed grouse or two. Unfortunately for the ducks, Don expects to be ready for the duck hunting season on October 8.

Football Notes

The Lincoln high school's 7th and 8th grade football squad opened its 1960 schedule on Monday afternoon with a game against the Fosston junior high squad on the Lincoln field. The locals, coached by Al Adams and Dale Folger, scored a 13 to 6 win over Fosston. Rangy Dick Nelson, a prime prospect as a future Prowler quarterback, provided the winning points by scoring a pair of long-gaining touchdowns. Dick swept out around right end for an 80-yard run and a touchdown in the first period, and, in the fourth period, on a 70-yard sweep of left end, he added a second touchdown.

This afternoon, with the kickoff slated for 4:15 p.m. on Crookston's Highland Park field, the juniors will play the Crookston juniors. Next Monday, in a 4:15 p.m. game, the Warren junior high school team will meet the locals on the Lincoln high field.

The Prowler 'B' squad posted their first win of the season on Tuesday night when, in a game played at Roseau, coach Charles DeCorsey's team defeated the Roseau 'B,' 12 to 6. Wayne Schantzen and Steve Mittelstadt scored the touchdowns for the future Prowler varsity.

On Saturday afternoon, with the kickoff slated for 1 p.m., the Bemidji Lumberjack 'B' team will meet the locals on the Lincoln high field. In a season-opening game played at Bemidji a couple of Saturdays ago, the Bemidji 'B' team, utilizing a passing attack to good advantage, defeated the Prowler 'B' team, 24 to 7.

Note to the Young Bowlers

Carl Onkka of the Family Bowl lanes announces that a meeting will be held at the lanes on Saturday morning, Oct. 1, at 1 a.m., for the purpose of organizing a junior bowling league for the 1960-61 season.

All boys an girls who are between the ages of ten and 19, and who will not reach their 19th birthday by March 1, 1961, are eligible to participate in the junior league.

Newfolden Nordics Still in Contention

Fourth Quarter Offense Leads to Winning Score

The Newfolden Nordics remained in contention for Top-of-the-State conference football honors by scoring a 6 to 0 win over Kennedy last Friday. The touchdown, on a pass completion from David Haug to Richard Ellingson, kept the Nordics in second place in the league standings, with a one win and one tie record.

The game, which was featured by the stalwart defensive play of the Nordics, was scoreless until the four period when, from their own 48-yard line, Newfolden mounted an offense that, in six plays, carried for a touchdown.

The Nordics were scheduled to play the Greenbush Tigers on Friday, Sept. 30, in a Newfolden Homecoming feature, but the game has been cancelled and will enter the records as a forfeit win for Newfolden. A number of Greenbush players have been injured and the Tigers cannot field a team for Friday's date. The Newfolden Homecoming festivities have been rescheduled for the Argyle game to be played at Newfolden Friday, October 14.

To fill the Friday, Sept. 30, date, arrangements have been completed for a game between the football players in grades 7 through 10 in Newfolden and Greenbush schools. The results of this game will not be considered in the conference standings, but it will give the respective coaches, Elseth of Newfolden and Harder of Greenbush, an opportunity to develope their reserve material, and will be very valuable in the development of the young players on both squads. Game time has been slated for 2 p.m., with the usual admission prices prevailing.

A little flavor of the Old West was recently added to the annual Boy Scout Jamboree. A bank in Colorado Springs provided silver dollars for the official medium of exchange. Some 55,000 Scouts and 7,000 adults used 80,000 of the "cartwheels."

Feeder Cattle Costs, Returns Are Studied

How much profit are feeder cattle bringing farmers in Minnesota? County Agent Paul Steimaschuk reports the following study conducted by Erickson and Nodland of the University of Minnesota.

A summary of costs and returns from 67 feeder cattle lots in southern Minnesota presents these facts, on feeding efficiency, gains, labor and feed costs, prices and other records.

One thing they checked was return above every $100 worth of feed for different type cattle. The return averaged $135 for 20 lots of short-fed yearlings and two-years olds, the same amount for long-fed yearlings, and $123 for long-fed calves.

With each type, however, results varied widely. Take the long-fed calves, for example. The 23 above-average lots returned $142 per $100 feed, while the 16 below-average lots returned only $96.

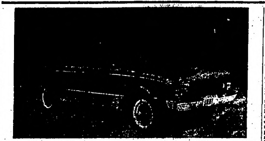
One important difference was prices paid for the calves. The farmers with above-average returns had paid about 32¼ cents per pound for their feeder calves, compared to nearly 35 cents for those with below - average returns.

Farmers making above-average return on calves did better on gain per head daily, selling price (more than $1 per 100 lbs. above the low-return lots) and feed efficiency.

For each 100 pounds gain, farmers in the above-average return group fed 547 pounds grain, 38 pounds supplement and 274 pounds roughage. In comparison, these with low returns had fed 580 pounds grain, 89 of supplement and 426 pounds roughage.

Similar differences separated the high and low return producers of yearlings and two-year-olds. In each case, farmers whose cattle made faster gains had lower feed requirements and better returns over feed cost.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES
SECOND SECTION
Pages 1 thru 6
Volume Forty-nine — Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Thursday, September 29, 1960 — Number Seventy-eight



FORD FALCON for 1961 features a new convex-shaped aluminum grille and new optional 101-horsepower engine but preserves the styling, maneuverability, interior roominess and 23.7-cubic-foot luggage capacity of the 1960 model. Shown above is the 1961 Falcon Fordor Sedan which will go on display at the Tunberg Motor Co. in Thief River Falls September 29. Continuing its proven economy reputation, the 1961 Falcon will deliver up to 30 miles per gallon on regular grade fuel, goes 4,000 miles between oil changes and introduces new and longer lasting bright trim and underbody parts including a double-wrapped aluminized muffler.

Narrow Cribs Safe to Store Wet Corn

What you do with the corn you harvest this fall will depend a lot on the moisture content, says County Agent Paul Steimaschuk. If you're storing your corn in cribs over five feet wide, better be sure the moisture content is below 20 per cent.

But research and experience show that wet corn can be stored in narrow cribs with minimum losses. Extension agronomists and engineers at the University of Minnesota say ear corn with moisture content as high as 35 per cent may be stored in cribs no more than five feet wide with little or no spoilage.

University specialists stress these points for successful ear corn storage in narrow cribs: Keep crib width 4½ to 5 feet; put in a concrete floor or raise the floor to prevent rodent damage; locate your crib away from buildings or other obstructions to make best possible use of natural air movement; build your crib at right angles to prevailing winds and remove husks, loose kernels and other debris from the corn.

If you're storing high-moisture corn in wide cribs you already have, put in some ventilators. This cuts down on the distance the air must move through the mass of corn.

It takes wind pressure to force air through the corn. This means the air path through the ventilator should be horizontal, with the ends of the ventilator exposed to outside air. Vertical, flue-type ventilators are not effective.

Bids Are Solicited for Roseau Project

Port of Entry Buildings Include Office, Residences

Dr. George N. Sundquist, collector of customs for the Duluth-Superior Customs district, has announced that bids are being solicited from contractors for building construction at the Roseau port of entry, which is located at the international boundary north of Roseau.

The proposed construction includes an office building with canopy and two three-bedroom residences with attached garages.

Invitations to bid on this project have been mailed to known interested builders in northern Minnesota and a few extra sets of invitations to bid, plans and specifications for this construction, are available for examination and use by any interested builder at the U. S. Custom House in Room 203, Federal Building, Duluth, Minnesota, or Room 201, Post Office Building in Superior, Wisconsin.

The bids must be received on or before 3 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, October 20, 1960, in Room 7316, Internal Revenue Building, 12th Street and Constitution Avenue, Washington 25, D.C., at which time they will be publicly opened.

Nov. 15 Is Deadline for Federal Grants

Funds Last Year Enough for 12 State Applications

Applications for federal funds to aid in financing construction of municipal sewage treatment works will be received up to November 15, 1960, by the state Water Pollution Control commission for the fiscal year of 1960-61, according to Dr. R. N. Barr, secretary. Minnesota's allocation for the fiscal year July 1960 - July 1961 is $930,325.

The same general criteria in determining priorities for the applications in prevous years will be used this year. The present and potential water pollution hazards and financial needs are taken into consideration by the commission in establishing these priorities.

Last year, 50 applications for grants for a total of $3,7006,205 were received from the municipalities in the state. Federal funds were sufficient for 12 of these applications. Projects which were approved and funds granted by the Public Health Service were located at Buhl, Cass Lake, Clarkfield, Hawley, Lafayette, Milaca, Monticello, Princeton, Sandstone, Shakopee, Walnut Grove and Zumbrota.

Because of limited federal funds available to Minnesota, a number of municipalities awarded contracts for construction of projects during the last year without federal aid. These municipalities include Austin, Bloomington, Brainerd, Darwin, Goodview, Litchfield, Mankato, Rogers, Sabin and Winton.

Requests for information on the grant program and for application forms should be addressed to the Water Pollution Control Commission, Department of Health Building, University Campus, Minneapolis 14.

Windows for commercial buildings made of nickel stainless steel are now available with color coatings that are permanent and are not affected by the weather.

Editorials . . .

"A working newspaperman is usually at his best when he tells of the comic, tragic or mysterious things he runs across on his job. Any kind of scientist is likely to be fascinating when he discusses what he knows intimately. Lawyers, teachers, politicians, real estate people, ministers, salesmen—all of these lead inherently interesting lives, and their shoptalk is virtually sure to be interesting in consequence. The same goes, for that matter, for truck drivers, apartment-house superintendents, doormen, cops, caddies, waiters and stenographers. We're holding no brief for the I-I-I guy who talks about himself, instead of reporting his adventures in this interesting world. But we are asserting that good, impersonal, objective shoptalk makes good conversation which can find plenty of listeners." —Colliers

Building Bigger Producers

The announcement by the directors of the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Ass'n. that another testing unit will be added is encouraging news. Not many years ago there was only one testing association in all of the area north of Detroit Lakes to the Canadian border. Now there are several and it is good to know that there are more in the making.

The big increase in the average production of buterfat per cow in the area can be attributed directly to testing. Hundreds of herds are being tested regularly either under the DHIA plan or by the owner-sampler method. Herds that average more than 300 pounds of fat a year are no longer unusual and there are many cows in the area that produce more than 400 pounds of fat.

The profit is in those extra pounds.

Lowering Prices Is Best

In his address opening the steelworkers' convention at Atlantic City recently, David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, stated that the companies and the union must develop "some broad method for the distribution of the emoluments" of automation and other technological improvements in the industry. That is one of the most encouraging statements we have heard from a leader of a great labor organization in a long time.

Under the terms of settlement of the strike that idled the steel industry 116 days last year, this objective is being sought by a Human Relations Research Committee, representing management and labor. This is moving in the right direction and could lead to the adoption of a procedure that would put an end to industry-wide strikes.

Last year's steel strike was a tragic error that resulted in benefits to no one. Everybody lost and the evil effects are still with us in another spiral of higher wages per hour, higher prices and increased unemployment.

Mr. McDonald's statement indicates that he now recognizes these facts, and that customers are essential to the welfare of labor. It is the consumer who makes the important decisions in our economy. It is the consumer who decides whether or not there is a market for the products of our factories, and there is growing recognition of the fact that one important way to distribute "the emoluments" of automation is to give the customer a better "buy".

Not all of us are producers of goods but all of us are consumers. The greater efficiency resulting from automation and other technological improvements that increase productivity per man hour, can result in wage increases for a relatively small group. The result can also be lower costs to consumers, and it is in this way that the benefits are distributed most properly. By this method all of us get a pay raise through the increased buying power of our dollar.

Welcome Nigeria

Not all the reports out of Africa are discouraging. Nigeria, a colony in British West Africa, will secure its complete independence on the first of October, and there has been and will be no violence in this transfer of power. The colony will remain a part of the British Commonwealth.

The people of Nigeria have had experience in self government. The Governor General of the new nation will be Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, presently President of the Nigerian Senate. He is American-educated and well qualified to speak for his country at the top level in world politics. Speaking to representatives of the press recently in London he said:

> "We must give credit to those who have enabled us to become democratic. We owe a debt to Britain for the imperishable tradition of law and respect for human dignity!"

Nigeria, with its 35 million people, is the most populous country in Africa. Its chief exports are columbite, tin, palm oil, palm kernels, cotton lint, coca, hides and skins, rubber and peanuts. It appears that Nigeria is going to be another stabilizing influence in the new Africa.

And thanks to Britain for giving to the natives the opportunity for education and experience in self-government, and a background in the traditions of freedom that are essential to successful self government.

Hysterically Speaking

We do not go along with candidate Kennedy when he says: "The goals of the labor movement are the goals for all Americans and their enemies are the enemies of progress." The young fellow is starting to say foolish things.

We are satisfied that some of the goals of the labor movement are good. We are also satisfied that some of their objectives are not good.

What Kennedy said about the labor movement, no reasonable and mature person would say about any group. No group is so perfect in its objectives, and so unselfish and altruistic in its aspirations as to deserve a blind and unquestioning acceptance.

The goals of the labor movement, like the goals of any other group, are the interpretation placed upon them by the leaders of such a group, and they vary from time to time. Any citizen who would pledge his blind allegiance to the leadership of any organization or group would not be a good president of the United States.

And because we definitely do not accept the goals of our labor leaders as the perfect guide for the thinking of all good citizens, we will accept the charge that we are an enemy of progress as charged in the careless statement of a youngster who is becoming a little hysterical under the pressures of the campaign.

Just More Promises

Both presidential candidates have now set forth their views on the farm problem and neither has offered a realistic solution. Neither has offered a plan that would have the united support of farm organizations, and without united support of the farmers themselves Congress probably will continue to do nothing.

Our advice to the candidates, and we are sure they will welcome our advice, is to promise to get the government out of the price-support business in all fields, including agriculture, and gradually restore that free economy we hear so much about.

The withdrawal from price support operations would have to be gradual, giving to each industry time to readjust itself to its new responsibilities. Price supports for agricultural products should not be reduced more than ten per cent a year but the reduction scale should be continued until all guarantees are ended.

To offset government controls each segment of agriculture should be encouraged to set up its own production and marketing controls, as several segments have already done quite successfully. Such segment organizations probably would need financial assistance to get started. Back in the thirties the government extended credit to an organization formed by the dairy industry to regulate the marketing of dairy products, and until those markets were disrupted by the war, that marketing organization stabilized the market effectively.

Let's take the farm problem out of politics and turn it back to the farmers. Give to them broad powers to organize in their own behalf and regulate their own operations.

There are only a few problem crops. Most of the products of our farms and ranches and orchards and gardens are sold in a free market without government price supports, and from our observation, most of the producers prefer to have it that way.

But let's keep in mind that agriculture is not the only industry that is being subsidized. There may be justification for some subsidies. The farm subsidies were justified, we believe, immediately following the war, as a means of effecting a gradual adjustment back to peace time production. But we would strengthen our economy if all permanent subsidies were gradually discontinued, forcing all of us to learn to walk again without crutches.

A Roost for Castro's Chickens

As might have been expected, Fidel Castro has outshone even that accomplished clown, Khrushchev, during his first few days in Manhattan. And Cuba's Maximum Leader has turned the trick simply by being himself.

Arriving for the Communist encampment at the United Nations, Castro found that no New York City hostelry wanted any part of him. Small wonder. For the trip, Castro had whistled up a mob of 80 bearded bullyboys, laden with 500 pieces of luggage and crates of biscuits, beans, and peanuts— the whole entourage moving in a cloud of black stogie smoke.

Finally, at the frantic behest of the State Department, the Hotel Shelburne opened its doors to Castro's traveling circus. Installed in 20 suites, the Cubans promptly bivouacked as they would in the mountains back home. In an impromptu commissary on the third floor, they plucked and cooked chickens and broke out the beans and biscuits. Cheeseburgers from local beaneries were run up to Castro's suite in brown paper bags. Swarms of hairy "aides" overran the Shelburne's swank lobby.

When the innkeeper, an unwilling host to begin with, asked for a guarantee against damages, Fidel threw a tantrum and refused. Screaming against "unacceptable cash demands," Castro & Company packed their bags, their unplucked chickens, their peanuts and beans, and stalked off to U.N. headquarters. In a three-hour parley with harassed Secretary-General Hammarskjold, who seems to be having more than his share of trouble these days, the Cubans' tempers were cooled with a case of whiskey, and they decided not to pitch tents in Central Park after all.

The rag-tag vanguard of Cuba's Revolution is now tucked away in another hotel which they might well have sought out in the first place. For Castro's new camping-ground, coincidentally, has in the past sheltered the conventioneering U. S. Communist party. What better place to pluck and fry his Rhode Island Reds?

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"Well," exclaimed the young medic as he joined a colleague in the hospital cafeteria, "I certainly performed that last operation in the nick of time. Another few hours and the patient would have recovered without it!"

Let's talk about the DIFFERENCE in fuel oils
MIDLAND INFRA-HEAT FUEL OIL with CAL-RAD looks like most other fuel oils. But it's the differences you can't see, as a result of the refining and blending processes, that can cost you money and heating comfort. Many fuel oils contain additives. They, too, are different. Cal-Rad in Midland INFRA-HEAT is a tested and proved additive that overcomes the moisture and sludge problems inherent with heating oils.
With ordinary fuel oil in your tank, moisture can cause damaging rust and sludge formation. Let's see what this means.
The opening in your oil burner's nozzle is smaller than the period ending this sentence. That tiny hole must stay open and clean for efficient fuel atomization and combustion.

Cal-Rad in Midland INFRA-HEAT absorbs and disperses moisture, prevents rust and sludge. The moisture burns with the fuel. Your burner nozzle stays clean, inside and out. No smoke, soot, fuel waste or lost heat. Uniform fuel atomization like this gives you clean-burning, economical heating comfort.

COMBUSTION

Here a tiny particle of rust or sludge is lodged near that small opening. Deflected fuel drips away unburned. Faulty burning makes soot and smoke. Finally the opening is plugged. Fuel is wasted, heat is lost. A service call results.
When you are tempted to say, "oh, all fuel oils are alike" . . . . think about these two pictures. Remember the importance of these differences in fuel oils.
For the finest money saving, clean, home heating fuel, call the Midland cooperative. Only Midland has the "Comfort Assurance Plan" featuring both Budget Pay and Keep-Fill services and only Midland has petroleum products that are Midland controlled . . . from the oil well to you.
Through your purchases you can become a stockholder at the Midland cooperative.

More Must Be Done To Increase Ducks

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles on the unusual job a handful of American duck hunters—Ducks Unlimited — are doing with their membership funds to restore disappearing duck breeding grounds in Canada. Minnesota is currently engaged in an all-out membership campaign for Ducks Unlimited.

The future looks good for Canadian ducks, for the first time in years.

The droughts of the past few years have been eased by rains and water control projects. The duck population is ready to grow rather than just hold its own, or lose ground as it has during the last three dry seasons.

That's why Ducks Unlimited is so anxious to achieve a record membership this year, to get funds with which to expand the present populations to assure future generations hunting that is as good or better han we enjoy now.

Ducks Unlimited was born out of urgency and necessity in 1937. The mid-thirties brought with them the dust bowl years. The state of the earth was changing over a large section of the United States and Canada. Streams, lakes and potholes vanished. Hot, drying winds carried cargoes of top soil from one place to another. Vast tracts of real estate were undergoing redistribution.

So were people, as they abandoned their untenable homes and unproductive fields.

But waterfowl population was not so resourceful. As breeding areas disappeared, so did the birds. They could not adjust; they died off.

By 1937 the continent's web-footed inhabitants descended to an all-time numerical low. Many species were so low in numbers that they were nearing a point of no return that meant eventual extinction.

This was the twilight of the ducks. But darkness never came, because men saw the light in time. A careful study financed by alarmed sportsmen and conservationists indicated hunting pressure was not the chief reason for the duck decline. It was the destruction of waterfowl breeding grounds, by the combined forces of man and nature, that was responsible for the threatened end of ducks and hunting.

The problem was simple: How to restore those breeding areas without hurting agricultural interests. It was evident that the over-exploitation and indiscriminate drainage of land was hurting man as well as ducks. Experience showed that water levels must be adequate and stabilized, not only for the ducks but for agriculture and for industry.

Birds and people both needed water, in the form of lakes and streams and potholes. Water tables must be maintained. So in this country, federal and state conservation agencies inaugurated new and intensified old programs that would help the ducks without harming the farmers.

American breeding areas were developed. A system of watering and resting refuges was established. Hunting pressure was eased, by way of curtailed bag limits and shortened shooting seasons. Funds for restoration of waterfowl resources were augmented by federal duck stamps and taxes on sporting equipment.

But American conservation agencies were legally restricted to spending their funds in this country.

The conservationists and the sportsmen who organized Ducks Unlimited saw that much more must be done to bring back the waterfowl. They recognized that a reduced bag limit was, at best, what medical men refer to as "symptomatic relief" and that they must apply a "specific" cure. In other words, the cure for what ailed the dwindling duck supply lay in going to the source of the trouble and eliminating it.

That source was America's so-called duck "factory" in Canada. The duck the American hunter downs (or misses) very likely broke out of its shell somewhere in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. These prairie provinces produced more than 65 per cent of all North American ducks.

On January 29, 1937, Ducks Unlimited was incorporated as a non-profit, non-governmental, non-political membership organization with the sole aim of perpetuating waterfowl on the North American continent.

The funds it raised among its members would be spent where they were most needed, in Canada, to restore old duck breeding areas and envelop new ones, to recreate and create, to control predators, to carry on biologic research.

This ambitious program would work only with full cooperation of our Canadian neighbors. That was assured with the organization in 1938 of Ducks Unlimited, Canada, with administrative, engineering and other technological departments whose responsibility it is to put DU money to work where and how it is needed to keep the "duck factory" operating efficiently.

The comeback of the continent's waterfowl has been remarkable since DU began. The story of that comeback will be detailed in the next article in this series.

FORD'S NEW light duty Econoline commercial vehicles come in three models, a Pickup, Van and eight-passenger Station Bus. Powered with a modified version of the dependable, economical 85-horsepower Falcon engine and utilizing many standard components from other Ford products, the Econoline vehicles are 168.4 inches long — nearly two feet shorter than the Falcon station wagon. Wheelbase is 90 inches with over-all width 72.5 inches for the Pickup and 75.8 for the Van and Bus. The easily accessible engine is located forward beside the drivers' seat providing ample pass-through space in the front and a flat rear floor area with low 25-inch loading height. The Van and Bus have 204.4 cubic feet of load space behind the front seat. The Pickup has a curb weight of only 2,389 pounds but can carry a payload of nearly 1,700 pounds when equipped with optional extra spring leaves and heavy duty tires. They may be seen at the Tunberg Motor Co. in Thief River Falls September 29.

Centrifugal Method May Be Utilized in Harvester of Future

Damage Less to Kernels; Combines Could be Made Lower, Lighter, Compact

The same force that throws you against the door of your car when rounding a sharp curve is being used by Ohio Agricultural Experiment station engineers to thresh wheat and shell corn.

Centrifugal force sucks the kernels from wheat heads or corn cobs and sends them traveling up to 150 miles an hour, says the October issue of Successful Farming magazine.

The use of centrifugal force is an entirely new threshing concept which, if incorporated into a commercial-scale machine, could revolutionize your harvesting, says the magazine. At present no equipment utilizes it.

Preliminary tests show that grain with up to 40 per cent moisture can be harvested without damage. Using your present-day combine, the maximum limit is 19 per cent for small grains because at higher moisture levels kernel damage, molding, and other spoilage become serious.

The centrifugal system of threshing sorts out the heavy kernels first. Since these heavier kernels are superior for seed and apparently have a higher nutrient level, wheat can be divided into quality grades by this method. Today, kernels of all types fall into a common lot.

A combine utilizing the centrifugal force principle could be made lower, more compact and half as heavy as present machines, because there is no need for a straw rack, the magazine points out.

You could use such a combine just as well on hillsides as on level land. Now companies have to manufacture special machines for use on steep slopes.

With centrifugal combining, there would be no straw and only one third as much chaff in the grain after threshing as compared to conventional combining, since all grain would be separated from the straw at the cylinder, says the magazine.

There is also a possibility that this principle could be used in the threshing of soybeans and other legumes.

Diseases Shown in Some Corn Fields

Some Lodging of Corn Found, Need Insecticide

If leaves on your corn show large oblong spots this fall, chances are your crop has a light infection of a fungus disease.

Herbert Johnson, extension plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota, says light amounts of northern corn leaf blight can be found in many fields. Symptoms are the gray to light-brown spots from ¼ to 1 inch wide and about 1 to 4 inches long.

Although the disease is often severe in southern states, it doesn't seem to have any damaging effect on the Minnesota corn crop this season.

Northern corn leaf blight is rarely found in Minnesota.

Corn fields show some other unsual conditions, this fall, probably a result of weather conditions during the growing season.

Some corn is lodging because of root injury. In one case, inspection of a lodged area showed the damage resulted from severe pruning by root worms followed by a fungus infection. Soil application of an insecticide at planting time would have prevented most of the damage.

Cornsmut is always present but seldom severe. This holds good again this fall.

Slow Down and Live!

Score in Workship Betters by Practice Just Like Bowling

November is 'Religion in American Life' Month; a National Program for All

No one becomes a good bowler simply by walking through the door of a bowling alley. His score goes up only as he practices—and it's much the same way with religion.

But why go to church? Perhaps the straightest answer is that the help we get from God makes all the difference in meeting our problems. And the way to get this help is through worship.

In worship we find encouragement to do the things we know we ought to do. We get strength and inspiration from being with others in worship. When we go to worship we take a stand and set an example that our children and our neighbors can see.

As the worship service starts, we begin to think of all the good things we have and we thank God for them. Then we think back over some of the things we should have done but didn't, and some of the things we did that we shouldn't. Then, we ask God to forgive us and help us do better.

In the Scripture and the sermon we look for a direct answer to some of our problems. We make the spoken prayers our own. And at the end of the service the peace and assurance and the strength that we feel tells us that we have been in touch with God.

Why not try it this week? This is a good time to begin. November is "Religion in American Life" month when a nationwide program is under way to encourage all American to "Find Strength of Your Life . . . Worship Together This Week."

Announcing the 1961 Ford . . .
Beautifully proportioned to the CLASSIC FORD LOOK

An honor to be proud of, this is the medal presented by the international fashion authority, Centro per L'Alta Moda Italiana, to the 1961 Ford for functional expression of classic beauty.

The 1961 Ford Galaxie Club Victoria—beautifully built to take care of people

BEAUTIFULLY BUILT TO TAKE CARE OF ITSELF

The 1961 Ford introduces a whole new concept of what a car can do for you . . . and for itself!

It lubricates itself. New nylon bearings and a newly developed lubricant keep the '61 Ford freshly greased for 30,000 miles. It cleans its own oil. The 1961 Ford's Full-Flow oil filter lets you go 4,000 miles between oil-changes.

It adjusts its own brakes. A "mechanical brain" keeps brakes adjusted for the life of the lining.

Rust? Ford's body is specially processed to resist corrosion, even to galvanizing body panels beneath doors.

Ford takes care of itself on the turnpike, too, with a new 390-cu. in. Thunderbird Special V-8 that has all the punch you'll ever need. The 352 Thunderbird Special V-8 and 292 Thunderbird V-8 thrive on regular gas. And, for top economy, you can choose the '61 Mileage Maker Six.

This is the 1961 Ford . . . beautifully proportioned to the Classic Ford Look . . . beautifully built to take care of itself.

HERE'S HOW THE '61 FORD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF
LUBRICATES ITSELF. You'll normally go 30,000 miles without a chassis lubrication.
CLEANS ITS OWN OIL. You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes with Ford's Full-Flow oil filter.
ADJUSTS ITS OWN BRAKES. New Truck Size brakes adjust themselves automatically.
GUARDS ITS OWN MUFFLER. Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized—normally will last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.
PROTECTS ITS OWN BODY. All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing body panels beneath doors.
TAKES CARE OF ITS OWN FINISH. New Diamond Lustre Finish never needs wax.

WHERE THE ENDS OF THE EARTH MEET

We see only wires! But at this very moment a woman in San Francisco may be speaking to her husband in Tokyo . . . . . a boy at Princeton may be inviting a girl in Albuquerque to a football game . . . and Mrs. Green of R. D. No. 1 may be placing her order with Mr. Brown of the Crossroads Store.

Here — where sixty wires cling to the cross-arms of a weathered pole — the ends of the earth meet!

It's like that in our local churches on Communion Sunday. Whether fifty or five hundred receive the Holy Sacrament . . . the ends of the earth meet. For the Lord's Supper is not a rite of one church or one denomination. It is the common sacramental feast of millions of Christians all over the world.

Are you availing yourself of this blessed privilege, and are you attending your church regularly? As you receive this Sacrament in your church, your life is linked to the lives of Christians everywhere. And you and they are united in a common communion with God!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The artist felt here was a theme for his masterpiece. He would call it "Homeless". As he went back to his room and began painting, a still small voice seemed to say to him, "Why don't you live your picture? Why don't you go out to save such unfortunate ones? He then laid aside his brush and went into the city to help others and God began using him in a much greater way. There is a lesson in this which tells all of us that there is so much we can do to help others. Edgar Bergen To Appear Here Thursday

SOUNDNESS of limb and wind were checked by buyers at the annual Lions club Slave Auction Thursday and Friday afternoons, September 29 and 30. Andy Anderson, left, one of the auctioneers, looks the prospective buyers over for a higher bid while Dave Bruggeman, right, demonstrates the finer points of Bill Frolland. The auction brought in over $1,000 to the club for its community projects.

Slave Auction Is 'Big Success' Lions Report

Sale Nets Over $1,000 for Use in Community Work

The most successful Slave Auction in the history of the local Lions club was concluded Friday afternoon when, after the two-day sale, a total of over $1,000 was bid for the services of the 54 club members.

J. J. Womack and Phil Kays, co-chairmen of the event this year, reported this morning that nearly all Slaves were sold during the Thursday and Friday afternoon street auction and that no radio auction will be held this year.

Proceeds of the sale will be used by the service club to sponsor its community programs including the purchase of playground equipment, the Halloween festival, Kiddie Carnival, American Field Service participation, athletic banquet participation and eyeglasses for needy children.

Bidding was spirited this year under the urging of Dave and LeRoy Bruggeman and Andy Anderson who pointed out the excellent quality of the Slaves including soundness of limb and wind and condition of teeth and sight. Much of the bidding was by merchants who will use their purchased Slaves for one-day promotions and sales help.

No details on the actual duties of purchased Lions have been given but shoppers in the downtown area can expect to see many of them in unusual jobs during the next few weeks.

Over-generosity on the part of four youths and over-indulgence on the part of four others last Thursday afternoon resulted in the arrests of four juveniles for drinking whiskey and uncovered the theft of a case of pints of whiskey from a car near the city liquor store by Sheriff Charles Richards.

The sheriff was called out into the county Thursday afternoon to investivate a stalled car occupied by four youths. He discovered the four had been drinking and one had been ill from imbibing too freely of the purloined booze.

The youths told Richards the whiskey had been given to them by four other youths who had taken it from a car parked near the liquor store.

Prisoner is Seized After Chase in City by County Sheriff

Released by Error from City Jail; Sentencing is Scheduled This Afternoon

A prisoner released by error from the city jail Friday morning was picked up shortly before noon today by officers of the Pennington county sheriff's office after a chase through the eastern residential section of the city.

Helmer Hinden, who had been confined to the jail every evening but allowed to work during the days under the Huber law, was supposed to be kept in jail until today's session of municipal court after he lost his job.

The officer in charge of the jail did not know that Hinden was without a job and released him when he asked permission to go to the job he no longer had.

This morning, sheriff's officers chased Hinden through the eastern residential section of the city, at one time firing a warning shot, and finally located him on the airport road on the extreme southern edge of the city.

He will be brought into municipal court on schedule.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Thompson of this city and Miss Marie Jarshaw of International Falls were dinner guests last Sunday at the Waldo Thompson home in St. Hilaire.

Freeman Says under Republicans . . .

'State Programs Would Be Starved'

A good turnout of DFL party faithful listened attentively Thursday evening as Gov. Orville Freeman and other DFL candidates fired salvo after salvo at the GOP, it platform and its candidates.

In rapid succession Freeman: (1) said the Republicans would "starve out" state mental health, hospital and school programs, (2) denied charges of "fiscal irresponsibility" leveled at him by GOP candidates, saying he has had a balanced budget and a budget surplus every year of his administration, and (3) called the Nixon farm program "preposterous," claimed he authored the Kennedy farm plan, and said there was no farm surplus until the Eisenhower administration took over in 1952.

Regarding presidential candidate Sen. John F. Kennedy's farm voting record, Freeman said the Democratic standard-bearer comes from a New England state with no agriculture and "voted the wrong way" several times but "he is learning as he goes along."

In closing, Freeman reiterated his previous statements that anyone who farms or depends on the farmer for a living and votes Republican "should have his head examined."

Most important of the other speakers who paraded to the rostrum before Freeman's speech was Mrs. Andrew Knutson, DFL candidate for the 9th District congressional seat now held by Odin Langen.

Mrs. Knutson praised her erstwhile primary opponent, Roy Wiseth, in her opening remarks and apparently in reference to patching the split between herself and the party hierarchy, said, "We're all working together now and we're glad."

Mrs. Knutson claimed malicious gossip was responsible for her previous downfall but that the bad effects would come back upon its users a thousand-fold.

Charge after charge was leveled at her opponent, and she showed every indication she is as determined to win back her seat in congress as she was to defeat Wiseth in the primary.

Prior to her speech, the crowd was addressed briefly by L. J. Lee, Bagley, candidate for the 65th Legislative district seat vacated by Rep. Walter Day, and by Rep. Ben Wichterman, Plummer, the other DFL-endorsed candidate in the four-man race.

Mayor Arthur H. Carlson, Lake Park, presided at the bean feed and introduced the speakers. Rev. Marvin Carlson gave the invocation while Mayor Orin J. Green welcomed the crowd.

Approximately 300 persons attended the event at the armory, which is probably a slight decrease compared with similar events held in previous election years.

Famous Entertainer Here in Person for Show in Gymnasium

Edgar Bergen, one of America's most popular entertainers, will appear in person Thursday afternoon at the Lincoln high school gymnasium in a program of entertainment combined with politics. He is spending three days in Minnesota in the interests of his friend Vice President Richard Nixon, Republican candidate for President. An invitation from Thief River Falls to appear was accepted.

With Mr. Bergen will be his wife, an accomplished entertainer in her own right, and those famous characters known thruout the world, Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd. The program is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and there will be no admission charge.

The Bergens are traveling on a tight schedule. They will arrive at Thief River Falls by North Central Airlines Thursday noon and will be flown from here to Duluth by chartered plane for an evening performance.

Seats for an audience of at least 2,500 will be available in the high school gym where 2,500 admissions have been packed in for basketball games. In addition to the regular seats, 600 chairs will be available on the floor. If necessary, the school auditorium will be used for any overflow.

Though Mr. Bergen became the most famous ventriloquist in history, his talents have become more and more diversified during his years as a top performer. Recently, he gained much critical acclaim when he appeared in straight dramatic roles on such TV series as "Five Fingers", and "The DuPont Show." His numerous nightclub engagements, in addition to presenting his "wooden sidekicks in person," include wonderfully warm portrayals of some of the delightful people he has encountered.

This summer, Bergen traveled to Sweden, land of his forebears, to headline in Stockholm at the Tivoli theater, the fourth time he has been thus presented. His first appearance was in 1927 when he played an entire act in the Swedish language.

In 1945, Bergen married Frances Westerman, a John Powers model from Birmingham, Alabama. They have one child, Candice (Candy) Patricia, who was born May 9, 1946.

Mrs. Bergen waited nine years to resume her singing career after Candy arrived but in 1955 she started making occasional appearances. Her immediate success paved the way to television appearances and she has starred in several large productions.

New Tractor Line on Display Tuesday

New John Deere Models Have Four, Six Cylinders

Amundgaard-Lunke Co., local John Deere implement dealers, announced today that the first showing of the completely new line of John Deere tractors will be held at their establishment Tuesday.

The new line of tractors was announced late in the summer and over 6,000 dealers had a preview of the line Aug. 30 when the largest such gathering ever held saw the new tractors at Dallas, Texas. The first of the new tractors arrived here late last week.

The new tractors are a radical departure from previous John Deere machines in that the old two-cylinder engines have been abandoned in favor of four and six cylinder engines, both gas and diesel. The smaller tractors in the line will be powered with four cylinder engines; the larger ones will be equipped with the six.

In addition to the new engines, Everett Amundgaard said, the new tractors have other new features which make them the most advanced machines on the market today. Area farmers are cordially invited to look over the new John Deeres at Amundgaard's open house Tuesday.

Crown Sees Bull in Field Near Home in Bray Twp.

The Northwest Minnesota moose is apparently widening its range, judging from reports of moose being seen in areas where they have never been seen before.

The latest report of a moose being seen in new territory comes from Lloyd Crown, a Bray township farmer who lives about 15 miles southwest of Thief River Falls. Crown said he saw a huge bull moose in a field near his home Wednesday afternoon and several others have sighted moose in the area in recent weeks.

The past few years moose have been observed as far south as Union lake, 6 miles south of U.S. Highway 2, or farther. The huge animals, largest in the North American deer family, are known to range widely, however, a othe animals sighted in various locations could still be a part of the herds whose normal habitat is in the Mud Lake or Lower Red Lake areas.

SCIENCE CLUB MEMBERS HAVE REGULAR MEETING

The microscope has probably done more to advanced science than any other instrument, Richard Goldenstein, Lincoln high school science instructor told members of the school science club at their Wednesday, Sept. 28, meeting.

Goldenstein showed the club members how to use the instrument and the students then operated them, made slides and observed specimens.

Bruce Gilbertson, president of the club, presided at the meeting.

FIREMEN CALLED FRIDAY TO ANDREW CARLSON HOME

City firemen answered a call shortly after 12:30 Friday afternoon to the Andrew Carlson home just east of the Eighth street bridge.

It is reported that an electric stove overheated and bread in the oven caught fire. Only smoke damage to the kitchen resulted.

The Library Corner

By Eleanor Olson

The other night when my husband was out of town, after I had worked quite late and finally gotten the house settled down, I crawled into bed and picked up a book, a historical novel. I planned to just page through it a little bit before I turned out the light but it was a little after one o'clock when I finally finished the "thing." As a result, the next morning I had a very hard time responding to my young one's cheerful hello.

Still, it was an interesting book with good authentic background and I couldn't bring myself to regret reading so long the night before. It wasn't a new book, but one which had caught my eye when I was preparing the Civil War window for National Library week early last spring. "Night March" by Bruce Lancaster tells about the escape of four Union cavalry officers from Libby prison, a smaller version of Andersonville, and their journey behind the lines back to the North. They were helped all the way by the mountain people who so deeply resented the "Lowland southerners' war." They were accompanied by two Canadians, father and daughter, whom they had taken into custody to prevent the report of their escape. The love interest which no self respecting historical novel would be without, involves the Canadian girl and the leader of the officers. The closing chapters of the book cover the final horrible battle of Franklin, Tennessee, when General Hood's confederates made their last valiant determined effort to break through to the North. The fury and violence of the fighting could only have been exceeded by the more prolonged battle at Gettysburg, but the results were as bloody.

The grip in which this novel held me led me to ask Miss Shannahan what the most popular historical novels are. I was surprized to find that I had read only two out of six, "Gone With the Wind" by Margaret Mitchell, also about the Civil War, and "Desiree" by Selinko, the story of a girl who almost married Napoleon and married instead the general who was asked to take over the tottering Swedish throne. Another Civil War novel, "Tap Roots" by Street was on the list. A novel about our own revolution, "Roanoke Hundred" by Fletcher, was on the list, as was one, "The Judas Tree" by Swanson, about the wars between Indians and the white settlers who poured over the mountains at the end of our Revolution. "One Red Rose Forever" by Jordan, the last book on the list is the story of America's famous glass maker, Baron von Steigel.

Historical novels are intensely gripping when well written because with such authentic background you feel as if you are actually living history over again. The fact that they are fictionalized pales before the possibility that this is what really might have happened. I read them with gusto for the insight they give me into the world we live in now. And my imagination is always pricked to wonder what our world would be like if the results had been different. But my experience really should teach me never to start a novel unless I intend to read it right through. I get so lost in them that I resent the intrusions of mealtime or bedtime. And after I finish one I always find myself led to another one on the same or a related subject. One historical novel can set off a chain reaction in related reading that lasts for months.

County 4-H Girl Tells of Conservation Trip

This is one of the trips I will always remember. Among cherished memories this one will stand out as a favorite. It was given to me for my work in conservation. Over 100 Minnesota 4-H'ers who have been active in conservation or forestry attended.

We left the Pennington county court house Thursday afternoon, September 15. Four other girls and I accompanied Mr. Fred Heck, soil conservationist in Marshall county.

We arrived at Itasca State Park at about 5:30. When I stepped out of the car, I saw the most beautiful trees I've ever seen, towering high above me. For anyone who has never been here before, it is an unforgetable experience. You have the feeling of being isolated from the rest of the world. The peace of forest and stream surrounds you. You almost feel you go back to the French voyageur's time when white men first set foot here.

We stayed at the University of Minnesota's Forestry and Biological station in a cabin built of logs, rooming six. Bunk beds, desks and chairs completed the furnishings. Our cabin was right in front of the flag pole. The "Even song" and flag raising ceremonies were held right outside of our door.

The first night we had a cook-out.". Our supper consisted of barbecued chicken, potato salad and all the trimmings. That evening we had "Even song" after supper. "Even song" is the time when each of us would gather in front of the flags and think over the happenings of the day. It was very beautiful, sitting here overlooking Lake Itasca.

That evening we held a council meeting in the general meeting hall. We were assigned to tribes of Indians. I was a member of the Winnebago tribe. There were four tribes, Sioux, Cree, Winnebago and Dakota. The staff members were the Big Feet.

At 6:45 the next morning we went to breakfast. The dining hall was large with large windows on both sides, so you could look out and enjoy the scenery as you had your meal.

After flag raising I went to class. I had outdoor cookery and water safety the first day. We learned how to make a fire in the woods, using all safety precautions. Two students from the University of Minnesota demonstrated mouth to mouth respiration. It is better than the former method of artificial respiration.

In the afternoon we went on a tour of the park. We saw the museum which contained stuffed birds and animals of Minnesota and tools that had been used by the pioneers. We saw Indian mounds of all sizes. Some were very high while others were small. They had dug up a small one and it had been the burial spot for 12 bodies.

A large one had contained only one body. The size of the mound didn't mean anything.

We went to the Mississippi head waters. I walked across it. From there we visited the ranger station. Many climbed the 100 foot tower. We stopped at Preacher's Grove. We were to have Sunday services there, but rain cancelled that. We stopped at Douglas Lodge and bought souvenirs.

In the afternoon, the Winnebago played softball against the Cree. We lost.

That evening, we were shown slides on different waterfowl and were told about banding. This way a duck's journey can be traced. When you are hunting, and should shoot one with a band, you should send the band to the address given on it, telling where you shot it. This way they can tell how far ducks travel.

Saturday, we had a class conducted by Parker Anderson, a ranger at Itasca park. We were very fortunate to have Mr. Anderson since he is retiring this coming year. He showed us how to measure standing trees and timber. He also quizzed us on what trees to save and what to cut down.

Orin Turquist conducted a class on Minnesota trees and shrubs. We walked all morning.

In the afternoon, we had a council meeting with Glenn Prickett presiding, discussing safety in driving. The greatest cause of accidents is the failure to grant the right of way. Other causes of accidents were given as overconfidence, distractions, emotional hazards, short-sighted thinking and car neglect.

After this class we went on a scavenger hunt, where among other things we had to find squaw wood, wild ginger, sarsaparilla plant, non-poisonous ivy and dog wood. The Dakota tribe won this. We came in third. We had Parker Anderson for a judge, and we couldn't fool him.

That evening we had our banquet with Parker Anderson as the speaker. He spoke on conservation. Wayne Bath led us in singing, accompanied by his wife.

Square dancing was the recreation for the evening, closing with an outdoor candlelighting ceremony which was most beautiful and impressive.

The next morning I was on kitchen duty helping set tables and later washing dishes. Every cabin had kitchen duty. We had chapel in the main hall prior to our departure for home.

This the 27th year that the camp has been sponsored by the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service in cooperation with the Minnesota department of conservation.

I urge everyone to take conservation, not just for the trip, which is a wonderful incentive, but for the wealth of information you get. You learn all about Minnesota's trees, shrubs and flowers and its wildlife — animals and birds. I'm deeply grateful to all who made this trip possible for me.

Sincerely,
Mary Ann Lendobeja

VICTOR and vanquished shared the speakers' platform at the DFL bean feed held in the armory Thursday evening, as county DFL'ers hosted numerous dignitaries and candidates at the event. Shown here as she spoke before the large audience is Mrs. Andrew (Coya) Knutson, Oklee, who defeated Roy Wiseth (third from left) in the primary election Sept. 6. Mrs. Knutson will try to regain the seat she lost to Rep. Odin Langen, Kennedy, in the 1958 election as the result of her primary victory over Wiseth, the DFL endorsee. Others here, from left, are state Rep. Ben Wichterman and Gov. Orville Freeman.

POSING with a visitor from Norway, Governor Orville Freeman, was very affable before his speech at the DFL bean feed at the amory Thursday evening. The young lady is Turid Wiem from Oslo, Norway, who is a guest of Lake Park Mayor Arthur H. Carlson, master of ceremonies at Thursday's bean feed.

You and Your Eyes

Night Drivers with Half-Eyes

A construction worker hopped into his car and headed home. He had worked right up to sunset, and now it was dark.

The car lights were on low beam. "Lows don't do much," he thought. "Must be getting weak." He turned the lights up to high beam. Hardly any improvement. It was like driving through a fog.

Suddenly it struck him. "It's not the lights! It's my eyes! Quickly he pulled to the side of the road and stopped. "It can't be," he said aloud. "My eyes have always been perfect!"

It's true that this man had normal daytime vision. His problem was a 50% loss in night vision. He was driving with "half-eyes."

Carefully controlled tests have revealed that individuals exposed to sunlight for even three or four hours a day for two weeks can temporarily lose more than half of their night vision. Some drivers are smart enough to pull off the road when this happens. Many aren't, and they constitute a growing menace on our highways.

Drivers like these need glasses that protect and correct their eyesight, night and day. But many don't bother. In fact, almost half of all American drivers have never had an adequate visual test. And, until the proper laws are passed for repeated drivers' eye examinations, night drivers with half-eyes will continue to plague our highways.

Map is Available of Wildlife Areas

A new and attractive map showing the location of state-owned wildlife management areas is now available to Minnesota hunters. In making this announcement, David B. Vesall, game section chief, indicated it has been greatly increased in size and contents over the previous map.

The new map prepared under the direction of Stephen Sokolik, land project leader, shows 350 areas to be found in 74 counties. This is an increase of 57 areas over the number available to hunters last year.

The map is designed to aid hunters seeking the public hunting areas. Such information as the name of the area, county where located, distance and direction from nearest town, size of area and person in charge is also included.

The wildlife management areas which are listed are largely wetlands projects acquired and developed under the "Save Minnesota's Wetlands" program. When hunters locate these areas in the field they will see boundary signs which read "Wildlife Management Area, Minnesota Conservation Department, Division of Game and Fish." These areas are all open to public hunting. Parts of 16 of the larger units have plainly marked refuges within their boundaries where hunting is prohibited as a game management measure.

Copies of the new map can be obtained upon request by writing to the Minnesota Department of Conservation, Bureau of Information, Centennial Building, St. Paul 1, Minnesota.

Is Freeman the Farmer's Friend?

In terms of accomplishment instead of conversation just what has Freeman done for the farmer? When there has been controversy involving farmers selling livestock, perishable produce, or milk, who has he favored—every time? Has he opened markets or closed them?

Has Freeman added to farm income or through deficits, debt and waste taken income from the farmer? Has his state highway program favored farm to market roads? He's even taken away the little income farmers used to make trimming shoulders.

When it came to picking a presidential candidate did he pick one with a strong farm record? Even Humphrey said that the man Freeman backed for president voted wrong every time on 28 farm votes over a period of several years.

The fact is that when the chips are down Freeman does not support farmers—his loyalties are elsewhere—every time!

Bergen Started His Journey to Fame As School Entertainer

Long, Famous Career As Ventriloquist Started With Prank on Mother

Edgar Bergen's interest in show business started early. By the time he reached the seventh grade he was amusing his classmates with imitations of birds and people. One evening while sitting in the kitchen, his mother thought she herd an old man at the door. Upon investigation she found no one there. It was Edgar's first real experiment with ventriloquism, which he had been secretly practicing.

Bergen's parents came to America in their teens and operated a dairy business on Chicago's west side. When Edgar was in the fourth grade the family moved to Decatur, Michigan.

One of the first jobs he had while attending high school was playing the piano to accompany the silent pictures. He became operator of the projection booth and finally was offered part ownership of the small venture.

Show business was definitely in his blood by this time. While he was still in high school his first Charlie McCarthy was created, modeled after a fresh Irish newesboy who had caught Edgar's fancy. Edgar attributes his graduation from high school to Charlie and, following graduation, he was booked at Chautauqua that summer.

He and Charlie attended Northwestern university, majoring in languages, paying his way by his public appearances. He then went into vaudeville and by now he was definitely on his way to fame. His "firsts" in radio and television are numerous.

Other characters that he developed, besides Charlie McCarthy, are Mortimer Snerd, Effie Klinker and Podine Puffington.

Northrop Passing Attack Effective in Tiger Defeat

Results of Wednesday's game:
Northrop, 27, vs. Knox, 14
Schedule, Wednesday, Oct. 5:
Washington vs. Northrop

Unleashing a well-conceived passing attack, with quarterback Jon Looker throwing three touchdown passes to right end Billy Olson, the Northrop Indians defeated a burly Knox eleven, 27 to 14, on the Lincoln field Wednesday afternoon.

This week's game will find coach George Schlieff's league-leading Washington team meeting the Northrop team on Wednesday afternoon, with the kick-off slated for 4:30 p.m.

Northrop gained an early lead in its tilt with the Knox Tigers last Wednesday, with Billy Olson taking a pass from Jon Looker to complete a 20-yard touchdown play. Fullback Dave DuPree plunged for the point, giving the Indians a 7 to 0 lead.

Coach Roger Dorn's Knox club evened the score when, in the second period, fullback Bill Dicken drove over from the 5-yard line for the TD. Dicken plunged for the conversion point to deadlock the game, 7 to 7. Later in the period, Northrop's hard-running fullback, DuPree, scored on a 10-yard run, and then added the point to give the Indians a 14 to 7 lead. With a minute of play remaining in the first half, the Looker to Olson aerial combination tallied to give coach Dick Brooks' club a 20 to 7 lead at the intermission.

The Tigers scored midway in the third period when quarterback Pahl Ihle, on a keeper play, swept around right end for a 30-yard touchdown run. Dicken added the conversion and the Tigers trailed by a 20 to 14 score.

Knox threatened to score in the fourth period, having the ball on the Northrop 10-yard line, but a fine defensive play, with end David Halvorson crashing thru to drop the Tigers' ball carrier for an 8-yard loss, halted the drive. The Indians scored the game's final TD following DuPree's 50-yard run that carried deeply into Knox territory. Looker hit Olson with a pass, and the Northrop right end gathered in the ball for his third touchdown of the game. Looker marked up the point on a push over center.

Prowler 'B' Squad Defeated Saturday

Drop Second Game to Bemidji by Single Point

The Prowler 'B' team football squad, coached by Charles DeCorsey and Gene Sack, dropped their second decision of the year to the Bemidji 'B' team when, in a game played on the Lincoln high school athletic field here Saturday afternoon, they lost by the margin of a conversion point, 7 to 6.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 4, with kickoff time at 7:30 p.m. on the Lincoln field, the Prowler 'B' team will play the Roseau 'B' squad. This will be the second meeting of the season between the two clubs, and the Rams will be seeking to avenge the 12 to 6 loss they received in a game played at Roseau last week.

Fatten Beef Cattle on Low Roughage Corn Silage Diet

Rosemount Soils Farm Reports on Experiments of Implanting Stilbestrol

Beef cattle can be fattened efficiently with either no hay or a small amount, when fed with a restricted amount of corn and a full feed of corn silage.

This is one of the results of experiments by University of Minnesota animal husbandmen reported at Beef Cattle-Grassland field day at the University's soils farm September 22.

Reporting the effect of feeding four levels of hay with corn silage on feedlot performance was O. E. Kolari, assistant professor of animal husbandry.

In the trials, either no hay, 2 pounds, 4 pounds or 6 pounds were fed. It was found that when no hay was fed more supplemental protein was required. Either 2.5 pounds for the heifers, or 2.9 pounds for the steers, of a 34-36 per cent protein supplement was needed to balance the ration when no hay was fed. On the other hand, only 1.4 pounds of protein supplement was needed to balance the ration for both the steers and heifers when 6 pounds of hay was fed.

Protein content of hay fed was low—12-14 per cent. Had a higher quality hay been fed, less supplemental protein would have been required, said Kolari, who pointed out that corn silage is low in protein.

It was also found that the average daily gains of steers and heifers fed 6 pounds of hay per head daily were 14.8 and 7.6 per cent less, respectively, than the steers and heifers fed no hay.

Weight gains of steers and heifers fed no hay, 2 pounds or 4 pounds of hay were almost the same.

Kolari also reported that average daily gain of 24 heifers not implanted with stilbestrol was 1.71 pound, while 22 heifers implanted with 12 milligrams of stilbestrol at the start of the trial gained 1.91 pounds daily, an increase of 0.2 pound.

Differences in weight gains of fattening heifers fed either 4, 6 or 8 pounds of hay with a full-feed of ground shelled corn were small, stated Kolari in reporting the results of other experiments.

"This is not surprising," he commented, "in view of the fact that for the three hay levels fed, the calculated daily total digestible nutrient intakes were 4 pounds, 14.36 pounds; 6 pounds, 14.26 pounds; and 8 pounds, 14.57 pounds.

"Although these preliminary results are from only one trial, they do suggest that minimum amounts of hay fed to fattening cattle are no markedly superior to moderate amounts when feedlot performance is the criterion. The effect of roughage level on ribbed carcass grades and ribeye marbling scores will be evaluated after the cattle are slaughtered."

One-half the heifers within each of six lots, totalling 46 head, were implanted with 12 milligrams of stilbestrol June 2, 1960. The heifers had been implanted with 12 milligrams of stilbestrol Feb. 16, 1960. The first implant increased average daily gains 0.2 pound.

Re-implanted heifers again outgained those not implanted. Average daily gains were 2.15 pounds for the implant group, compared with 1.91 for their controls—an increase of 0.24 pound.

County Boys, Girls Invited to Join 4-H

Many Advantages Offered Members in Club Work

Pennington county boys and girls who want to "learn by doing" in a variety of projects, have the fun of taking part in recreational activities and of meeting young people their own age will have an opportunity to join a local 4-H club this fall.

The Pennington county extension office and 4-H adult and junior leaders are encouraging youths between 9 and 21 years of age to enroll as soon as possible to get an early start in project work and to be included in fall activities.

Taking at least one project is a requirement of 4-H membership but 4-H'ers may choose what they will enjoy from a wide variety of projects offered in junior leadership, shop, gardening, conservation, safety, as well as homemaking and farming. In each project they "learn by doing" skills they can put to use immeditely as well as in later life.

Recreation at monthly meetings, parties, outings and trips give the members an opportunity to have fun and to meet young people their own age. They make new friends at meetings, at county fairs and camps.

The chance to hold office, to plan and conduct meetings and to demonstrate before a group develops leadership abilities and self-confidence.

Boys and girls interested in joining a 4-H club should see their local club leader or county extension agent. The countty exension office can supply the names of leaders and clubs in different areas of the county.

Rams Smothered by Prowlers on Friday

Scoring touchdowns on the first three occasions they obtained possession of the ball in the first half of play and adding a touchdown in the third period, the Prowlers scored a decisive 26 to 0 win over the Roseau Rams in a Northwest conference football game played at Roseau on Friday night.

This week the Prowlers will climax Homecoming festivities by playing the highly-rated Lakers of Detroit Lakes on the Lincoln high athletic field. Kickoff time for the game is at 8:00 P.M.

In Friday night's tilt at Roseau the Prowlers, defending the south goal and receiving the benefit of a slight breeze, kicked off to Roseau, with the Rams' Jerry Swenson making a 10-yard return to the Roseau 16-yard strip. Two Roseau running plays picked up five yards, a pass was incomplete, and on a fourth down Dave Backlund kicked to the Prowlers' 47-yard line, where the ball was downed.

Lloyd Ranum made three yards at right guard; Gary Klungness broke through left tackle for a first down on the Roseau 42-yard line. Klungness added 12 yards at right tackle. Ed Lietzow made three yards at left guard, and then Ranum, on a hard run, carried to the 7-yard line. Ranum gained three yards at right tackle, and Klungness followed with a 4-yard touchdown slash at left tackle. Klungness failed to add the point on a cutback of right tackle.

Roseau, accepting the kickoff, failed to gain yardage in three plays, and Backlund was forced to kick from the Rams' 47-yard line, the ball going out of bounds on the Prowlers' 19-yard line. Ten running plays gained five first downs and carried the ball to the Roseau 1-yard line as the first period ended. The long gainers in the sequence of plays were Klungness' 29-yard sprint through left tackle, carrying from the Prowlers' 30-yard line to Roseau's 41-yard stripe, and Lietzow's 16-yard quick-opener through left guard, moving the ball from the Roseau 27-yard line to the 11-yard line.

Ron Amundson's recovery of a Roseau fumble, on the Rams' 47-yard line, set up the third touchdown. Klungness hit left tackle for 11 yards; Aune, on an option, cut through left tackle for 8 yards; and then Ranum, busting through left tackle, sprinted twenty-eight yards for a touchdown. Klungness try for the conversion, on a run, failed to add the point, and the Prowlers held a 19 to 0 lead at the intermission.

Roseau, failing to gain thru the Prowler line by rushing, resorted to an aerial attack late in the second period to threaten a score. The passing combinations of Dave Backlund to Ricky Ulvin and Backlund to Dave Peterson, moved the ball from the Roseau 18-yard line to the Prowlers' 4-yard line, with first down and goal to goal. Backlund was tossed for a 3-yard loss, two pass plays were incomplete, and a fourth down pass completion gained but three yards, and the Prowlers gained possession on the 4-yard line.

A Prowler fumble, on the 10-yard line, gave the Rams another opportunity to score in the second period, but alert defensiveplay broke up three pass plays, and a running play was thrown for a loss.

The Prowlers notched their final touchdown in the opening minutes of the third period when they received the kickoff and moved from their own 41-yard line (after a fine return of the kickoff by Klungness) to the Roseau 4-yard line on nine running plays. Aune scored the TD on a sneak over center, and Lietzow added the point on a rush at right tackle, giving the Prowlers a commanding 26 to 0 lead.

Neither team made serious scoring threats in the remainder of the game, with fumbles and penalties hampering the offenses of the two teams.

A Little All-America Candidate

It's a certainty that Concordia college's hard-running Arlo Brunsberg will be given consideration when the time comes for the selecting of Little All-America football honors. And it is probable that Arlo, if he is fortunate enough to escape being injured in the Cobbers' remaining games, that he will be a Little All-America choice.

In the Cobbers' scheme of play, Brunsberg is the attacking weapon that has given coach Jake Christensen's club an undefeated season to date. But there is the ever-present threat of an injury, and with Brunsberg carrying the ball in three out of four plays on offense, Arlo is susceptible to injury. At six foot and weighing one hundred and eighty-five pounds, Brunsberg is plenty rugged, but there are times when ruggedness isn't any guarantee against football injuries.

We were included in the crowd of more than five thousand who, on Saturday afternoon, watched the Cobbers defeat a stubborn Augsburg college team, 34 to 13, in a MIAC game at Moorhead. While Brunsberg scored but one touchdown in the game, which found the Auggies holding a 13 to 12 lead at the halftime intermission, it was Arlo's workhorse play that accounted for most of the Cobber yardage. He was the difference that gave Concordia the win, and he was the standout player of the game.

While it was interesting to watch the play of Brunsberg, it was just as interesting to watch the play of sophomore Phil Hanson with the Augsburg team. The former Prowler was one of the better players in he game, and not even Brunsberg could match Phil in diversity of play.

Phil, for much of the game, played at left end on offense, and then, during the second half, he moved in at fullback on offense. He was the punter for the Auggies, and he maintained his reputation of being one of the best kickers in the MIAC conference by getting off several booming kicks that carried the ball deeply into Cobber territory. And not only is Phil an end and a fullback on offense, but he can move in as a capable quarterback for the Auggies. Said Augsburg's personable coach, Edor Nelson, "Phil is a valuable member of our squad for he can fulfill the duties of every backfield position. And he can play at end, on offense and defense, and move back into a safety position for kick returns."

We Need the Bums

At the baseball meeting held here last week there was some sentiment expressed as to the advisability of combining the talents of the Thieves of the Northern Minny league and the Bums of the Pen-Ro-Shall league into one club. It was the belief that such a club would be successful in winning a league championship in whichever league the team should join.

And that's perhaps true enough. From a selfish viewpoint we would like to see some league championships and regional playoff champions won by a local team. But from the viewpoint of the players, and giving young fellows an opportunity to play ball, we believe that the two teams, the Thieves and the Bums, should be encouraged. The Bums are a popular team in the Pen-Ro-Shall league, and they have created considerable good will in the years that they have been competing against Grygla, Goodridge, Badger, Plummer and Greenbush. That league needs the Bums.

And the Thieves, too, have been a factor in the play of the Northern Minny league. Being a bona fide home-talent club, the Thieves haven't been too successful in winning league titles or playoffs, but neither have they been the poorest team in the league.

The ideal arrangement would be for Wally Grovum's Bums' roster to be filled by the city's younger players, the players just out of high school, or in high school; and for the Thieves to have their roster made up of the older players.

We need the Bums, and we need the Thieves.

Should Be a Classic

On Wednesday afternoon the baseball World Series opens, and all fair-minded fans, and true sportsmen, will be hoping for a win, in six games, for the Pittsburgh Pirates. There are a few misguided individuals who are cheering for the Yankees and old man Stengel. And these individuals have been heard muttering something about a four-game series. That was in 1927 that the Yankees defeated Pittsburgh in the World Series, and by a four games to zero margin. And the Yankees of 1960, in spite of what Rog, and Bob, and Red, and Garf say, aren't to be compared with the Yankees of 1927. Both teams wore pin-stripe home uniforms, but that is the only comparison. The series should be a classic.

Another Classic

While the Series will monopolize the interest of the baseball fans on Wednesday we should mention that another classic will be played on the Lincoln high school field on Wednesday afternoon. We're referring, of course, to the Washington Wildcats vs. Northrop Indians grade school football game. In a previous meeting between the two clubs, played Sept. 21, coach George Schlieff's Washington team scored a 15 to 13 win over coach Dick Brooks' Northrop team. For the Wildcats it was a historic occasion.

Last week the Indians, in defeating the Knox Tigers, 25 to 14, revealed an aerial attack that proved devastating, with Jon Looker throwing three touchdown passes to end Billy Olson. The Wildcats, if they are to repeat their triumph of a couple of weeks ago will, in addition to stopping the power thrusts of fullback Dave DuPree, have to set up a defense against the accurate passing of Northrop quarterback Looker. This game, too, should be a classic. Kickoff time will be at 4:30.

LOOK WHAT DODGE HAS DONE FOR COMPACTS

The name, Lancer: one hardtop; one 2-door sedan; two 4-door sedans; two wagons. What kind of cars are they? This kind: two feet shorter; many pounds leaner; a couple of hundred dollars less in cost than usual automobiles. Lancer welcomes a family of six lavishly. Has plenty of trunk. Its fully-unitized body is very quiet, very tough. Lancer is also mannerly. It corners decisively, takes a well scarred road with aplomb. Parks obediently. More reasons to buy? Read on. The interiors are rich, but simple: Shed soil, wear well, feel good. The engine is highly spirited, but extremely light on regular gasoline. One more thing, Lancer is built by Dodge. Our name is on it. This means Lancer will stay nice and shiny. How so? The body is rustproofed by an exclusive Chrysler Corporation process. Enough talk. Meet Lancer at your Dodge Dealer. Now.

Canada Far in Lead As U.S. Customer

While Canada was still far ahead in the lead as the best customer of American exporters in 1959, Japan replaced Mexico in second position, according to a comparative per capita tabulation of exports and imports for 1958 and 1959 compiled by the National Council of American Importers.

A study of the table reveals that on a per capita basis, the United States buys only a fraction from most countries of what they buy from the U.S. This in spite of the fact that import trade volume was higher in 1959 than in 1958.

Canadians, for example, last year bought $209.48 worth of goods on a per capita basis from us. We bought from Canadians only $17.14 worth on the same basis.

The United Kingdom took third position as our best customer in 1959, rising from fourth place in the previous year.

Fourth place was taken by the Federal Republic of Germany, which the previous year was sixth on the table, while Venezuela remained in fifth position.

Mexico, which held second place as importer of our goods in 1958, fell to sixth position. The Netherlands also moved up from tenth place in 1958 to seventh in 1959.

Our exports to Canada increased over the previous year mainly in grains and other edible vegetable products, wood manufactures, vehicles and chemical specialties. There was also an increase in our imports from Canada in inedible veegetable products, paper manufactures, metal and metal manufactures, and sporting goods. This increase was partially offset by a decrease in imports of edible and inedible animal products (furs, skins, etc.)

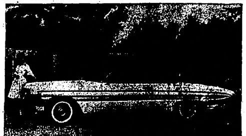
Our 1959 exports to Japan, amounting to 930 million dollars, were about 100 million dollars more than in 1958, but our 1959 imports from that country of $1,018 million were 50 per cent more than in the previous year.

The increase in our exports to Japan took place in practically all groups, but particularly in edible vegetable products, oil seeds, raw cotton metal manufactures, machines and chemical specialties. Likewise, imports from Japan were higher in all categories, but the greatest increase was in rubber manufactures, textiles, wood manufactures, clay products, steel mill goods, electronics, industrial chemicals and toys.

U.S. exports to the United Kingdom showed an increase in edible and inedible animal products, but a decrease in minerals, metals and metal manufactures. The United Kingdom sold the U.S. more automobiles, electrical machinery, metals, and metal products.

In 1959, we sold to Germany more edible and inedible animal products and machinery, but less textiles, minerals and metal manufactures. There was a considerable increase in U.S. imports of automobiles, copper manufactures, textiles and steel mill products from Germany.

Mexico dropped to sixth position as our customer in 1959 from second place in 1958 because of a sharp decrease in our exports of grains, petroleum, automobiles and metal manufactures to that country.



OLDSMOBILE'S all-new and distinctive styling motif for 1961 is exemplified by the Dynamic 88 Holiday Coupe which will go on display at Northern Chevrolet, Inc. Thursday, October 6. The new body lines give the cars a long, sleek look but overall length of the 88's has been reduced three inches. The Super 88 is powered by the high performing 325-horsepower Skyrocket engine. Standard engine for Dynamic models is the 250-horsepower Rocket engine designed to operate on lower cost regular-grade gasoline. All 1961 Oldsmobiles are available in a full range of 15 exterior colors, including nine metallic finishes. Interiors are the most attractive in Oldsmobile's history with bright new fabrics color-harmonized with the exterior finishes.

Outboard Motors Include Features for Added Safety

"The 1961 line of Evinrude motors is so designed as to give additional safety and convenience to boating," Don Olson, owner of the Coast to Coast store, Evinrude dealer in Thief River Falls announced this week.

"There are two new models of the 75 horsepower V-4," Olson continued. "On the Starflite III, Evinrude has introduced temperature controlled fixed-jet carburetion, additional sound a1-stream design that applies functioning principles and a Jetstream to form. The Starflite III with Uni-charger is the luxury model which adds a high-output AC generator to the other features of this leader for 1961.

"In addition to providing a full range of quiet, efficient power to meet every boating need, we are offering a full range of quiet, efficient power to meet every boating need, we are offering advancements in outboard design that will mean additional comfort and personal pleasure for all boat owners."

Improved fuel efficiency in the larger horsepower models has been accomplished through the introduction of the first perfected fixed-jet carburetion, made practical by the thermostat control of engine temperature. The high capacity AC generator on the luxury Starflite III will begin charging at idling speeds and increase to a 20 amp output, making it possible to include more electrical equipment on boating rigs.

A broad range of power from the streamlined 75 to the "take-along" three is offered. This includes the popular 40s, the versatile 18, the powerful and portable 10 and 5.5, and the bantamweight three. All motors from the 75 to the 5.5 include thermostatic engine temperature, full motor-running gearshift, the Jetstream sound-bottling principles and new principles in bearing design.

MEA Searching for Oldest School

The Minnesota Education Association which has some 28,000 members throughout the state, is celebrating its centennial and will have its convention October 20-21 in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

During this centennial observance, the MEA would like to find the oldest school building in Minnesota still used as a school.

Available records indicate that Lincoln elementary school at Collins and Burr in St. Paul, built in 1874, is the oldest such structure but records are by no means all-inclusive. It is entirely possible that some building out-state can antedate St. Paul's Lincoln.

If you know of one, the particulars can be sent to the Minnesota Education Association, 41 Sherburne Avenue, St. Paul 3, Minnesota.

Cheese is Leader in Plentiful Foods

Specials in Wide Variety of Cheeses are Available

Cheese will be one of the most plentiful foods on October markets.

Food shoppers can look for specials in a wide variety of cheese, according to Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota. Traditionally October is designated as Cheese Festival month by the dairy industry.

Production of cheese is larger this year than in 1959.

Evidence of the increasing popularity of this food is that consumption in recent years has averaged more than eight pounds per person compared to less than six pounds in pre-war years.

Another abundant October food will be beef. Supplies of good, choice and prime grades will be about the same as in recent months but there will be considerably more of the leaner-type beef for hamburgers, stews and minute steaks.

Other protein foods on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentifuls are tender young chicken, turkeys in all sizes and lamb. Retail prices for turkey and for chicken should make them among the best buys of the month.

The cranberry crop is expected to set another record this year. In addition to big supplies of fresh berries, canned cranberry sauce and jelly and bottled cranberry juice will be plentiful. Present estimates indicate that this year's cranberry crop will be four per cent larger than last year's record crop and 29 per cent above average.

Rice for hot dishes and puddings and fall-crop potatoes, excellent for baking, complete the list of abundant foods for October.

Editorials . . .

"The seemingly ever-growing trend to specialization in the medical field is leading to a breakdown in the all-important doctor-patient relationship because of the fewer numbers of general practitioners. Only physicians can establish and maintain this delicate relationship. Specialization, with its unavoidable treatment of the patient as a case rather than an individual human being, does not readily lend itself to this end.

"If this relationship can be established and maintained, if doctors treat their patients as individuals, then the case for state medicine will lose much of its potency." —Calgary Herald

Welcome The Bergens

Thief River Falls will have the honor Thursday of being host to a group of distinguished entertainers, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bergen and their co-workers, Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd. They are here in the campaign interests of their friend Vice President Richard Nixon. It therefore will be a political meeting but a political meeting of an unusual kind.

In the course of an average political campaign we hear serious attempts at oratory that occasionally are funny. Edgar Bergen's campaign contribution will be in his best laugh-producing style but it nevertheless will be serious.

The Bergens are here as a result of an effort made by a group of local businessmen to bring campaigners of national reputation into this area. Thief River Falls is not on the beaten path and the celebrities are not ordinarily booked for appearances in the smaller cities. But those who make the decisions in both of the major parties were informed of the wishes of the local group and the facilities that could be made available to accommodate a large gathering. School officials had approved an arrangement whereby the high school gymnasium could be used, providing seats for an audience of 2,500 people.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York was a possibility on the Republican side and Senator Lyndon Johnson was, and still is, hoped for as a speaker for the Democrats. Rockefeller came to Minnesota and appeared on the Iron Range and in Minneapolis. A visit to Northwestern Minnesota didn't fit into the schedule. Then suddenly the Bergens became a possibility. Could an afternoon meeting be arranged? It could. And that's that.

It came on short notice and there wasn't much time for a good publicity build-up. But Edgar Bergen is one of America's most versatile performers. Millions of laughter-hungry fans have been thrilled by the genial entertainer's unique artistry and we are sure he needs no introduction to the people of this corner of the state who have been on the receiving end of many of his programs over radio and television.

This is one political meeting that we are sure will be enjoyed by all who attend, regardless of what their partisan preferences may be.

A Wasted Effort

We are beginning to think that the most effective helper for our side in the argument with Nikita is Nikita himself. He seems to have done an excellent job of discrediting himself in another tirade before the United Nations general assembly Saturday. His conduct indicates that he is becoming desperate. Maybe he is not too sure of a friendly welcome when he returns to Moscow.

His sudden interest in Red China is interesting. Reports from reliable sources reveal serious differences between the Soviet government and the government of Red China. Castro is getting bigger headlines in Chinese newspapers than Khrushchev. The Wall Street Journal reports that "Peiping cranks out new attacks on Moscow's 'peaceful coexistence' line. Russian technicians stream steadily out of China, on Mao's demand or otherwise."

Khrushchev's conduct in New York makes it difficult to determine just what it is that he wants. There are so many contradictions in what he says and does that about the only reasonable conclusion is that what he wants most is confusion.

On Friday representatives of five neutral countries asked for an Eisenhower-Khrushchev summit meeting in an attempt to create an atmosphere in which negotiations for disarmament might be resumed. Nehru of India was one of the five and we may presume that the group acted in good faith. Then on Saturday Khrushchev killed all hopes for such a meeting.

Under the circumstances, any meeting with Khrushchev would now be a waste of President Eisenhower's time.

Rose-Colored Glasses?

There is much talk these days about business recessions, coming and going. Business volume in most lines has been holding up well but there have been some weaknesses. The recession has been mainly in the stock market up to this time, and the economists are not in agreement as to the cause for the downward trend in the value of stocks.

In a campaign year a recession can affect the outcome of an election. Some politicians are blaming the present recession on the administration's so-called tight-money policy. Others blame it to soft money, pointing to the much higher interest rate money brings in other countries, encouraging American investments abroad. We will not attempt to explain why things are as they are.

We do wonder occasionally if there is too much talk about such things. Do we create depressions just by talking about them? Perhaps too much talk can be harmful, but in general, the facts, whether they are good or bad, should be made known. We like the following editorial comment on this phase of the subject by Business Week:

"Once again business is in a period when the outlook is uncertain and the signals are mixed. At such a time, people are likely to divide into two groups—those who think the press should report the business news just as exactly as it comes, whether good or bad, and those who think that only the rosy news should get into print.

"The latter group is in the best American booster tradition, but it is operating on a theory of economics rather similar to the medical doctrines of the late Dr. Coue who taught his followers to go around telling themselves, "Day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better." The economic version of this psychotherapy holds that the business cycle is entirely a matter of confidence. Good business comes from happy thinking; slumps occur when confidence falters.

"It's a nice simple theory, but it has practically nothing to do with the facts. Economic research in the past 30 years has shown again and again that the business cycle is no figment of anybody's imagination. It operates according to laws of its own. And it won't go away obligingly just because nobody notices it.

"Any responsible news magazine has a duty to report what it sees. And we are convinced that any intelligent businessman is far better equipped to deal with the realities of the business cycle if he is given honest, factual reporting and not a cloud of opium smoke."

Talking Tactic

(Wall Street Journal)

Castro, of course, would be brief. With his assurance on that, the U.N. General Assembly settled back to hear him out. Four and a half hours later, when the fuzzy Cuban wound up his rambling harangue, most of his audience was in a stupor.

Like Khrushchev, who gabbed at the U.N. for more than two hours on an earlier day, Castro seems to rely on the old Bolshevik tactic of boring from within.

Look for Change

(Don Brown in Waseca Journal)

Most sobering thought of recent weeks was the announcement that the United States public debt exceeds the combined indebtedness of all other nations in the world.

It emphasizes the fact that not alone the nation's debt but the Minnesota debt too has reached an all-time high. Result is that people are becoming alarmed when they hear state leaders try to pass off the debt as nothing. Worse still, some try to fool the people into the belief that it is not a debt.

What has brought about the debt? Excessive spending, the same cause which last week prompted Christian F. Beukema, president of Oliver Iron Mining division of U. S. Steel, to speak out on an unfavorable tax climate in Minnesota. He said that investment capital that might come to Minnesota is being channeled to other areas of the world where new, high-grade deposits of ore are being opened.

A more favorable tax climate would stimulate large investments in low-grade ore development in Minnesota, he was quoted as saying.

When Minnesota had almost a monopoly on the iron ore business the tax was not so important for it could be passed on to the consumer. Today iron ore reserves are coming to light in abundance elsewhere with the result that the tax becomes more and more a factor.

Comics Crusade Isn't Funny

(Financial Post, Canada)

Those comic-strip pen and ink heroes aren't always funny. They can be insidious.

Some of their adventures are packed with propaganda which, according to a Washington report, is swallowed by U.S. politicians among 27 million readers of 642 newspapers which carry the strips.

The dashing exploits of uniformed characters like Steve Canyon, Buz Sawyer and Terry and the Pirates help lobbyists seeking funds and recruits for the U.S. Air Force and U. S. Navy.

Comic-strip artists are sometimes fed information to help the cause. A recent Buz Sawyer episode against a Soviet nuclear submarine neatly coincided with a Navy campaign for funds for anti-submarine warfare. Canyon supported Air Force howls when Eisenhower talked about cutting back plans for a supersonic plane.

Could it happen here? The glamorous adventures of a Pit Head Harry or a Terry Towel, in the hands of a skillful artist-propagandist, might do wonders for our mining or textile industries—that is, if Canadians would fall for this sort of guff.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"Have you been to any other doctor before you came to see me?" asked the grouchy doctor.

"No, sir," replied the meek patient, "I went to a druggist."

"That shows how much sense some people have!" growled the doctor, "And what sort of idiotic advice did he give you?"

"He told me to come see you."

Check Shows Need for Vehicle Repairs

A total of 39,541 vehicles received a 10-point check for safe driving condition in Minnesota communities during the 1960 national vehicle safety check program and one out of five (8,133 of those checked) were found to need immediate service attention to one or more of the items included on the safety check list.

Harry A. Sieben, state coordinator for the voluntary inspection program, said figures were compiled from statistical reports of 40 communities submitted to the national office. In addition, safety checks were held in 26 other communities where reports have not yet been submitted.

Vehicle safey check programs in Minnesota were conducted during the summer as part of a national campaign in states not requiring official motor vehicle inspection, under the sponsorship of the Auto Industries Highway Safety committee and Look magazine. In Minnesota, statewide sponsors included the Minnesota Automobile Dealers association, the Independent Garage Owners, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, various veterans groups and the Minnesota and local safety councils.

Where national results show one out of every six vehicles had at least one unsafe item, Minnesota figures showed 20 per cent of vehicles were deficient mechanically. Rear lights headed the list of items most often found needing attention, with 2,746 vehicles, 35 per cent of those rejected, deficient in this area. Other defects found in order of frequency were in front lights, brakes, tires and exhaust systems. Other items checked were windshield wipers, steering, horn, glass and rear view mirror.

In announcing the results of the 1960 voluntary vehicle check program, Mr. Sieben congratulated the thousands of motorists who had their cars checked. He added a special word of commendation to those who, after discovering unsafe items, had them corrected immediately so they could have their vehicles rechecked during the emphasis program.

"These car owners who made this extra effort have shown their willingness to accept their share of responsibility for the safety of the motoring public," Sieben said. "They recognize it is more important than ever that all vehicles be maintained in the best possible condition."

Two states which participated in the 1960 campaign will be missing from those taking part in 1961, Sieben noted. Mississippi and Louisiana have recently adopted legislation requiring official inspection of motor vehicles, a program which is recommended for this state in the legislative proposals of the Minnesota Safety council.

Steers in Feed lots May Be Deficient in Vitamin A Intake

Supplement Gives Faster, More Effective Results Than Meal in Restoration

Feedlot steers may show symptoms of vitamin A deficiency even when they are expected to have good stores of carotene and vitamin A and are fed a ration meeting their approximate carotene requirement, Beef-Grassland Field Day visitors were told at the University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment station.

A. L. Neumann, University of Illinois animal scientist, added that stilbestrol use apparently does not increase chances of a vitamin A deficiency outbreak in feedlot cattle.

Vitamin A, the most important vitamin in cattle nutrition, if formed in an animal's body from carotene supplied in the ration. Almost any combination of good green roughage and yellow corn will supply more carotene than an animal requires. Also, an animal stores carotene and vitamin A in its body and draws on these stores if the supply in the ration is low.

Neumann dscribed an outbreak of vitamin A deficiency in the Illinois experimental herd:

Thirty western feeder calves, all steers, had been on feed for over nine months when the herd suddenly went off-feed. Examination of several animals showed most of the classic symptoms of vitamin A shortage—lameness and edema (fluid collection and swelling) in the briskets, knees, hocks and hoof heads; loose joints and muscles; night blindness; and a generally unthrifty condition with dead-looking hair coats.

Some of the steers became extremely open shouldered and some suffered from convulsive seizures when they were moved about.

Before the outbreak, the animals had been fed various rations. For the first six weeks, some were on good pasture and others got a full-feed of good legume-grass hay.

For the next 16 weeks they were fed hay, supplement and a full-feed of good corn silage. Then for eight weeks the steers were fed either dry or high-moisture shelled corn, a supplement and good legume-grass hay.

Next the animals were put on a frequency of feeding trial with a complete ration of 64 per cent shelled corn, 10 per cent soybean meal, 1 per cent alfalfa meal and 25 per cent corncobs. Average daily gains were 2.07 pounds.

Steers had been on this ration for eight weeks when the vitamin A deficiency showed up. Afflicted animals went off-feed. Average daily gains skidded to 1.28 pounds. Some of the steers even lost weight.

The herd was then split into three groups. Each group included steers which had been implanted with stilbestrol at levels of 0, 12, 24, 36 and 48 milligrams.

A control group was fed a basic ration of 65 per cent ground shelled corn, 25 per cent ground corn cobs and 10 per cent alfalfa meal. A second group was fed the basic ration plus alfalfa meal and the third group was fed the basic ration and a commercial vitamin A supplement.

In less than a week, both lots of treated steers showed a dramatic increase in appetite with marked improvement in rate of gain and feed efficiency.

Neuman summarized the Illinois trials:

- The outbreak occurred in feedlot steers on a ration which furnished about their normal carotene requirement.
- Previous stilbestrol implantation showed no relation either to the onset of the deficiency or to the rate of recovery.
- During the period of treatment, the alfalfa meal lot gained 83 per cent more than the controls while the vitamin A supplemented lot gained more than twice as fast as the control lot. Thus, vitamin A supplement appears to give somewhat faster, more effective results than alfalfa meal in restoring animals to normal performance.
- Liver storage increased progressively with graded levels of supplemental vitamin A but was almost nil in untreated controls.

In Minnesota trials, O. E. Kolari found no effect on feedlot performance of cattle fed massive dosages of viamin A—100,000 units per head daily—for either five or 10 days. However, the blood plasma content of vitamin A was higher for western feeder steers fed massive dosages than for steers not fed vitamin A. None of the steers showed vitamin A deficiency.

Heifers fed massive doses of the vitamin had about the same blood plasma vitamin A values as heifers which didn't get vitamin A supplement.

Device Developed To Make Liquid Gas from Lignite

Two University of North Dakota faculty members were members of a research team which has developed a new device to turn the vast stores of North Dakota lignite coal into an easily-transportable gas which can be used as a fuel for home and industry.

Wayne R. Kube, associate professor of chemical engineering, and Palmer J. Reiten, associate professor of mechanical engineering, along with Gordon H. Gronhovd, a UND engineering graduate, assisted in the development of the new pressure gasifier which has made several highly successful test runs at the Bureau of Mines lignite research laboratory on the UND campus.

A pilot plant in the laboratory has been developed, but much more investigative work must be done before the process will be practical for commercial use, according to James L. Elder, chief of the Bureau laboratory. Since the 1930's gas has been generated in Europe from brown coal which is similar to North Dakota lignite It has been used a source of chemicals and as a fuel in localities where it is plentiful, he said.

The 350 billion tons of North Dakota lignite, plus the 113 billion tons in other states, if converted to gas, could be transmitted easily by existing natural gas pipe lines, Elder said. Lignite, thus, could supply part of the nation's fuel needs for centuries.

In the new process, the coal is partially burned to remove some of the impurities and then combined with steam under high pressure to create the gas. The use of high pressure is a significant step forward because the process can take place at a much higher temperature and it is more economical. Using pressure, the waste products of the conversion process are removed as a liquid.

The raw gas generated in the pilot plant is much like water gas which is made with coke and steam all over the world. Treatment of this raw gas yields synthesis gas, from which many valuable chemicals, as well as liquid or gas fuels similar to natural gas, may be obtained.

Booklet on Rocks Is Now Available

How much does the earth weigh? Which continents float? What's the most valuable rock in the world? How much gold is there in an average sample of earth? What's cohenite and why is it so special? Why is this sentence useful: "The girls can flirt and other queer things can do."?

The answers to these questions and other interesting information can be found in a 17-page, illustrated booklet called "Let's Collect Rocks" just published by Shell Oil Company.

The booklet is a general introduction to rock and mineral collecting. Written for beginners, it defines rocks and minerals, tells what fossils are and how they were formed, has tips on starting a collection, doing field work, displaying samples, identifying specimens and turning rough gems into jewelry.

"Let's Collect Rocks" is the second "Let's Collect" booklet put out by the company. The first is "Let's Collect Shells". Written more or less in self-defense — to answer the constant question "How did Shell Oil company get its name?" the booklet has been so popular that the company produced the follow-up, "Let's Collect Rocks". The foreword explains how knowledge of rocks is essential to finding oil and tells something about the "rockhounds" that work for Shell.

To get a free copy, write: Shell Oil company, 50 West 50th St., New York 20, New York

P. S. If you can't wait, here are the answers: 6.6 sextillion tons; all of them; soil; .0000006 per cent; a mineral, found only in meteorites; it's a key to the hardness of minerals.

In observance of National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, a program appropriate to the occasion was presented at the Lions club luncheon meeting Wednesday by Henry Howard of Crookston, rpresentative of the vocational rehabilitation division of the state employment service.

Introduced by Juel Stadum of the local office, Howard gave a talk illustrated by slides in which he outlined the services open to the handicapped to help them rehabilitate themselves, and cited the many kinds of work they are qualified to perform.

Bill LaFave announced that a representative of the state highway department will be in this city October 26 in an effort to clarify the status of the projected wayside park at the east end of the Eighth st. bridge. The club voted to sponsor a luncheon meeting that day, with local officials as guests.

TB Testing Opens in Local Schools Late in October

All School Grades from Kindergarten Thru High School to Be Included

The School Health Council met Tuesday evening, October 4, to plan the health program for the present school year. Sixteen members of the health team, faculty and school administration discussed the health problems with group chairman, Dr. George Martin.

Tuberculin testing was the important topic of discussion. The Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association is encouraging all school to become certified for TB control. By June of 1960, 3,900 schools in Minnesota had been awarded certificates. Thief River Falls schools were not among this large group, because only certain grades are tested in the schedule of past years.

This year an attempt will be made to test all grades from kindergarten through 12th. Instead of testing a few grades each year, all grades will be tested every other year. Intensive effort must be made to interest the entire student body as 100 per cent is the goal.

Testing will be started late in October and continue into November. Dr. Flancher of the Crookston sanatorium will administer the test. To be ready by October 24, the Mantoux permits should be returned to the school as soon as the students have them signed by their parents, says Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse.

September Weather Warmer Than in 1959

There was little to distinguish the weather during September of '60 from any other year. The past month was no less pleasant either from the standpoint of temperatures or precipitation, just 30 days of good seasonal northwestern Minnesota weather.

The high was registered the second day when 89 was recorded and the low, a 32, was posted early in the morning of the last day.

The average high of 69.1 was a little warmer than 1959's 64.9 and 1958's 66.7 and the average low of 46.6 was also a little warmer than 1959's 44.3 and 1958's 43.4.

Precipitation of 1.42 inches fell short of last year's 2.74 but was ahead of 1958's 0.82 inch. The greatest amount registered in one day was the first of the month when 0.49 inch fell.

Looking forward to the month of October and what may be expected, the first snow recorded last year was on the ninth and the first reporting of ice on the river was the 13th. The lowest temperature of the month, 12 degrees, was on the 27th.
